House Passes Pay Bill, 3-1; Beats South's Differentials

Overwhelming Coalition Jams Action Through by 314 to 97.

Standards Same For All Sections

Administration Leaders Smother All But Few Minor Changes.

By Sidney Olson.

An uproarious House passed the wage-hour bill last night by a crushing majority, 314 to 97.

Final action came after 12 tense hours of fighting debate, in which a coalition of members from the North and West trampled with monotonous regularity all efforts of Southern members to obtain sectional differentials.

The breakdown of the vote:

Against: Democrats, 56; Republicans, 41—total, 97.

The vote, sending the "escalator-type" bill to the Senate, came just one year to the day after President Roosevelt sent to Congress his first message seeking passage of a wage-hour bill, when he wrote, "The time has arrived . . . to extend the frontiers of social progress."

Starts at 25 Cents An Hour.

But where the President sought a bill "having due regard for local and geographic diversities" the House, which divided so sharply last December on the issue that such a bill was recommitted, passed just before 11 o'clock last night a bill which:

Starts minimum wages off at 25 cents an hour for the first year, with this wage to be increased 3 cents a year for three years until a 40-cent limit is reached;

Starts the maximum work week at 44 hours, graduating this down two hours a year for two years to a 40-hour limit; and

Vests administration of the bill in the Department of Labor.

Senate Next Hurdle.

A Republican attempt to recommit the bill again failed just before the final vote by an almost identical margin, 314 to 96.

The measure now goes to the Senate, which passed last summer a bill embodying flexible differentials and establishing a separate Labor Standards Board which would study local conditions before imposing minimum wages and maximum hours.

The vast differences in the bills must be reconciled swiftly if the bill is to go to the White House this session, since an already adjournment-restless House is now through with major legislation for the session, while the Senate is expected to conclude action on its last major bill, the President's omnibus recovery measure, this week.

Compromise Likely.

Attention now will be focused on the Senate, where Administration leaders have thus far indicated their desire to stand by the flexible Senate bill, but where all efforts thus far to arouse a Southern Democratic filibuster have failed. Only Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, has indicated a desire to "talk at length" on the bill, and it is understood that Har-

Intended Victim Of an Abduction

LORD NUFFIELD.

Lord Nuffield, Britain's Ford, Balks Kidnap

Motor Magnate Who Gave $100,000,000 to Charity, Laughs at Crime.

By the Associated Press.

London, May 24.—Two men were arrested tonight in a daring attempt to kidnap Viscount Nuffield, the "Henry Ford of Britain" who has given millions of dollars to charity.

The men were seized after they had entered Lord Nuffield's office at the Cowley motor works near Oxford and ordered the magnate to enter their automobile.

The plant already had closed for the night.

A friend of Nuffield's in a nearby office heard the men's voices and called police.

The two men were arrested quickly.

A short time later Lord Nuffield told members of his Morris Motor Co. band, who were practicing near the office:

"Well boys, what do you think of it? Two men have just tried to kidnap me."

Britain, where kidnaping is virtually without precedent, was amazed at the daring attempt.

Britons frequently have held the United States up to scorn for the wave of kidnapings there and because of the fact Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh sought refuge in England.

The American flier and his wife, with their two children, live less than 100 miles from the scene of the attempt on Nuffield.

The two men were taken to the Oxford police station where they were held incommunicado. Officials refused to disclose their identities. They will be brought before a magistrate for hearing tomorrow.

Silver-haired and nervous, Nuffield has given away nearly $100,000,000 in the past 15 years.

Last week he agreed to co-operate with the government's scheme for air rearmament. It was thought he was working on plans for a new factory to build planes when the intruders entered.

The would-be kidnapers arrived in front of the factory in a large limousine and boldly walked into the plant.

A personal friend of the manufacturer, Kennerley Rumford, overheard them order Nuffield to leave the building and enter their car. He telephoned for police from another part of the building.

Franco Lines Shattered in Border Drive

8,500 Loyalists Slain in Catalonia Battle, Rebels Claim.

By the United Press.

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, May 24.—Nearly 100,000 government troops, massed in one of the biggest offensives of the civil war, today ripped gaping holes in Gen. Franco's lines along the Catalonian border, but at a huge cost in dead and wounded.

Insurgent authorities, admitting violent battles along a 55-mile front just below the French frontier, said 8,500 loyalists had been killed and between 4,000 and 5,000 wounded.

The government also claimed a victory near Motril on the southern Mediterranean coast, where a land-and-sea attack reduced an insurgent fort at Corchuna; 300 loyalist Asturians were rescued from prison there.

The spearhead of the northern steam-roller drive, led by Gen. Vicente Rojo, pushed toward the artificial lakes around Tremp, less than 40 miles south of the Franco-Spanish frontier. The lakes feed five huge hydroelectric plants seized by Franco in March.

The power plants are sorely needed by the Barcelona government to keep its war industries going.

A Barcelona communique said that the loyalists, maintaining the initiative in daylong fighting, drove across the San Cornelio Mountain range to within 6½ miles of the Tremp power plants after capturing the towns of San Romas de Abella and Bastus, east of Tremp.

The loyalists, including five brigades of international troops, drove wedges in the insurgent lines by the force of their superior numbers, but insurgent dispatches reported tonight that control of the lakes, dams and power stations in the vicinity of Tremp was unchanged.

The loyalists, reporting the capture of important mountain peaks dominating the Noguera-Pallaresa valley serving the power stations, said the insurgent-held town of Sort—directly west of the Andorran border and 21 miles north of Tremp—was completely surrounded and that an entire column of Italian "Black Arrows" had surrendered there.

Sort was said to have been cut off from Tremp on the south and Roosevelt One of Few Who Had Advance News of 64-Year-Old Secretary's Romance With Sister of Daughter-in-Law.

Harold L. Ickes, square-jawed Secretary of the Interior, and his athletic, 25-year-old bride were honeymooning in Cork, Ireland, last night.

Four miles away was the famed "Blarney Stone," which every bridegroom is expected to kiss that he may better describe his colleen's charms.

The marriage of Ickes, 64-year-old widower, to red-headed Jane Dahlman, sister of his daughter-in-law, was solemnized in Dublin yesterday morning and caught Washington society completely by surprise. Less than a dozen persons here—President Roosevelt was one—knew that romance was ahead when Ickes left last week for New York, there to board the Normandie incognito.

And yet there had been "signs." A little more than two years ago, Secretary Ickes arrived at one of those big Washington receptions, his first social venture since the death of his wife in August, 1935. With him was a tall, titian-haired girl wearing a tweed suit, sports hat and polo coat that were in sharp contrast to the silver foxes and somber black of the other feminine guests.

She was Jane Dahlman, not long out of Smith College, where she played tennis, rode horseback, devoured history and was graduated cum laude in 1935. Dudley Harmon, of The Post's society staff, who had been her classmate at Smith, asked Miss Dahlman what brought her to Washington and how she got to know a celebrity so soon.

Miss Dahlman explained that Mr. Ickes was the stepfather of Wilmarth Ickes, husband of her sister, Elizabeth.

She further explained that Secretary Ickes had just obtained a job for her. It was doing research work in the Library of Congress for the National Parks Service of the Interior Department.

Thereafter Ickes took Miss Dahlman to at least one White House party, and she was occasoinally to be seen at his press

Hammer Blow Kills Alcatraz Aide in Break

2 Surviving Felons to Face Murder Charge; Third Slain in Flight.

San Francisco, May 24 (U.P.).—R. C. Cline, Alcatraz Federal Penitentiary guard, slugged by three convicts last night in an unsuccessful escape attempt, died in Bayview Marine Hospital tonight.

The two survivors of the dash, Rufus Franklin, 24, and James C. Lucas, 26, probably will be tried on first degree murder charges.

United States District Attorney Frank J. Hennessey previously had said that in event of Cline's death the pair would be tried in Federal court for murder.

The third convict, Thomas R. Limerick, 36, one of the Midwest's most notorious bank robbers, died last night of bullet wounds.

Warden James A. Johnston said the break started in a woodworking shop on the top floor of the prison factory building. The trio walked until Cline stooped over some work to inspect it, knocked him unconscious with a hammer and escaped through a window.

Reaching the roof, they attempted to hit a guard by throwing iron missles at him in his glassed-in lookout tower. The glass was shatterproof, however, and the guard shot and wounded Franklin and Limerick. Lucas then surrendered.

The victims were Mrs. Louis Thomas and her son, Stanley.

Alexander Bustamante, leader of Jamaican labor, was arrested by a party of 15 policemen. His chief aide, named Grant, also was taken into custody.

(In London the admiralty, taking swift action to deal with the Jamaica labor trouble, announced it had ordered the 6,840-ton cruiser Ajax from Bermuda to Kingston.)

Thousands threatening the jail in which Bustamante was lodged were dispersed by police using bayonets.

Hopkins Backs Wearin in Iowa Against Gillette

By the United Press.

Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said yesterday that if he were a voter in Iowa he would support the candidacy of Representative Otha D. Wearin, who is seeking to win the Democratic Senatorial nomination from Senator Guy M. Gillette, incumbent.

Hopkins, an Iowa native and graduate of Grinnell College in that State, said his support of the farmer-representative would be based on his record in Congress.

Wearin, an ardent New Dealer and champion of farm legislation, recently announced he would attempt to unseat Gillette, who has been inconsistent in supporting the Administration.

Paris Asks U. S. Aid.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, May 24.—French efforts to obtain United States diplomatic support for preventing war between Germany and Czechoslovakia tonight encountered a cool American reception.

A French foreign ministry spokesman said Georges Bonnet, foreign minister and former ambassador to Washington, had asked the United States to join France and Britain in bringing pressure on Germany to refrain from any move against her mid-European neighbor.

An American embassy spokesman, however, insisted no such request had been received and there was no question of joint action including the United States.

Diplomatic quarters believed the need of American support was diminished now that the Czechoslovak government at least had started negotiations with the Germanic minority, source of the war tension, but that France might renew her request if a new crisis arose.

The French foreign ministry asserted its request had been made twice through United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt in Paris and through the French Ambassador in Washington, Rene Doynel de St. Quentin.

Bullitt conferred at length with Bonnet today, his second visit since the Czech crisis arose, but the embassy said his visits were solely for information on the crisis.

On his first call Sunday, the foreign ministry spokesman said Bullitt was asked specifically for the United States to make diplomatic representations in Berlin similar to those made by Britain and

Murder Jury Frees Langdon In 70 Minutes

By Howard F. Wentworth.

A District Court jury, deliberating 1 hour and 10 minutes, last night acquitted Robert F. Langdon, former Metropolitan policeman, of slaying Beulah Limerick, 19-year-old secretary of the once-popular Sky High Whoopie Club.

His voice husky with emotion, Langdon stood in the center of a throng of well-wishers a few moments after the verdict was announced and mumbled words of appreciation.

Apparently dazed by the rapidity with which he was exonerated—it was one of the quickest "not guilty" verdicts by a murder case jury in recent years—the erstwhile defendant walked from the courtroom between Russell and William Kelly, his defense attorneys.

"What are your plans . . . what do you intend to do now?" Langdon was asked by reporters.

"I don't know," he replied, grinning broadly at those who continued to take his hand. "I'm flat broke, down and out. Let me think awhile, will you?"

"Going to Have a Drink."

As he left the courthouse, a free man for the first time in 14 months, Langdon was met by a battery of news photographers. He had been dodging them for several weeks.

"Smile, Langdon," the picture men shouted, "smile!"

Sleeper Ship Catches Fire In Air 8 Miles From Its Goal

7 Passengers, Crew of 3 Listed as Victims in Death Pyre.

Flames Light Up Ravine for Hour

Trees Rip Off Wings; Last Radio Call Heard Few Minutes Before.

By the Associated Press.

Cleveland, May 24.—Ten persons met flaming death tonight in the crash of a United Airlines plane only 8 miles from its scheduled landing here.

For more than an hour gasoline-fed flames shot into the clear sky.

Within three hours police and firemen had recovered all ten bodies—all fearfully burned.

The huge ship, en route from Newark, N. J., to Cleveland, clipped through trees and underbrush on its plunge. One wing was left on a hill about 100 feet from the main portion of the ship. Another wing lay in the bottom of the ravine.

Pilot James L. "Monty" Brandon.

Co-pilot A. S. "Bud" Merrified, Chicago.

C. F. Lickel, of New York.

R. P. Morrell, of New York.

R. C. Lewis, of Ansonia, Conn.

L. Arthur Doty, 42, of Boston, Mass.

John Brostuen, listed from Alexander, N. Dak., believed a member of the North Dakota State Planning Board.

J. R. Moffett, believed to be from Chicago.

E. H. Veblin, test pilot, Douglas Aircraft Corporation.

Washington Connection.

[The plane was to have made connections at Cleveland with a plane carrying passengers out of Washington. Officials at the Washington office of the connecting line said, however, that their plane carried no Washingtonians last night. Passengers aboard the connecting transport with tickets for points west of Cleveland were a Mr. Powers and a Mr. Goodman, of Norfolk, who were bound for Chicago, and F. E. Nemec, of Wilmington, Del., who had purchased a ticket for Lincoln, Nebr.—Edtor's note.]

James Doran reported that he saw the plane cruising about 50 feet above the ground with all lights on as though seeking a place to land.

Heard Motor Sputter.

"Suddenly fire broke out amidships," he said, "and the plane crashed. It almost hit my barn. I ran toward the wreck. The plane was demolished and burning."

Special Policeman James Walters, of Garfield Heights Village, a suburb, said the whole front section of the large ship was in flames as it passed over the village.

Bernard J. McKenna, living 1 mile from where the liner plunged, said the plane burned completely in an open field of plowed ground.

"I heard the ship's motor missing as it passed low over my house," McKenna said. "When I got outside I saw smoke rising from the clearing."

Maj. John Berry, Cleveland airport superintendent, said the last radio contact with the airliner was a routine check at 10:07 p. m. at that time the plane was over Park-

Polygamist Bear Ousts Blonde, Scorns Forgiving Mate at Zoo

By Gerald G. Gross

Snowy, the Zoo's most famous polygamist, took up yesterday with his other wife, giving the magpies, monkeys and other gossips plenty to talk about.

The polar bear father of the three hybrid cubs, and Ramona, their Kadiak mother, were reunited after a separation of two and one-half years. During this period Snowy's consort was Marion, a polar like himself.

Snowy and Marion had been feuding, lately, especially at feeding time when the big polar would steal the meat and bread intended for his blonde mate, so Head Keeper William H. Blackburn decided to replace her with her brunette rival, Ramona.

When the transfer was made yesterday, it marked the latest major phase in a domestic triangle that has perplexed keepers continually and, since the hybrids' birth in Februar,, 1936, been studied by many zoologists.

Up to the time Ramona became a mother, the three bears occupied the same cage in compara-

Compromise in Utilities War Abandoned by Administration

By Robert C. Albright.

The Administration last night lined up against any modification in the Public Works Administration's present authority to lend money to municipalities for duplication of existing private utility systems in what appeared to be an overnight change of front on the volatile power issue.

At the Capitol, Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, Senate Administration leader, abandoned his own proposal to "compromise" PWA invasion of private power fields by permitting loans and grants to communities which failed in bona fide efforts to purchase private plants.

"A lot of complications have developed since yesterday," Barkley told reporters. "There are so many ramifications that I think it best to defeat the whole thing."

He referred to the Senate Appropriations Committee's utility truce amendment to the President's $3,247,000,000 spending-lending bill, forbidding PWA advances for construction of public utilities in com-

Losers in Pa. Ask Pledge of No Reprisals

Recognition Sought Before C. I. O. Promises to Back Regular Ticket.

By the Associated Press.

C. I. O leaders and others prominent in the beaten Democratic faction in Pennsylvania are holding out for a pledge of "no reprisals" before going down the line for the victorious ticket, informed persons said last night.

The leaders also want specific "recognition" of the strength they displayed at the polls.

Word of this attitude was passed after a two-hour discussion of policy, in which John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chief; Lieut. Gov. Thomas Kennedy and other leaders in the unsuccessful bid for power took part.

Statement Stresses "Gains."

Exact nature of the recognition demanded was obscure but presumably the demands were based on strength shown by Kennedy, principal C. I. O. candidate.

Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, national committeeewoman and sister of Senator Guffey, told newsmen before the conference, "we're terribly proud of what we did." Kennedy polled more than a half million votes, losing the gubernatorial nomination to Charles A. Jones by about 65,000.

A dozen principals of the defeated faction, including Lewis, Senator Guffey (Democrat), Pennsylvania, and three of the primary candidates they backed, issued a cryptic statement after their consultation.

It said: "We have considered plans to consolidate the gains for liberalism so emphatically emphasized by the tremendous vote given the Kennedy ticket. Another meeting is planned for the near future."

Third Ticket Unlikely.

Possibility of a third ticket in the fall struggle was discounted by informed persons.

Whether peace negotiations between the two factions had been arranged could not be learned. It was understood, however, that State Chairman David L. Lawrence and Jones, the nominee for Governor, were due in Washington in a day or two and probably would confer with President Roosevelt. Guffey said he had no plans for a conference with Lawrence, backer of the Jones ticket.

Besides Lewis, Guffey, Kennedy and Mrs. Miller, at the conference yesterday were: Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers and chief of the C. I. O. steel forces; Edward N. Jones, Kennedy's publicity director; Mrs. Edith B. Dewitt and Judge Ralph H. Smith, the Guffey-Lewis candidates for secretary of internal affair and lieutenant governor; Representative Francis E. Walter; State Treasurer F. Clair Ross; Robert L. Vann, colored publisher of Pittsburgh, and Richard H. Bailey, jr., Guffey's secretary. J. David Stern, Philadelphia and New York publisher, spent about an hour with the group and left early to keep a White House engagement.

Earl Backs New Deal.

Pittsburgh, May 24 (AP).—Gov. George H. Earle declared tonight Pennsylvania has been chosen by men of vast wealth as the political battleground in a war against the New Deal.

"The isue in this year's general election is President Roosevelt and the New Deal,' said the Democratic nominee for Senator in his first post-primary speech, repared for the Pennsylvania Federation of Democratic Women. "The men of great wealth and the representatives of special privilege are 'ganging up' on the New Deal.

"They have decided to make Pennsylvania the battleground of their campaign to destroy the President's program. Because of this, the election in Pennsylvania assumes great national importance."

Earle called upon warring Democrats to patch their primary campaign differences and unite to meet "the challenge" of the Republicans in November.

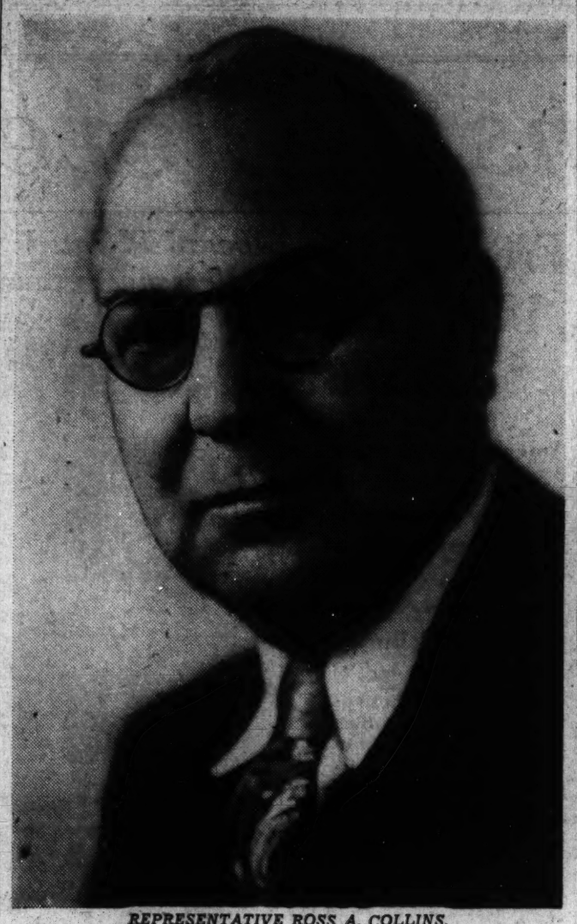
Rep. Collins Urges Merging Of D. C. Activities to Cut Taxes



REPRESENTATIVE ROSS A. COLLINS.

Consolidation of Overlapping Bureaus Under Commissioners Will Increase Efficiency, Says District Appropriations Head.

By Christine Sadler

The foremost improvement that can be suggested in administration of District of Columbia affairs—in the opinion of Representative Ross A. Collins, chairman of the subcommittee on District appropriations—is "the rearrangement of District activities so that as nearly as possible all of them could be placed under the Commissioners, who, after all, are the representatives of the people of the District."

In writing the District appropriation bill for the last two years, Collins said, the committee has endeavored to consolidate overlapping agencies and place them under jurisdiction of the Commissioners.

Can Save Money.

"While much has been accomplished, still the surface has been only scratched. This offers a very fertile field for the saving of money and for better administration, and will no doubt receive the early attention of the District legislative committee," he asserted.

As specific illustrations of what he means by bad division of authority, Collins explained:

"As it is now, schools are administered by a board of trustees appointed by the courts. Parks are under an agency in the Interior Department. Recreation is under parks. Community centers are under the schools. Certain playground activities are under a quasi-independent agency—in fact, recreation is directed by three or four different agencies.

Paid With D. C. Revenue.

"There are several police departments—the Metropolitan force, which is under the Commissioners; the park police, which are under jurisdiction of National Capital Parks, and so on.

"The Zoo is under the Smithsonian Institution, but, like the rest of the agencies I have named, is paid for out of District revenue.

"These are examples of various agencies that have been created, usually with consent of the people of the District, which are under the control of others, but are purely municipal activities."

The tax question is "discussed here as it is everywhere else, and taxpayers complain as they do everywhere," Collins agreed. But, he said, "by and large, taxes here are less than they are in other cities."

Collins was responsible for the shelving of the Jacobs study, which would boost the tax rate and cut the Federal Government's contribution to District expenses just about in half.

The logical way of arriving at the amount the Federal Government should pay toward District expenses, he said, is to omit from consideration all the Federal buildings—such as the Postoffice—that would be exempt from taxation in other cities and then calculate the taxes due on the others. The amount here would run to slightly above the $5,000,000 now being paid. "But the District gets slightly more from the Federal Government than the $5,000,000," he pointed out.

Collins is considered a hard bargainer by local groups who have pet projects for which they want appropriations, but they find his shrewd logic hard to withstand, especially when they learn that he knows more about District affairs than they do—as is just as likely to be the case. He has the reputation for knowing both the inside and outside of every problem he tackles and for surprising those who appear at committee hearings with questions they sometimes can't answer.

Saint of Librarians.

Collins has represented the Meridian district of Mississippi in the House during every Congress since the sixty-seventh—except the seventy-fourth.

He has numerous interesting accomplishments as a Congressman to his credit. One of the most interesting happened when he induced Congress to purchase the Gutenberg Bible and the famous Vollbehr collection of books printed before 1,500 A. D.—for which librarians throughout the Nation consider him a patron saint.

On Friday—Jack Nichols, of Oklahoma, member of the House District Committee, will be next in the "Working for Washington" series.

Director Expects Buying Will Stop Lawsuits on TVA

By the Associated Press.

David E. Lilienthal, a director of the Tennessee Valley Authority, said yesterday that ultimate purchase by the TVA of utilities properties in the South may end some of the litigation challenging the constitutionality of the Government agency.

Following a luncheon conference with President Roosevelt, Lilienthal said "apparently there will be a dismissal of appeals by the Tennessee Public Service Co." in its pending case against the TVA in the Supreme Court.

Negotiations for sale to TVA of Tennessee Public Service's Knoxville properties practically have been completed.

Meanwhile, he said, the TVA "is going right ahead" with negotiations for the purchase of other properties including the Memphis Power and Light Co., an Electric Bond and Share subsidiary, and various subsidiaries of Commonwealth & Southern.

U. S. Gains 110 Millions In Trade With Britain

London, May 24 (AP).—Great Britain's £22,000,000 ($110,000,000) adverse trade balance with the United States for the first months of 1938 exceeding by £5,000,000 ($25,000,000) her trade deficit with all other countries, Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, told the House of Commons today

"The effects of such an increase as this are disquieting," Stanley said, "and certanly must be taken into account in trade negotiations now proceeding with the United States."

N. J. Senate Votes Ban on Sit-Downs

Trenton, N. J., May 24 (AP).—Months of legislative controversy culminated today with Senate passage of a State labor relations bill outlawing sit-down strikes. The bill was sent to the Assembly where quick action was expected.

Participation in sit-down and stay-in strikes was classed in the bill as a high misdemeanor, punishable by a 15-year prison sentence. Among unfair practices banned in the measure are use of labor spies; blacklisting of union members; interference by employers with employe organization, and refusal to bargain collectively or discuss grievances with employe representatives.

Alien Ideology Not Our Worry, Welles Warns

Speech Interpreted as Palliative to Totalitarian Nations.

By the United Press.

Baltimore, Md., May 24.—The American people should mind their own business regarding world political philosophies and ideologies, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles said tonight in a speech on American foreign policy.

Addressing a dinner given by the Presbyterian Social Union of Maryland, he said these issues "are of no concern to the United States," except insofar as "we deplore the ill treatment of human beings anywhere," and unless and until alien influences seek to undermine the institutions of this country.

Palliative to Dictators.

The speech was interpreted as a palliative to the feelings of German, Italian and Japanese leaders who have taken exception to recent speeches by high administration officials who criticized totalitarian forms of government.

Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring recently warned the totalitarian powers that if they pushed the world democracies too far there would be war. Government spokesmen in Rome, Berlin and Tokyo publicly voiced their resentment over the speech.

Welles cited a message sent by President Roosevelt a few nights ago to the general convention of the B'nai B'rith as the text for his admonition for tolerance of other governments' internal policies and their political philosophies.

"Unshaken in Devotion."

"In the conflict of policies and political principles which the world witnesses today, this Nation remains unshaken in its devotion to the ideals and the institutions of democracy," the President's message said.

"Except insofar as we deplore the ill-treatment of human beings anywhere, the domestic policies of other nations are of no concern to the United States. When, however, alien influences seek to undermine the foundations of our own institutions we become definitely concerned."

"When alien influences seek to undermine our own institutions we become definitely concerned," Welles repeated.

Cites Co-operation.

"The Government is fully prepared to deal with this possibility in accordance with the provisions of our laws. What we must avoid, as a people, is confusion between what is an attack upon our own institutions and the purely internal policy of a foreign government."

Welles cited co-operation of the United States with 32 other nations in attempting to aid political refugees from central Europe as proof of this country's interest in human suffering. But apart from this legitimate humanitarian concern, he said, "we surely do not advance the cause of world peace by undertaking publicly to assail the domestic policies of other nations."

Germans Refused Access to U.S. File On War Disaster

The attempt of an agent of the German government to examine files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation was turned down yesterday for the second time.

Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts told the German-American Mixed Claims Commission that "for reasons of state policy" the Justice Department could not permit strangers to examine its files.

Dr. Richard Paulig, German agent of the commission, had asked permission to examine the files, contending that they contained certain papers relevant to long-standing $50,000,000 claim suit lodged against Germany because of wartime munitions explosions at Black Tom and Kingsland, N. J.

Dr. Paulig's application to personally examine the F. B. I. files drew immediate fire from American representatives of the commission a. a meeting early in the month. The request was turned down, upon recommendation of the F. B. I.

Justice Roberts, commission umpire, was permitted to examine the files confidentially. He reported yesterday to the commission that no relevant papers were withheld from the commission.

"The Attorney General told me," Roberts said, "that for reasons of state policy the department could not permit strangers to examine the files. I quite understand the Attorney General's position."

The Gallup Poll

Federal Licensing of Corporations Found Popular in Borah-O'Mahoney Survey.

By Dr. George Gallup.

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

New York, May 24.—First public reaction to the Borah-O'Mahoney bill now pending in the Senate, which is widely regarded as one of the most far-reaching legislative proposals in recent times, is shown by a survey just completed by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

George Gallup.

The measure, which would require corporations doing interstate business to take out licenses with the Federal Government, may be a center of controversy for some time to come. At present, before the fight has started in earnest, the licensing proposal is favored by a sizable majority of voters.

The Institute asked a cross-section of the population in all sections: "Do you think all companies doing business in more than one State should be required to get a license from the Federal Government?"

Approximately one voter in every four was undecided. Among the rest who did express an opinion, sentiment divided as follows:

Yes	57%
No	43

Called Sign of Times.

Many observers think the Borah-O'Mahoney measure marks the beginning of a long fight for greater corporate regulation. Walter Lippmann, for example, recently called the measure "a most important sign of the times," adding: "We may be certain that one of the principal ways in which liberal governments will in the future regulate private enterprise is by defining more carefully the duties as well as the rights of chartered corporations."

The purpose of the Institute survey was to find out what sections of the public are for the licensing proposal and what sections are opposed at the present time. Sentiment may change as the bill receives wider publicity and discussion. Today, however, the Institute's findings show:

1. The idea of Federal licensing of corporations is particularly appealing to farmers. Of those reached in the survey, 64 per cent favor the measure to 36 per cent opposed. The vote probably reflects the traditional farm suspicion of big business. Typical of farmers' comments in the survey was the statement: "Maybe with Federal licensing we can find out what those big companies are doing."

2. Democratic voters throughout the country approve the measure by a majority of more than six to four, while Republicans oppose it by an almost equal majority.

3. Opinion on the issue splits sharply along the economic lines. The upper one-third of the voting population votes against the licensing, while the lower two-thirds favor it.

Might Prevent Monopolies.

The reasons which voters give for their attitude toward the licensing measure fall into several categories.

Those who favor the idea declare chiefly that it will prevent formation of business monopolies. Those opposed believe that the present system of State licenses for corporations provides sufficient regulation, and that a Federal law would lead to arbitrary bureaucratic control of business. A number of voters pointed out that if the law were passed, the Federal Government could put a corporation out of business at a single stroke by revoking its license.

Does public opinion think that Supreme Court Justices should be required to retire after reaching a certain age? What age? Read the Gallup Poll in Sunday's Post.

Boylan Denies Keeping Shrine Plans in Dark

Asserts Jefferson Memorial Commission Made Known All Its Designs.

An intimation that the Commission of Fine Arts changed its mind regarding the Thomas Jefferson Memorial design when it changed chairmen last fall came yesterday from Representative Boylan (Democrat), of New York, chairman of the memorial commission.

Constituting a reply to the action of the Fine Arts Commission in making public all its correspondence on the controversial memorial, Boylan's statement listed all of the meetings of the memorial body at which representatives of the arts commission were present.

"It appears that the Commission of Fine Arts was consulted at every step," Boylan said.

Clarke Succeeded Moore.

"We had the concurrence of their representatives as to the manner of choosing an architect, of a site and of a design, down to last September when the change in chairmanship of that commission occurred."

Gilmore D. Clarke succeeded Charles Moore as chairman of the commission at that time.

"Even then we made great efforts to meet their desires," Boylan said, adding that four additional designs were made at the arts commission's suggestion.

Powers Advisory.

"Against all preferences we even approved one of these designs, but this approval was given without realizing that it was merely a rehash of the old Theodore Roosevelt Memorial design."

Boylan concluded that the powers of the Commission of Fine Arts are merely advisory.

"Congress and the nation want a Jefferson Memorial and want it now," he said, "and they are not going to tolerate attempts to defeat such a memorial by proposals of further delay."

G. F. Warren, New Deal Aide On Gold, Dies

Cornell Economist, 64, Was to Have Retired July 1; Here in 1933.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Ithaca, N. Y., May 24.—Dr. George F. Warren, 64, economist who advised President Roosevelt on monetary policies and was credited with devising the Administration's gold policy, died here today.

Dr. Warren planned to retire July 1, as professor of agricultural economics and farm management at Cornell University. William I. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit Administration, has been named as his successor.

Having been associated with Mr. Roosevelt when he was Governor of New York, Dr. Warren went to Washington in 1933 as an economic expert, although he accepted no governmental position. He shunned publicity and kept his participation in Administration councils strictly confidential.

Dr. Warren was born at Harvard, Nebr., February 16, 1874. He herded sheep as a boy, taught school in Nebraska and became a Cornell graduate otudent in 1903, receiving the degree of bachelor of science in agriculture in 1906.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mary Whitson, of Atglen, Pa., and six children.

Morgenthau Mourns.

By the Associated Press.

Secretary Morgenthau said last night that the death of Dr. George F. Warren "means to me the loss of a friend of many years for whose character and achievements I have long had the greatest admiration."

"It was my good fortune both to learn from him and to work with him in State and national affairs," Morgenthau said in a statement. "His services to his country and especially to the farmers of his State and the Nation were such as few men have been able to render."

Mexican Rebels Blow Up Train; Governor Slain

Government Troops, Planes Closing in on Hideouts of Cedillo's Men.

San Luis Potosi, Mexico, May 24 (U.P.).—A train en route to Tampico was dynamited by rebels 55 miles east of San Luis Potosi, killing the fireman, it was reported tonight after authorities had asserted that Gen. Saturnino Cedillo's agarian revolt had been reduced to scattered guerrilla fighting.

Simultaneously, it was announced that a man found shot to death in an automobile near Santa Maria was believed to be Mateo Hernandez Netro, who abandoned the state governorship last week and fled this city, presumably to join Cedillo.

Finding of the slain man came shortly after it was reported that Juan Soria Urias, a brother-in-law of Cedillo, was shot and killed by Federal soldiers while en route to join the rebel leader.

Urias, a deputy in the state legislature, was said to have been slain near Palomas, Cedillo's abandoned country estate several miles outside the city, when he approached the farm yesterday after being given a safe conduct by President Lazaro Cardenas to join the one-time war lord of this state.

Government troops, aided by airplanes, were reported closing in on rebel hideouts. Operations to smash the uprising were conducted chiefly within a triangular area running northeast from San Luis Potosi to Monte Bello.

Presbyterians Of South Revise Merger Study

Northern Church Union Left to State Assemblies; Council Rebuffed.

By the Associated Press.

Meridian, Miss., May 24.—The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States finished its principal business here today by forming a new committee to negotiate with the Presbyterian Church of the U. S. A. on plans for merger.

The governing body of the Southern church also accepted the 48 to 38 vote of the church's presbyteries against re-entering the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, from which the Presbyterian Church in the United States withdrew in 1931.

Council Too Modernist.

The Rev. R. A. White, of Mooresville, N. C., opposed re-entry into the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America on the ground the council was an influence "away from the conservative and toward modernism."

The Rev. J. A. MacLean, of Richmond, favored reunion with the council and led a successful fight to have stricken from the committee report wordage which he said "offended our brethren of another denomination."

The deleted portion of the report:

"Whereas, the Federal Council continues to approve of policies which do violence to the conscience and the standards of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, and whereas, this question has vexed the assembly and the church at large for some three decades . . ."

Up to State Bodies.

The assembly voted, 128 to 115, after sharp debate and prayer to discharge its committee on co-operation and union which reported 9 to 2 to continue "explorations" with a committee of the sister church looking to union, but created a larger committee to deal with the subject from a different angle.

The new committee will be composed of one member from each synod, thus placing the question of reunion negotiations directly before the State assemblies of the church for local consideratoin.

Colleague Accuses Radio Judges of 'Soaking' Drivers

Chicago, May 25 (A).—Municipal Judge Edward R. Casey asserted today that his colleagues were soaking motorists who stooge for them in broadcasts of traffic and safety court sessions.

The broadcasts were attacked by Judge Casey as "incompatible with human justice." In reply, Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby said equitable sampling of the court's work could not be done in a week's survey such as Judge Casey made.

Judge Casey offered records for five days from May 16 to 20 and said he found:

In traffic court 817 cases were tried without a radio audience and 32 with. In the unaired trials, 536 defendants, or 65.6 per cent, were convicted. In those broadcast, 29 defendants, or 90.6 per cent, were convicted. The average fine in the nonbroadcast trials was $3.88, in broadcast trials it was $8.82.

Buenos Aires, May 24 (A).—Spruille Braden, United States delegate to the Chaco Peace Conference, said today a "final proposal for definite frontier" between Bolivia and Paraguay would be presented to the two nations Thursday.

It will be given to the foreign ministers of Bolivia and Paraguay, who have been engaged for a hundred years in a dispute over their boundaries in the Gran Chaco. From 1932 to 1935 they fought a war in which 130,000 were killed.

Canada Denies Obligations to Britain in War

Nation Not Even Committed to Remain Neutral, Says Prime Minister.

Ottawa, May 24 (Canadian Press) Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King told the House of Commons today that Canada is not committed either to go to war or even to remain neutral where Great Britain is involved.

Making a long-awaited statement on Canada's foreign policy, the prime minister described the international outlook as "dark, but not one that calls for despair."

Regarding possibility of war, Mackenzie King made three main points on Canada's position:

As an independent nation, Canada is not likely to attack or be attacked.

As a member of the League of Nations, Canada will not be drawn into war through application of League penalties because the sanctions articles of the League Covenant "have ceased to have effect."

As a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations, Canada has no commitments either to engage in war or remain neutral. If a situation arises where warlike action is proposed, it will be a matter for the Canadian parliament to decide.

Canada is not bound by the decisions of the United Kingdom on foreign policy, the prime minister said.

"Incidentally," he added, "may I say the time has come to cease speaking of the 'dominions' as if they were some peculiar half-fledged type of community, and all alike in their interests and views.

"Such a usage leads to confusion at best and to alibis and misrepresentation at worst. South Africa is South Africa, New Zealand is New Zealand, Australia is Australia, and Canada is Canada, and it will help to good understanding if that elementary fact is borne in mind."

Children Starve In Spain, Envoy Radios for Aid

Bowers Urges America to Help 1,000,000 Victims of War.

Unless Americans rally to the aid of children "slowly starving" in Spain they will be deserting their heritage of never turning a deaf ear to human suffering, Ambassador Claude G. Bowers declared Monday night in an address broadcast from the American Embassy to Spain at St. Jean de Luz, France.

"We may differ over merits of the conflict, but among men and women who are not counterfeits of humanity, there can be but one opinion on the suffering of a million children who are the innocent victims behind the lines," he said.

"Many have been puzzled," Ambassador Bowers asserted, "to note how little in comparison we have done for the children of Spain, so many of whom are pinched with hunger and are dying of slow starvation."

The fear that America's neutrality policy might be involved in extending such aid was removed, he pointed out, when Secretary Hull publicly announced "that this policy is in no sense involved in serving the ends of humanity."

Probably 1,000,000 children in Spain, "on both sides of the barricade," are suffering the consequences of war, according to the estimate of Bowers, who declared that the death of a soldier on the field is "comparatively easy" when the lot of these children is considered.

"Not in Belgium, not in France, not in Germany, not in Russia, in former times was there more urgent call to the humanity of the outside world than there is from Spain today," he said.

He paid tribute to the American Friends' Service Committee which he said has been "working inconspicuously and effectively in Spain for more than a year."

rison's hope is merely to retain the differentials which favor the South.

Observers last night believed that in a pinch Administration leaders in the Senate will take whatever bill they can get through quickest, in order to establish the principle which could be amended at leisure.

Republicans lent hearty support to the House version of the bill throughout yesterday and in the final votes, many of them operating on the theory which brought much Eastern and Northern Democratic support from members representing urban and industrial centers—that the impsition of identical wages on the South will redound to the advantage of Northern manufacturers.

Exemptions Leak Through.

Although the coalition held its lines firmly for eight hours against all but committee-favored amendments, the exemption amendments began to leak through in the closing hours as weary, hungry members began to vote for everything in order to get home.

Amendments approved at the long session, which convened at 11 a. m., included:

One by Representative Fred Biermann (Democrat), of Iowa, exempting from the bill's operation all agricultural workers engaged in rural communities in processing, handling, ginning, storing, pasteurizing and so on, of all farm commodities, including packing of butter and eggs.

One by Chairman Mary T. Norton (Democrat), of New Jersey, of the House Labor Committee, which gave to agricultural processing employers an exemption from overtime provisions for 12 work weeks each year, in order not to penalize seasonal canning industries.

"Shirley Temples" Exempted.

One by Representative Charles Kramer (Democrat), of California, exempting child actors (it was dubbed the "Shirley Temple amendment,") from the bill's child labor provisions.

One by Representative Edward Creal (Democrat), of Kentucky, exempting completely all country newspapers, published weekly or semiweekly, with circulations of 3,000 or less, from the bill.

One by Representative Robert Crosser (Democrat), Ohio, placing railroad workers under the provisions of the bill—an amendment understood to apply chiefly to Southern maintenance-of-way employes, since most railroad workers are paid more than 40 cents an hour.

Farm Victory Close.

One by Representative Schuyler Otis Bland (Democrat), of Virginia, exempting sea-food takers and processors from the bill's operations.

One by Representative Emmanuel Celler (Democrat), New York, exempting retailers to the extent that the bill shall not apply to any firm the majority of whose business is in intrastate commerce.

These amendments were approved en bloc after the committee arose and the whole House was voting. But bitter struggles marked many of them and the Biermann amendment was passed only after a struggle, with a narrow victory for the farm bloc.

Southern Democrats fought valiantly throughout the day although openly conceding their defeat. The picture was clearly presented in all its bitterness when Representative Claude A. Fuller (Democrat), Arkansas, shouted:

"You may heap humiliation thusly on the South but we Southern Democrats will be back here when many of your seats are empty. The South—the cradle of democracy—has voted for many of your schemes, but we're going down shouting now. Why, the 11 Southern States, with a total population of 29,000,000 people, received less relief than the State of Pennsylvania—but we voted it in for you."

Leaders were chary of comment on their victory, evidently preferring not to rub it in on their Southern colleagues. Chairman Norton, who vowed last December never to give up until the bill passed, despite remarks from all sides that no recommitted bill ever saw daylight, said last night immediately after adjournment:

"All thanks is due to the tireless efforts of the many members who volunteered their aid and leadership."

House Leaders Silent.

More than twoscore of nullifying or riddling amendments were defeated in the guerrilla warfare that marked the constant in-fighting as long-standing sectional wounds were opened, re-opened and salted down.

The House leaders who took the floor last December, Speaker Bankhead, Majority Leader Sam Rayburn, of Texas, and Rules Committee Chairman John O'Connor, of New York, were notably absent from the House well through the day.

This was in sharp contrast to their final dramatic pleas, one after the other, the night of December 17, when they strove in vain to get the bill through a House that did not foresee the result this spring of the Florida primary, when Senator Claude Pepper overwhelmingly defeated Representative Mark Wilcox for the senatorial seat on the wage-hour issue primarily.

Coal Yard Employes To Get Saturday Off

Washington coal merchants affiliated with the Merchants and Manufacturers Association have decided to give employes Saturday holidays during June, July and August, Edward D. Shaw, association secretary announced last night.

Yards and offices of the companies also will be closed on Memorial Day, May 30, and for a half day Saturday, Shaw said. The companies also will close their places of business on June 22 to permit members of the sales and office forces to attend the annual coal merchants outing at Bay Ridge, Md., Shaw announced.

D.C. Privilege Tax Deduction Allowed

The Internal Revenue Bureau yesterday ruled that District businessmen can deduct the business privilege tax in computing Federal income taxes.

The bureau said the tax can be deducted the same as other taxes unless it was included in the cost of doing business. If included in business expenses, the deduction cannot be taken. The ruling applied to the $10 license fee as well as the business privilege tax itself.

Widow Asks Right To Handle Estate Of Slain D.C. Man

Prescott, Ariz., May 24 (AP).—Mrs. Jane Stout Lawrence, widow of Marcus Jay Lawrence, wealthy Washington sportsman slain in a fight here two weeks ago, filed a petition asking her appointment as administratrix of Lawrence's estate in Yavapai County.

Mrs. Lawrence asked the Yavapai County superior court to remove C. F. Harmon, local accountant appointed administrator at the request of the American Security & Trust Co., of Washington, and to allow her to handle Lawrence's affairs.

Her petition said Lawrence's estate consisted of an $800,000 trust fund in Washington and other holdings, which she claims is community property, valued at $175,000.

Ernesto Lira, 40, former manager of John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight boxing champion, is awaiting trial July 6 on murder charges in connection with Lawrence's slaying.

man, Ohio, about 40 miles east of here.

The crash occurred about 10:20 p. m., he said.

The plunging craft cut a swath 50 feet wide and 200 feet long through trees and underbrush.

The night was clear, with the temperature around 60.

Radio Heard at 10:07.

"Everything O.K.; will land 10:24 (E. S. T.)."

The plane was directly on its course, officials, asserted. Harold Crary, United Air Lines vice president, described the crash as the line's first accident on the Newark-Cleveland run in 44,000 trips in the last 11 years.

Joseph Rades, who lives near the crash scene, reported the plane was in flames and flying low as it roared over his home, half a mile from a wooded ravine in which it crashed.

Saw Fire From Porch.

"I was seated on the porch at home when I heard the plane's motors. It flew so low, I knew the pilot must have been in trouble, but the motors didn't seem to be missing.

"As it passed over I saw it was in flames. For a moment, I was afraid it was going to strike the house. Shortly after it roared past I heard the crash.

"I ran to the ravine, where I could see flames above the low trees. The fire was so high I couldn't get close."

The tragedy came eight days after the crash of an $80,000 Lockheed airplane in California, May 16. Killed then were three men, four women and two babies. That plane was en route from Los Angeles to St. Paul, Minn., to be put in service for Northwest Airlines.

Pilot a War Veteran.

James L. "Monty" Brandon, pilot of the United Airlines transport that fell in flames near the Cleveland Airport last night, faced death many times in the flimsy planes with which England fought the World War in the air more than 20 years ago.

It was not until 1927 that Brandon decided he had had enough of aerial adventure and signed for a job flying transport planes for United Airlines between Chicago and Cleveland.

Brandon was the holder of transport pilot license No. 190, one of the first issued to commercial pilots by the Department of Commerce, records of United Airlines showed. He had had more than 7,500 hours of flying experience, approximately 4,000 hours of which were recorded on the Cleveland run.

Brandon transferred from a Cavalry regiment to the Canadian Royal Flying Corps and was later sent to England as an instructor in the Royal Flying Corps, training pilots for service over the battlefields of France.

Later he flew warplanes in Greece and Turkey, until the early part of 1919 when he became attached to the White Army of Russia for the balance of the year.

Red foes of the White Russians put a price on his head and Brandon made his way out of revolution-torn Russia and returned to the United States.

Stewardess Only 24.

Milwaukee, May 24 (AP).—Miss Mildred A. Macek, 24, stewardess on the plane which crashed near Cleveland, was a Milwaukee girl who received her first assignment with the airline last August. She took her nurses' training at Columbia Hospital here.

Engineer Is Victim.

Ansonia, Conn., May 24 (AP).—Richard C. Lewis, 39, of this city, reported killed at Cleveland, was a sales engineer for the Farrell Birmingham Co., steel founders. His wife, Mrs. Adelaide C. Lewis, said he left tonight for a business trip in the Middle West. The couple has a son, Franklin, 11.

En Route to Funeral.

Boston, May 24 (AP).—L. Arthur Doty, 42, of Boston, reported aboard the plane which crashed at Cleveland tonight, was rushing to Chicago, where his brother, Harold Doty, died today. Doty, who was connected with the Texaco Oil Co. here, formerly lived in Decatur, Ill., where his family resides.

Western Crash Inquiry.

Burbank, Calif., May 24 (AP).—A Federal board of inquiry, investigating the crash of a Lockheed airliner near here eight days ago with a loss of nine lives, heard testimony today that low-hanging fog made hazardous an attempted flight by ground contact.

George I. Smith, assistant manager of the traffic control tower at Union Air Terminal, whence the transport departed, said "our understanding was that the pilot of the plane meant to fly underneath the overcast ceiling. It would have been so simple to pull up 'through' on instrument, and then continue in the clear above the clouds."

Stranded U. S. Woman Sent Funds by Husband

Berlin, May 24 (U.P.).—Mrs. Eve Clayton Bickford, American woman denied readmittance to England "because I could not show evidence of sufficient means of support," today received money from her estranged and wealthy husband in Buffalo, N. Y., to pay her transportation back home.

A divorce is "now in progress," a spokesman for her husband said in Buffalo.

VALUABLE DEALER TERRITORY NOW OPEN

In all this talk about SERVICE, the American Oil Company would like to emphasize this great truth:

It's what goes with the smile that counts

It's a great day for service. And you can hardly pick up an advertisement of an oil company without seeing the word.

Service is important. But from some of the ads you read you'd think it was invented yesterday.

Our dealers were wiping windshields before there were advertising campaigns about it. They've been checking tires, and filling radiators... "watering" batteries...cleaning headlamps for a long time. They were smiling at customers before the smile became the great new discovery. They have been doing these things all along, but haven't been making much noise about it.

We believe you're entitled to good service—and with a smile. But..it's what goes with the smile that counts.

The service our products give is just as important as the service rendered by our dealers. Amoco-Gas, the original special motor fuel, has been rendering a service per dollar that has never been equalled by any other motor fuel or gasoline. Orange American Gas has set a new measure of service for regular gasolines.

Without maximum service from the products themselves, all other features of service pale into insignificance.

Langdon Held Not Guilty in LimerickDeath

thing to laugh about now."

"Where are you going tonight?" someone called from the crowd.

"I haven't decided," Langdon answered. "Maybe to a movie—I do know I'm going to have a drink. I haven't had one in 14 months."

As Langdon stumbled from the courtroom, he was grabbed by the arm by an elderly woman who had stepped from the crowd. There were tears in her eyes.

"I am so glad for you," she said, "I've prayed for you every night."

The former "cop on the beat" paused. He took the woman's hand and held it in both of his. Tears appeared also in his eyes.

"Thank you . . . thank you very much," he said, and hurried down the hallway.

A few hours after his acquittal, Langdon declared that he wanted to express his gratitude to "one of the finest—or should I say most colossal—lawyers that Washington has seen in a long time."

The former Metropolitan policeman said he also wanted to thank the prosecuting attorney, the judge and the jury for a fair trial.

"I don't think I'll stay in Washington," he said when he was asked of his plans for the future. I think I'll go to New York and then go home."

After final arguments by Kelly and Prosecutor John J. Wilson, the case was given to the jury at 4:50 p. m., yesterday. A week of testimony, packed on both sides with varying degrees of surprises, had been heard when Langdon's fate was entrusted to the jury of 12 men.

The panel deliberated until 6:45 p. m. and then adjourned for dinner at the Continental Hotel. Returning to the jury room at 7:30, discussions were continued and at 7:45 an agreement was announced.

Word was sent to Justince Daniel O'Donoghue and Prosecutor Wilson, who had gone home to dinner. They hastened to the courthouse and the verdict was reported.

Wilson declined to comment on the outcome of the case. Kelly, who yesterday was congratulated on all sides for his presentation of final arguments, slumped across the counsel table and kept repeating:

"Boy, oh boy . . . whew!"

In his final arguments, Assistant United States Attorney Wilson stressed the importance of circumstantial evidence. He said his case was built mainly on this type of evidence, pointing out there was no eyewitness to the crime and no record of confession.

The time of the slaying, Wilson told the jury, was placed by witnesses as between 2:30 and 2:45 a. m. on the morning of December 31, 1930.

Hanging intently on his words, members of the jury leaned toward the stocky prosecutor as he described for them the scene at 18 Nineteenth street southeast where Beulah was shot in her sleep.

During his argument to the jury, Wilson explained that Boyer, the milkman, "might have been mistaken" when he claimed to have heard two shots. One of the sounds, Wilson said, "could have been an echo."

This point was seized upon for attack by Kelly in his final arguments. He struck at Wilson's explanation and scored him for "speculating on what might have happened."

According to all evidence produced by the Government, Kelly argued, every person in the Limerick house the night of December 31, 1930, was as guilty of the crime as Langdon.

"What about Richard Reed (a friend of Beulah's who lived in the house with her brother, Vernon), he was in the house that night and had reason to be jealous of her," said Kelly.

"What about circumstantial evidence as to all these other people?" Kelly asked the jury, slamming a fist against the witness stand. "There were other persons in the house that night. What about them?"

In concluding his statement to the jury, Kelly declared:

"Persons generally have a motive when they kill someone. Where is the motive in this case? Why should Robert Langdon want to kill Beulah Limerick? The Government has failed to prove a motive and a verdict of guilt in this case will not solve the Limerick case."

Franco's Lines Rip as 100,000 Attack in North

Spain

Balaguer, gateway to the hydro-electric region on Catalonia's border, is 28 miles south of Tremp and about 15 miles north of insurgent-held Lerida.

In the northern sector near Sort, the loyalists reported that capture of the Paolo Mountain peaks gave them control of a long stretch of the Noguera valley and adjoining highways vital to insurgent communications in the north.

Loyalist dispatches described the offensive as "one of the best ever undertaken by the government," bringing into play all available troops, tanks, planes, machine guns and artillery. Bombing planes operating in relays poured explosives on insurgent fortified positions in the mountains, followed by machine gun "strafing" of trenches.

The insurgents said hundreds of prisoners were being seized, as Rojo, in contrast with Franco's tactics of gaining through flank operations, drove head on into the insurgent defenses.

Attackers Mowed Down.

The insurgent positions around Tremp were held by African Moors and volunteers of the foreign legion who, according to insurgent advices, calmly awaited the attacking loyalists and mowed them down by the hundreds with machine gun fire.

Rojo, with an advantage over his foes of three men to one, and heartened by arrival of new tanks and cannon, opened his offensive without warning in an effort to break through Fraco's lines before insurgent reserves could be rushed up from the south.

tive harmony. Now and then the two females would scrap over their common mate, but nothing serious ever happened.

Several weeks before the babies were due to arrive, Ramona was moved into a separate pit, giving Marion a clear field with Snowy. But, contrary to natural laws, the massive polar bear seemed to care more for his brown mate. Maybe, experts speculated, it was because Marion had never borne him any young ones.

After the cubs came they stayed with their mother until able to shift for themselves, when she was given a cage to herself. Meantime, Snowy was tolerating Marion. Keepers wondered if the odd triangle of B. H. days (Before Hybrids) could ever be resumed.

When the male polar began bluffing Marion out of her food recently, it was decided the time was ripe for a change. About a week ago the female polar was shifted and Ramona placed in the pit on probation. That is, she was installed in the pen to the rear of the pit, protected from Snowy by iron bars, but able to rub muzzles with him whenever he deigned to approach.

Yesterday, with Mr. Blackburne satisfied that all was just like old times between the crossmated couple, the bars were raised. But there was no joyous reunion. Intimidated by the proud aloofness of her estranged husband, Ramona did not dare venture into the open pit with him.

When feeding time came around in midafternoon, the sorrowful Kadiak hopefully stuck her head through the pen entrance at the sound of the keeper's footsteps. Snowy, the churl, pulled the same trick on her he'd been working on Marion. When a large steak was hurled at her feet—the female was too respectful of her mate's temper to approach the bars even at the opposite end of the cage—Snowy left his own meal, dashed up to his co-wife's rations and carried it back to add to his own dinner.

So Ramona went hungry yesterday. Unloved and unfed, she was as miserable as a bear can be. Three cages away Marion, too, appeared sad but at least she had something to eat. Snowy, arrogant and conceited, didn't seem to care what happened to either of them.

Meantime the three hybrid bears, now almost as large as their parents and the unwitting cause of the unique domestic tangle, frolicked and wrestled in their cage without a care in the world.

Larceny Charged To Realty Broker

William Barton Smoot, 41, of Colonial Village, a local real estate broker, was charged with larceny after trust yesterday following his arrest Monday night on a warrant sworn to by Daniel G. Luckett, 1130 Maryland avenue northeast. He was released on $1,000 bond pending his arraignment in Police Court today.

According to Luckett, he gave Smoot $700 to purchase property and make plans for the erection of a house.

Almas Temple Initiates 21 in Colorful Rite

A class of 21 initiates was inducted into Almas Temple of the Shrine at a colorful homecoming ceremony in the clubhouse at 1315 K street northwest last night.

The first part of the initiatory exercise was carried out by a group composed of Granville Gude, potentate; Stanley D. Willis, chief rabban; Karl E. Jarrell, assistant rabban; Earl W. "Inspired Charge."

The "inspired charge," an impressive feature of every Shrine ceremonial and which teaches tolerance, was delivered by Potentate Gude. The Rev. John C. Palmer was orator for the class and Arthur C. Fessenden explained the significance of the jewels of the order.

In the second part of the ritual, the floor team, under the direction of Ernest W. Snoots, staged several adaptations of stunts recently developed by the Shrine Directors Association.

The Almas Temple Band, led by Frederick Wilken, presented a concert preceding the ceremonial.

Past Potentates Attend.

Past Potentates Leonard P. Steuart, who also is a past imperial potentate and the present imperial treasurer of the council, and L. Whiting Estes, Robert Regar and Robert P. Smith attended the ritual.

A program of entertainment followed the ritual. Members of the class were Harry Applefeld, Otho Raymond Baker, Ugo Carusi, William J. Cedarholm, H. Teaching Art By Television Urged at Parley Compulsory Training in Schools Also Proposed at Conclave Here.

Television and better teaching were advanced yesterday as methods for raising the level of public art appreciation in America at the convention of American Federation of Arts in the Wardman Park Hotel.

Dr. Bernard Myers, of New York University, told the convention television would elliminate the most serious handicap to art education by radio, that of visualization. He suggested that television had already reached the stage where receiving sets could be used in schools and in Federal Arts centers.

C. W. Farrier, television coordinator of National Broadcasting Co., said that while television would be valuable for art broadcasts, the programs would have to be entertaining as well as educational.

Compulsory four-year art training for secondary school students was urged by Thomas Folds, art director of Phillips Exeter Academy. He asked that students be given training for both the hand and the eye in order "to learn the language of art through actual use of it."

Leslie Cheek, jr., director of fine arts at William and Mary College, declared the undergraduate colleges should train its students in a habit of living, rather than make them practicing specialists.

Frank Buckingham Laid to Rest Here

Funeral services for Frank Buckingham, 60, retired Federal Trade Commission accountant, were held yesterday at J. William Lee's funeral home, Fourth street and Massachusetts avenue northeast, with the Rev. Clifford H. Jope, of the Ninth Street Christian Church, officiating. Interment with military honors was in Arlington Cemetery.

A native of Prairie City, Iowa, Mr. Buckingham enlisted in the Army during the Spanish-American War and spent two years in Cuba. He came to the Capital in 1910 to accept a position in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, later transferring to the Federal Trade Commission, with which he served for 18 years prior to his retirement last year for physical disability.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Kate Buckingham, of this city, and his stepson, Dr. J. Blaine Harrell, of Cleveland, Ohio.

MILEAGE AT YOUR PRICE

... AND SAFETY AT EVERY PRICE

The Price You Pay Measures the Service You Get—Fisk Offers You More Real In-Built Value at a Relative Price

SAFTI-FLIGHT—"America's Safest Tire"—This is the best tire that Fisk knows how to build . . . both in its internal construction and in its incomparable safety tread. It costs more to make than ordinary tires, and is classed as a DeLuxe Tire . . . but it actually sells for very little more than first line tires of conventional tread construction.

AIR-FLIGHT—This is one of the best . . . if not actually THE best . . . conventional tread tires built today. It differs from Safti-Flight only in its tread, which costs less to manufacture . . . so that Air-Flight costs you less money.

AIR-FLIGHT A-S.—Sturdy, well-made, dependable . . . made to sell at a moderate price. Size for size, it contains more cord than similar grade tires made by other manufacturers. It is a little less expensive to build than Air-Flight, and costs you less for this reason.

FISK "75"—A better tire for the money than competition offers at the same price . . . but if you want very lowest possible first cost we recommend the Windsor. This tire is called the "75" because it costs you 75% as much as the Air-Flight.

WINDSOR—Built for the car owner who wants good, dependable transportation at low first cost. It is the lowest-priced tire in the Fisk Line, but an outstanding value.

ALL FISK MILEAGE IS SAFE MILEAGE—Regardless of the Fisk Tire that you choose from this group, you have definite assurance that it will deliver mileage in accordance with the price you pay for it . . . that you will get your full money's worth in service PLUS unmatched safety factors which have made Fisk Tires the choice of thinking motorists throughout America.

U.S. Fishermen To Get Rifles to Fight Japanese

Company Reports 'Invasion' of Codfish Banks in Bering Sea.

By the Associated Press.

Seattle, May 24. — George W. Shields, secretary-treasurer of the Pacific Coast Codfish Co., said tonight he was preparing to dispatch two dozen high-powered rifles and ammunition requested by his brother, Capt. John E. Shields, to combat a reported invasion of Bering Sea codfish banks by Japanese fishermen.

He said Capt. Shields, master of the Sophie Christensen, Seattle codfishing schooner now on the far Northern Banks, wirelessed that a dozen rifles be sent him and a dozen to the company's schooner, Charles R. Wilson, also in Bering Sea.

Shields declined to reveal how the munitions would be sent north. He said he feared they might be seized.

"Instruct to Shoot."

Capt. Shields' message stated:

"Bering Sea covered with Japanese fishing boats and nets north of Black Hills. No cutters around. We have God-given instinct to shoot so please ship dozen high-powered rifles, plenty of ammunition. Duplicate for Wilson."

William Hicker, secretary of the Alaska Fishermen's Union here, commented to interviewers that "we will not fool around any longer with this Japanese situation. The fishermen are angry and will take action to drive the Japanese out. Our men, going North, will be ready for action."

Seventy salmon fishermen will sail tomorrow aboard the steamship Mount McKinley, under charter to the Nakat Packing Corporation, and one said that "if the Japanese are fishing for salmon, there will be hell to pay!"

"Merely Taking Crabs."

Hicker said union information was there were 15 Japanese craft within eight miles of the Alaskan shore and making trips to shore "when no one was looking."

The Coast Guard, which has cutters in the fishing areas, investigated earlier reports of renewed Japanese invasion of the Bristol Bay (Bering Sea) salmon area, and reported the Japanese vessels sighted merely were taking crabs.

Dr. J. F. Worley, Bureau of Indian Affairs, said at Juneau, however, that crab gear could quickly be used for salmon.

Following widespread Pacific Coast protests against Japanese salmon fishing in Alaskan waters, the Japanese government in March of this year entered into an agreement with the State Department that it would suspend its official three-year salmon survey in the Alaskan region and would license no more Japanese ships to engage in salmon fishing there. Further, it promised punitive action against any Japanese craft engaged in the forbidden practice.

U. S. Cold to Plan of French For 3 Powers to Warn Reich

Czech

Diplomatic sources interpreted the American envoy's two visits as evidence of Washington's keen interest in efforts to keep peace and preserve Czechoslovakia's integrity.

But the same sources also saw in the Embassy's assertion no joint action was contemplated an indication of United States coolness toward direct action.

They believed American support would be only "moral" in the Czech crisis.

[The State Department is keeping itself closely advised as to developments in central Europe, it was learned last night. That, however, is the extent of its action up to this time, it was emphasized.

[Possibility of future action by this Government remained, it was clear, though the department has not committed itself on the necessity for taking any steps.

[Should it be considered later that any action was desirable, indications were it might be in the form of an expression of concern by Secretary Hull, delivered to the governments involved, with the hope that there shall be no hostilities.—Editor's note.]

Differences Seem Greater.

Prague, May 24 (AP).—The differences between Czechoslovakia's German minority and the government seemed greater than ever tonight, 24 hours after Sudeten German Leader Konrad Henlein had his first meeting with Premier Milan Hodza.

Reports circulating in government quarters said Reichsfuehrer Hitler was sending more troops into northeastern Austria opposite the most vulnerable section of Czechoslovakia's frontrier.

These reports said yesterday's withdrawal of German troops from the border took place only in Saxony and that they fell back only about 20 miles.

The situation within Czechoslovakia continued quiet, but authorities were taking special precautionary measures against possible disorders at Eger growing out of the funeral tomorrow of the two Nazi victims of last Saturday's shooting.

The Sudeten Germans, determined to pay an impressive tribute to their dead, planned to make the funeral a great public affair. All businesses will be closed during the services.

Among the numerous wreaths on display was one inscribed simply "Adolf Hitler" and adorned with a swastika emblem.

The political committee of the cabinet met tonight to discuss the situation. Hodza informed his colleagues of the nature of his conversations last night with Henlein and also reported on conferences he had had with the British and French ministers.

Hodza also conferred at length with President Eduard Benes.

As details of the talk between Henlein and Hodza began to filter through the veil of official uncommunicativeness, the conversation which at first was described as "encouraging" seemed anything but that.

Heinlein, it was learned, asked that Czechoslovak troops be withdrawn from Sudeten German border regions as a preliminary to serious negotiations. He received a curt refusal from Hodza.

When Hodza later asked the Sudeten German leader whether he intended on that account to break off negotiations altogether, Henlein replied "by no means."

The Sudeten Germans he said, were as anxious for a peaceful settlement of the minority question as the government, but felt conversations woul get nowhere as long as troops occupied their towns and freedom of public assembly was denied them.

British Refuses Glory.

London, May 24 (U.P.).—The British government appeared tonight to be striving to curb a growing impression that its "strong action" over the week-end swerved Germany away from drastic moves against Czechoslovakia.

The government, it was explained, is anxious that credit should be given to all powers concerned for their coolness and presence of mind —and particularly the government of Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Germans Wrathful.

Berlin, May 24 (AP).—German official quarters declined tonight to discuss what compromise between the Czech government and its Sudeten German minority would be acceptable to Nazis.

Japanese Navy Advances 60 Miles Up River

By the Associated Press.

Shanghai (Wednesday) May 25.—Japanese troops and bluejackets today pressed their campaign in Central China both by rail and by river.

In Honan Province, the Japanese offensive pushed toward Kaifeng, ancient capital of China, 40 miles east of the junction at Chengchow of the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow Railways.

The Japanese navy's Yangtze River squadron ended weeks of inactivity by steaming upstream 60 miles from Wuhu and shelling points along the banks.

Japanese on the Lunghai front resumed operations along the north bank of the Yellow River. Chinese sources disclosed that Japanese had reoccupied the site of the Menghsien Ford, opposite Loyang, where previous Japanese attempts to cross the river approximately 80 miles west of Chengchow had failed.

Control of Chengchow would give Japanese a foothold for a drive toward Hankow, some 300 miles to the south.

Japanese spokesmen conceded that Chinese divisions immediately west of the Tientsin-Pukow railway south of conquered Suchow had a chance of escaping Japanese troops virtually encircling the area. There was said to be a gap in Japanese lines about 12 miles south of Suchow which Japanese were rushing to close.

3 Disasters Drove Japanese Youth to Run Amok, Kill 28

Tokyo, May 24 (AP).—Three disasters striking 22-year-old Mutsuo Toi within a month were disclosed today as the reason for his mad murder orgy in which he killed 28 persons last Saturday.

Residents of his little village of Nishika said doctors recently pronounced the youth tubercular. Soon afterward his sweetheart jilted him. Then he failed in an examination to become a school teacher.

Shortly before midnight he set out on the murder tour, with an automatic shotgun, a hundred shells, a hatchet and three electric flashlights.

After slaying his 80-year-old grandmother he smashed an electric transformer, plunging the village into darkness. He fixed a flashlight over each ear and one in the center of his forehead and went from house to house shooting sleeping men, women and children. Then he fled to a forest and committed suicide.

Harvard Chemist Dies.

Cambridge, Mass., May 24 (AP).—Elmer Peter Kohler, 72, professor of organic chemistry at Harvard University, recognized as one of the Nation's outstanding chemists, died today at Massachusetts General Hospital.

France Increases Working Hours to Speed Production

Paris, May 24 (AP).—France embarked today on a 3-year public works program aimed at speeding up her industrial production.

Premier Edouard Daladier also pushed through a measure changing the 40-hour week.

One of the 32 new decrees approved by the cabinet permitted employers to make up seasonal shutdowns and dull production periods by extending the hours of work when business permits.

President Albert Lebrun, meeting with the cabinet, indorsed its plan to spend 11,000,000,000 francs (about $304,000,000) for public works to be started at once.

The Wage Bill Tangle.

Few pieces of legislation in recent years have become involved in a greater tangle than that which now surrounds the wages-and-hours bill. Even votes for and against the measure and the numerous amendments offered to it mean little. For some members of the House have voted their convictions, others have tried to boost their political fortunes and still others have thrown their support to damaging amendments in the hope of killing the bill.

"This bill has made strange bedfellows," Congressman McReynolds told his colleagues. Many Northern Republicans are supporting the President's drive to put the bill through. Southern Democrats are making a desperate stand against it. The fight is sectional as well as political. And the former factor is likely to be even more pronounced when the struggle is resumed in the Senate.

The votes to take up the bill, and finally to pass it, are perhaps less significant than some other divisions in the House yesterday. It is clear that a number of Representatives opposed to the measure have made a show of favoring it. By voting for a rigid minimum wage and maximum hours they minimize the chances of enactment for any bill on this subject. For the Senate is vigorously opposed to minimum wages fixed by law without reference to sectional differences in living costs.

In rejecting the Ramspeck amendment by a vote of 139 to 70 the House clearly showed its distaste for the Senate bill, after which this proposal was patterned. The indication is that many who favor the Ramspeck measure in principle voted against it only because the House Labor Committee bill will encounter greater difficulty at the north end of the Capitol. A more direct blow at the House bill was adoption of the amendment, exempting from its terms farm hands and employes in certain processing plants.

One of the most telling points against the measure was the statement by Mr. McReynolds that WPA relief wages range from $19.20 in some parts of the South to $55 per month in New York City. When the Government's own relief agency approves such a tremendous spread in its "subsistence wages," the attempt to blanket the entire country with one fixed minimum wage rate seems utterly unwarranted.

Revealing Contrast.

The long arm of Adolf Hitler has reached half-way around the world to snatch from Chiang Kai-shek his German military advisers. Gen. Baron Alexander von Falkenhausen and his staff of 40 officers have long been assisting the Hankow government in the training of a modern Chinese army and lately in directing Chinese strategy in the present war. Now they have been ordered to return to Germany. The indications are that most of them will obey the Fuehrer's behest.

Coming at a time when the London non-intervention committee is again grappling with the unsolved problem of how to get foreign "volunteers" out of Spain, this development is revealing. It shows how, given the will to withdraw, a way to do so can easily be found.

The great majority of Chiang Kai-shek's German military advisers went to China long before Hitler assumed power in the Reich. All of them joined Chiang Kai-shek's staff in a purely personal capacity. Their willingness to continue the job first undertaken by the late Col. Bauer in 1929 is witnessed by the fact that they remained at their posts when the present Sino-Japanese hostilities began. Yet, for most of them, apparently, a snap of the Fuehrer's fingers will sever a long and very satisfactory connection.

In contrast with the German contingent in China, the German fliers and technicians in Spain are not acting on their own individual initiative. They were sent to Spain as a matter of Nazi policy. They are thus far more directly subject to Hitler's orders than is Gen. von Falkenhausen and his colleagues. It can be taken for granted, therefore, that all that is needed to get them out of Spain is an order from Berlin. The same sort of order, from Mussolini, would evacuate the far more numerous Italian expeditionary force in Spain.

There is no sign, however, that such orders are soon to be given. Instead, Germany and Italy continue to use the non-intervention committee as a screen for intervention. The contrast between a dictator's will to dictate to his nationals, as involved in the Chinese and the Spanish situations, is thus highly revealing.

A Plethora Of Counsel.

It is now nearly three years since the Senate by resolution authorized its Committee on Manufactures to "investigate the desirability of establishing a national economic council." The inquiry has been prosecuted, in somewhat desultory fashion, but no report on its findings is as yet available. Today, however, a number of leaders in different lines of activity are scheduled to meet here with the Senate committee, with the expectation that their discussion may forward the project.

At first glance there is much appeal to the idea of an independent advisory council which, in the words of Senator Bulkley, "should serve as a balance wheel in our government, counterbalancing the political element with something more detached." But analysis raises many doubts as to the desirability of the proposal. On the one hand it is uncertain that the proposal would, as its sponsors hope, "relate more effectively to governmental policy the best thought and experience of our people." On the other hand it is not unlikely that the proposed council would confuse and impede the constructive efforts of existing agencies.

Other democracies have launched economic advisory councils, without any very pronounced success. One was established in Germany by the Weimar Constitution, but petered out and became practically moribund long before Hitler's accession to power. A similar agency was created by the Labor Government in Great Britain in 1930 and has made occasional suggestions. There is one in France, with many interesting reports but little in the way of concrete results to its credit. On the other hand the dictatorial governments all have official planning agencies, like the Supreme Council of National Economy in Russia, with very positive and frequently utilized powers.

Experience abroad points to the weakness in Senator Bulkley's plan. Either an official advisory council must have definite planning powers or its advice will be so ineffective as to render it of dubious value. That seems to be thoroughly demonstrated in the case of Secretary Roper's Business Advisory Council, which doesn't give much advice and which is generally disregarded by the Administration when it does advise.

If a National Economic Council is to be "purely advisory," as Senator Bulkley emphasizes, there seems no good reason for giving it an official stamp. There are already several such private agencies which are probably as competent to make constructive recommendations as any government-sponsored group of "big names" would ever be. It is difficult, for instance, to see how the proposed council could command more prestige and respect in the economic field than does the Brookings Institution here in Washington. The difficulty is not how to obtain competent advice for the Administration, but how to get the Administration to accept competent advice when given.

But if it is insisted that the advisory planning board must be official the case for Senator Bulkley's proposal would still need demonstration. In its limited field of planning in the strictly physical field the National Resources Committee is already doing excellent work, the more so because it has developed a most effective technique for co-ordinating the efforts of State and local planning agencies. If official advisory planning along economic and fiscal lines is wanted, an extension of function for the National Resources Committee rather than the establishment of a completely new parallel body would seem logical.

Washington is already bogged down with a host of official boards, commissions and councils, often overlapping and duplicating each other's work and busily giving unheeded advice to both the legislative and executive arms of government. It is illustrative of the confusion that even as the Senate considers curtailing the small appropriation of the National Resources Committee some of its members discuss establishing a potentially duplicating organization.

Under some circumstances, however, the proposed official economic council could be regarded as a valuable development. There might, for purposes of illustration, be a President with the temerity to assert before an election that he had definitely planned prosperity, or words to that effect. If an official economic council would then loudly observe "hooey" its service to the country would be very real. And, possibly, this is the sort of hypothetical development which Senator Bulkley has in mind.

All In The Same Boat.

The graph of industrial production in the United States, Great Britain, Germany and Sweden, reproduced on the page opposite today, constitutes a significant reminder of world economic interdependence.

It shows that for some months in 1937, while the curve of production in the United States was declining sharply, a rise continued in the other three countries. But in due course the same evolution of the trade cycle that was taking place here began to occur abroad.

It is impossible to estimate the extent to which the decline in American economic activity is responsible for the present setback in Europe's industrial production, and to what extent local factors are behind this decline. But in view of the enormous economic pull which the United States exercises in the world it is a fair presumption that the severity of the depression here is now affecting Europe adversely.

The opposite has also been true. Financial and economic difficulties abroad during 1929, preceding those which occurred on this side of the Atlantic, undoubtedly had an adverse bearing on our situation. While this decline was by no means solely responsible for our prolonged depression, it undoubtedly helped to intensify it.

In other words, every nation, great and small, those that cling to free enterprise and those embarked on experiments in autarchy, are all in the same boat. Each may, through extraordinary efforts, cushion itself for a time, but only for a time, against the impact of world economic trends. Soon or late all find themselves caught up in the prevalent world tide.

Foreign Trade Week.

All this week the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Foreign Trade Council, in conjunction with numerous local organizations throughout the country, are observing foreign trade week. As usual distinguished speakers representing the Government and private industry are participating. Secretaries Hull and Roper, both logical representatives of the President's official family, are making addresses.

Liberal use is being made of broadcasting facilities to enable the chief speakers to reach all parts of the United States. In New York City alone some 150 meetings have been planned to discuss foreign trade problems. This kind of intensive publicity is greatly needed. For generally speaking the American people are singularly ill-informed on foreign trade matters. They fail to appreciate the extent to which a flourishing trade with other nations aids domestic business. They also fail to understand why a broad, liberal policy in dealing with the rest of the world benefits our own producers.

Secretary Hull is a persuasive expounder of the doctrine that we must buy in order to sell. And he can cite our experience under the reciprocal trade agreements as a case in which the lowering of trade barriers has been accompanied by marked expansion of our export trade. Of course, it is impossible to determine to what extent this improvement is due to a lowering of trade barriers in view of the many complicating factors influencing trade trends.

While the actual volume of our foreign trade is small compared with our total domestic production, certain industries and certain classes of farm producers nevertheless depend upon export markets to take a large percentage of their output. For instance, one-half of the cotton crop is normally exported and it was recently asserted by a speaker at the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce that cotton production and handling normally give employment to one-half the South's working population. That simple illustration sufficiently proves that domestic prosperity is closely linked with a flourishing foreign trade.

Too much of the discussion of foreign trade problems heretofore has been carried on for the benefit of the initiated. Imposing arrays of figures and averages divorced from concrete data do not hold the attention of the public at large. But there is an abundance of colorful information relating to our foreign trade which could be turned to excellent account in skilled hands.

The program outlined for the current week should help to arouse interest in a subject which has not in the past made a popular appeal to the rank and file of Americans.

Seeing Eyes.

Maeterlinck makes the point that of all the animals only the dog has broken through the pervading mists of suspicion to win a place of trust and affection on Man's hearthstone. He maintains that if the tables were turned, and Man became the subservient creature, the horse could be confidently expected to kick his former master's brains out without a nicker of remorse, the cat would catch him up like a mouse while the hen would regard him as merely another luscious grub. The dog alone could be counted on to have a sympathy for Man.

Whether the fancy is justified will, we suspect, never be proved. But there can be no question of the unique position the dog enjoys in Man's heart. Evidence may be seen daily in millions of households in every quarter of the globe. None, however, can be more persuasive than the spectacle of the Seeing Eye dogs, those magnificent shepherds which serve as guardians for the blind. At least one is frequently seen in Washington, conducting his master through heavy traffic with a sureness many unhandicapped persons can envy.

Buddy, the first Seeing Eye dog to be brought here from training school in Europe, has just died of old age. At the time of her passing, she was piloting her master on an extensive lecture tour, the purpose of which was to raise funds to provide more blind persons with trained dogs. Her intelligence and devotion made an affecting story. Doubtless many will be moved by it to contribute to the worthy cause she promoted so effectively.

"The length of a yardstick would be reduced to zero if it moved with the speed of light—186,000 miles a second," declares a relativitist. Now tell us what would be the difference between a yardstick with a length of zero and no yardstick at all.

How time does fly! Listening to the radio last evening, we were surprised to learn that the gag about a United States traveler needing a passport to enter Maine or Vermont had already aged enough for use on the air.

The Railroads' Plight.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Coherence is not injected into the railroad tangle by proposal of certain Senators to withhold Government aid if wage cuts are enforced. It threatens to revive that short-sighted vindictiveness of the New Deal toward utilities—with benefit to none.

The plight of the roads and its menace to general recovery hardly needs comment. That plight is due to a strictly domestic product—the Roosevelt depression.

Loans to roads, to purchase equipment and stave off bankruptcy, are far preferable to those any PWA plan might contemplate, more cash being likely to filter past the hands of the faithful into pay envelopes.

That temporary cuts would precipitate a run of cuts in industry is largely personal opinion. It is recognized the August boosts were to the highest paid; if cuts are made that's the place for them. Commodity price dips make such a cut anything but unendurable.

Temporary cuts would release funds for much needed maintenance; increase work among those who need it far more than those employed to date by railroads; place roads beyond need of further Government aid; give an early "recoverable" status to the amounts presently advanced.

More roads unable to cover operating expense means employment reductions equal to last year. Does the Government claim it wisdom to abet in such a result, erect this further blockade to recovery?

A World Community.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The world has changed. There is a power station opposite Ford's Theater on Tenth street. A little farther down on Pennsylvania avenue a great, shining aluminum bird has been on view, and humans small in comparison, climbed a staircase to view the inside of this creature.

How feeble man is viewed in relation to these great instruments which roar in fearful power. And yet, following obediently the laws devised by the best and most dedicated among their fellowmen how precisely and confidently does he guide and control the machine in the pursuit of daily world commerce.

Oh, if man could only find the key to the new life and with that exemplary humility required in daily activity by science apply himself to the needs of a world community and sovereignty.

What will be the state of mankind when, taking the laws of those superior and perfect beings, the Messengers of God, the nations' rulers dedicate themselves to true education, economic co-operation—in accord with Divine justice.

To End "Religious Anemia."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Roger W. Babson, national moderator of the Congregational Church, has led a searing attack on modern religion and brands most churches as "country clubs." Add to this "Sunday School Membership Losses" for the past year given recently at the Baptist Union Assembly at City Temple, London: "Baptists, 16,000; Congregationalists, 23,000; Methodists, 66,000; Church of England, 82,000." At this rate, concluded R. Wilson Black, in 25 years there will not be a Sunday school scholar left in England.

The cure for this religious anemia, church leaders insist, is "going back" to old-fashioned religion. But progress is seldom a "going back." A little snooping will probably reveal most of these stray members meeting in back parlors where, under scores of titles, they are seeking a faith more potent to modern needs. Many of these new movements have "centers" in nearly every city and unnumbered followers everywhere, with not yet a church building to mark the spot.

Religion is in the blood. It won't be dispensed with. But "Feed my sheep" doesn't mean to chloroform their appetites with yesterday's hash. If churches would "Heal the sick as they are commanded, if they would comfort the bereaved with comfort amplified by the latest findings of science and investigation; if they would back up faith with examples of the physics in metaphysics and the relationship between telepathy and prayer; if they would substitute for time-worn phrases the simple outpouring of courage and love, the results might surprise them.

Such ministers as have reason to be worried may recall that when a person finds something that helps him he usually goes where it is without being pushed. L. L.

Oil On Troubled Waters.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In connection with the expropriation of British and American oil properties in Mexico, estimated at $400,000,000, may I suggest a plan wherein it seems to me all parties could be satisfied.

I suggest that if the American Government would be willing to advance $400,000,000 or the amounts necessary to settle the claims of the English and American companies for the oil lands expropriated, and that in return for such settlement, if the Mexican government would be willing to cede to the United States all of Baja California, and those lands lying north of latitude 28 in the states of Sonora, Chihuahua and Cohuila, Mexico, the benefits to be derived by such a settlement should be plainly obvious to any one.

I believe some such plan as this would greatly aid Mexico and make for greater friendship between the United States and Mexico. Mexico needs to be relieved of the obligation to pay so great an amount of cash so her progress may continue, and the United States of America would find new happiness and prosperity with these new lands to pioneer. Way To Peace.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I call your attention to the following words by Dorothy Thompson in an article entitled "We Know but One God" (The Christian Herald, April 1938): "Schuschnigg, a German, speaking in Vienna, a German city, a city which ruled the Germanic world for 1,000 years—the capital of the First Reich of the Holy Roman Empire—says: 'Germany must be Christian.' Those were not his words on Thursday, but that is the basic implication of the fight for Austrian independence. 'An abyss separates Austria from Naziism.' I quote again the words of Schuschnigg, not on Thursday, but stated early last month. 'We know but one God. And that is not the state, or the nation, or race.'"

Today Chancellor Schuschnigg and his ideal for his people lie crushed by the might and the tyranny of fanatical and pagan Naziism. Yet in this land of America one of our Senators is quoted by the newspapers as saying that what has happened in Austria is no concern of ours. He has expressed the policy of a great many members of the Congress, who are probably very sincere in their beliefs.

On the other hand the absolute pacifists are urging that peace-at-any-price constitutes the solution of our difficulties and those of other nations in the fact of the present international emergency.

In an article entitled "Which Way to Peace?" which appeared recently in the Southern Churchman, I suggested:

Should not the President and the Congress be challenged to consider the immediate entrance of the United States into the League of Nations as a practical step for us to take as a nation at this solemn hour for the preservation of peace through the orderly processes of government? To pit our strength against Japan or any other nation would only lead to another futile war, which settles nothing. The dictators today are bold, daring and aggressive. Why should not we also be bold and daring, yet for government, for peace and for the brotherhood of man!

Yankee Doodle.

For all our American pride and pleasure in the song, "Yankee Doodle," neither the origin of the tune nor the derivation of the two words in the title has ever been determined with certainty. So Harold Davis reminds us in the current issue of American Speech. Mr. Davis reviews the various arguments and shows that any number of derivations have been suggested, but the real purpose of his article is to make known some new evidence.

It seems that there were recently discovered, in the basement of the Calais Free Library, in Calais, Me., 42 diary notebooks which once belonged to James S. Pike. This Pike was a versatile fellow, having been a famous newspaper correspondent and American Minister to Holland from 1861 to 1866. In one of these notebooks was found a draft of a letter, written from Holland in 1864, "To the Ed. of the Boston Advertizer." This letter reports on Pike's investigation into "Yankee Doodle," and a most enjoyable letter it is. Here, we can only give you a summary. "Yankee," Pike said, quite likely came from "Jan-tje," meaning "Little John." "Doodle" probably came from "doedel," which the Dutch used as part of their description of a Scotch bagpipe. It meant "toot."

The Post Impressionist

Hey, Hey, Hey.

NOW that I've been some other places, I'm ready to admit Washington's traffic is the best in the world. Sure, they pass you on both sides at once and cut across you to make right-hand turns and edge up on you at the light, and it's true that the Frenchman who designed this town gave it the same orderly beauty as a maze. But anybody who complains hasn't been to Richmond, Roanoke, Va.; Raleigh, N. C.; Savannah, Ga., and St. Augustine, Fla.

* * * *

Traffic in Richmond doesn't travel fast, but it travels constantly. That is to say, if a car is going down a through street and another one is going down a side street, neither one stops for the other—unless, of course, they collide. The fact that many of the streets have traffic signals annoys the residents beyond their endurance. If a line of autos piles up behind a red light, every driver except the front one sits on his horn until he can start driving again.

The motion is slowest in Roanoke. Omnipresent hills are largely to blame, but whatever the cause no traffic signal lets through more than three autos between shifts, and if you're fourth you sit through two red lights. Drivers there and in Raleigh have a pretty habit. Being forewarned, even though unbelieving, I saved myself several wrecks. If the man ahead of you pulls out into the middle of the street, what conclusion do you draw? You're wrong. In Roanoke or Raleigh he's going to make a right turn, and if you draw up beside him he'll crash you.

Savannah is really the worst. Travel in Savannah is typical of most things in most Southern cities—fine for those who live there but tough for everybody else. Savannah first families, for instances, know which two or three of the many little side streets to travel on when they cut across town at 40 miles an hour. Traffic on the boulevards must stop at these steeplechase hurdles for indefinite and sometimes painful periods.

Those stops are easy, for they are plainly marked. Nothing else is. About every third street is a one-way lane, but there are no signs to tell you so except where it crosses the main thoroughfares. At the risk of life and fender, you may travel forbidden directions until an inhospitable crowd on a corner begins to shout "Hey, hey, hey!" Then you turn desperately to the right or left.

Nor, except in isolated cases, are the names of the streets displayed. Savannah is divided into two parts by a park; on one side live the goats, on the other side the sheep. A stranger's only method of finding a friend's house is to ask a pedestrian whether this is east or west, circle the park if necessary and then inquire again for the desired street.

There is a reason why the streets are not marked, though not all Savannahans know it. An old resident told me some years ago the city council, after the expected wrangling, appropriated money to put up the signs. The work was started, but a civic leader objected to the kind of signs the contractor had picked out. That was too much of a problem to solve in such a hot climate, so they called it a draw. All that puzzles me is what they did with the rest of the money.

No description of Savannah would be complete without some mention of the squares. Residents are startlingly proud of these unique obstacles, some of which only recently have been planted with grass, azaleas and monuments. Coming upon one of these at night, unexpectedly, is a terrifying experience for the stranger. If the street carries trolley tracks all he sees is a normal intersection, for the electric cars go through the squares. Soon, however, if he follows ahead, he finds himself hurtling across a miniature park. It is too late to turn back, so he bumps on, wondering how soon he will crash into the memorial to the Confederate dead. There really isn't any danger, however, for so many people have done the same thing before, a well-defined road has been worn through the center.

By daylight you can see that the squares really are square, a fact which makes them supremely deceptive at night. The way to get around them and stay on the same streets is to turn to the right, to the left, to the left again, and then to the right again. To turn left you start out by going to the right, drive all the way around the square and get out at the last possible place before the gap where you came in. Rectilinear geometry makes the squares easier to solve, once you know about them, than Washington's circles. You can be almost certain there are only four exits to the square.

St. Augustine is easier because aside from being smaller, it is less unexpected. My impression is that there is one big two-way street which goes all the way around the outside of St. Augustine, and all the other streets are one-way. If you look up and down before you turn, you can't go wrong—unless you scrape the side of a building getting around the corner. One street is only 7 feet wide, the propaganda says, but I didn't see it. The others were only a little wider. But I'm not in favor of tearing down the town to get the automobiles in—people in Bermuda ride bicycles and seem happy enough about it. Chamber of Commerce, St. Augustine, please note. T. R.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler.

Mr. Whitney's Case.

WHEN Richard Whitney, the former president of the New York Stock Exchange, comes out of Sing Sing Prison on parole, not sooner than three years from now, the conditions of his release will be the same that are imposed on all other parolees.

PEGLER.

Mr. Whitney will be required to be off the streets and home by 9:30 or 10 at night; he will be forbidden to frequent any place in which liquor is sold; he must shun evil companions; he may not drive an automobile, and he must obtain formal permission to leave the State, or even the city, to play a game of golf or attend the yacht races.

Under these restrictions he will find himself unable to attend the opera, the horse show or the prize fights at Madison Square Garden without overstaying his curfew and risking return to Sing Sing as a parole violator.

Regardless of whether any of his old clubs, including the New York Yacht Club, are willing to take him back, he will not be permitted to visit them. Clubs have bars, and the bar of the New York Yacht Club is no better than the corner saloon in the view of the parole system. For that matter, J. P. Morgan's yacht probably is no better than the corner saloon, inasmuch as Mr. Morgan is believed to serve wine with his meals.

• • • •

MR. WHITNEY'S old clubs are a bit on the exclusive side and quite choosy about their memberships but there is one class of men, at least, who cannot afford to be seen in them.

The situation is similar to one which developed last winter in the social life of Sarasota, Fla., where Prince Michael Cantacuzene, late aide de camp to the commander in chief of the armies of the Czar of All the Russias, is employed as overseer of the Palmer interests. The winter before the Soviet Ambassador, Mr. Troyanovsky, visited Sarasota for a brief vacation and was snubbed by Prince Mike, although they had been fellow cavalry officers under the Czar.

But this year, in view of the liquidations in Moscow of trusted members of the Soviet diplomatic service, the Ambassador was the one who had the option. This time it made no difference how the Prince felt about the matter. The Ambassador could not afford to be seen in the company of a White Russian Prince. It might have cost him his life before a firing squad in Moscow.

The avoidance of evil companions always is a delicate problem for a parolee. All former convicts are considered to be evil companions, and a paroled man may be picked up and sent back even if he was caught passing the time of day to a man he knew up the river. But it is also the purpose of the system to prevent a man's return to the old gang with which he associated at the time he fell into sin.

• • • •

IN MR. WHITNEY'S case the old gang was made up of members of the New York Stock Exchange and the Wall Street banking set, and it will be well for him to obtain a ruling on them. It would be sad indeed for an earnest penitent trying to go straight to be hauled back to Sing Sing for associating with leaders of New York finance and society.

A paroled burglar caught with a jimmy is deemed to be up to mischief, but there is no decision on record whether a former president of the Stock Exchange may be similarly judged for having a fathom of ticker tape in his possession.

Mr. Whitney's career to date in Sing Sing has been a distinct success, and without any overt act or word of complaint he has, by the publicity of his case, made propoganda for the abandonment of the old cell house which Warden Lawes, on the day of his arrival, described as the foulest and lousiest in the land. Whitney took the cell assigned to him in the least desirable section of the building and lived there until he was eligible for promotion to a slightly less lousy one in his regular turn.

On the morning of his promotion he called for a bucket of hot water, a brush and a bar of soap and by breakfast time had scrubbed the cell from top to bottom to leave it as clean as possible for the next man. It was the first time in the history of Sing Sing that any prisoner had shown this consideration for another.

The Once Over

Reunion At Corbeil.

Popper and Mommer Dionne are to be allowed to live in the same house with their own babies. The new home will be big enough to house the whole family and have rooms left over for the board of directors, the finance committee, the advertising agents and the head cashier.

• • • •

At a meeting of the Canadian guardians and Popper Oliva it was decided that a parent's place is in the home. Even if it means a lot of embarrassment up to the time their children get to know them.

• • • •

Pop Dionne gets the right to pass on the quints' nurses and teachers, with the provision that he can make only two dismissals. On the third strike he has to call in the other guardians, who will have the veto power.

• • • •

Results are awaited with interest. Everything may turn out peacefully, but you have got to remember that the quintuplets aren't accustomed to having parents hanging around the house.

• • • •

Oliva Dionne has been fighting for four years for the right to come into the home without knocking. Mother, too, has felt that it would be nice if her children could get to know her by her first name.

• • • •

The state has opposed the idea, as it believed that, while parents might be able to handle two children o. k., five were a matter for government control. Then, too, the quints became a big industry, one of the few not hurt by the depression.

• • • •

Indorsements, trade marks, movies, etc., put the kids in a sounder financial shape than the Canadian government. Popper has been fighting for the right to attend the business meetings. And he had a good argument. He was one of the founders, wasn't he?

• • • •

Future movies of the quintuplets may come under the head of fight pictures. There is going to be trouble when they look up at pop and mom, scream a little and demand who those two strangers are.

• • • •

The new home will have, among other features, a rumpus room for visiting radio agents and an entire floor for stockholders' meetings. The only thing that worries the guardians is the front porch. They're afraid Oliva will want to sell hot dogs, post cards and souvenirs on it.

New Court Fight?

Wallace's Warning Based On Kansas City Stockyard Decision Offset By Bar Association Recommendations.

By Merlo J. Pusey.

THE CONTROVERSY aroused by the Supreme Court's recent opinion on administrative procedure has deep roots. At first it appeared that only Secretary Wallace was annoyed because the Court criticized procedure once followed by the Department of Agriculture and failed to return $700,000 in impounded commission fees to farmers. Now it is evident that the Administration is striking at the principle laid down by the Court. In his petition for a rehearing Solicitor General Jackson stated a positive belief that the case had been "wrongly decided."

Administration Said To Miss Fundamentals.

SECRETARY WALLACE contends that the Supreme Court's action has resulted in giving "to the Kansas City commission men and their attorneys $700,000 of impounded money which rightfully belongs to the farmers." That is precisely the sort of accusation which arouses public resentment against the courts. Instead of looking behind the decision for the real cause of this alleged injustice, Administration spokesmen are content to throw the full blame for a haphazard administrative system upon justices unable to speak in their own defense.

As a matter of fact, no one can fairly say that this money belongs to the farmers, who tentatively paid it in the form of commissions. It would have belonged to farmers if the Department of Agriculture had reduced the rates after conducting a fair hearing. But the Court held that the procedure by which it effected the reduction was unfair. To assume that a fair hearing would have brought precisely the same result is a speculation that most objective minds would not care to make.

There will be general agreement that the outcome of the department's efforts to reduce commission rates in Kansas City is a fiasco. The case dragged on for five years, and the department is right back where it started from. Instead of automatically assigning the blame for this failure to the courts, however, the objective critic will trace the difficulty to its origin.

In passing the packers and stockyards act Congress failed to prescribe any procedure that would guarantee a fair hearing to persons aggrieved by the Administration. Likewise the Secretary of Agriculture failed to grant the commission men an opportunity to be heard in opposition to the specific changes proposed. In no event could the Supreme Court have corrected either of these mistakes until two years ago. It then indicated what is the proper procedure to safeguard individual rights, without insisting that any rigid line of action should be followed.

As Secretary Wallace has pointed out, he adopted this favored practice as to future cases. But he made no attempt to go back and correct the mistake that had been made in the Kansas City case. When the recent decision of the Court was handed down the National Labor Relations Board quickly attempted to revise its procedure in some cases that were being contested in the courts. But Secretary Wallace took no such precaution. If he had done so, the period of confusion would have been reduced by at least two years.

Court Two Years Ago Lacked Full Information.

THE ONLY THING the Supreme Court might have done to bring the tangle to an earlier denouement was to have made its decision more specific two years ago. It must be remembered, however that the Court did not know at that time whether Secretary Wallace had made his own findings or had merely accepted the findings prepared by "the active prosecutors for the Government." Without that information it was unable definitely to say whether or not a fair hearing had been granted. So the case was sent back to the lower court with instructions to determine the part Mr. Wallace had played in the hearing and to ascertain whether or not the complainants had been accorded a fair hearing.

Critics of the Court should ask themselves what other course it could reasonably have taken. The Court does not draft laws passed by Congress. It does not set up the rules and regulations under which the Government's numerous administrative agencies operate. It cannot step into a case until some aggrieved party contends that his rights have been violated. Even then it is not the function of the courts to determine cases of this sort on their merits.

Secretary Wallace complains that even after five years "the Court finally has decided the case, saying '. . . we express no opinion on the merits.'" It is the duty of the Secretary of Agriculture to decide issues arising under the packers and stock yards act on their merits. The courts can make no such decisions. They can upset the orders of administrative agencies only when the latter exceed their authority, fail to grant a fair hearing, make findings not supported by facts or otherwise abuse the authority granted to them. In other words, the courts do not have the primary responsibility in administrative cases. They function only as a check against the invasion of individual rights by officials to whom quasi-judicial functions have been assigned.

If a systematic procedure for administrative agencies were adopted, they would not have to blunder along with a process of trial and error until rules are gradually built up by court decision. There is certain to be confusion so long as 130 different administrative agencies are operating under haphazard rules that may or may not preclude an invasion of citizens' rights.

The obvious remedy is not an attack upon the courts but upon the deficiencies of the law. Mr. Jackson's attempt to overthrow the decision in the Kansas City case leads to the disturbing thought that the Administration is not primarily interested in getting at the root of the difficulty.

Satisfactory Remedy Already Found By Bar.

THAT ATTITUDE is the more unfortunate because a satisfactory legislative remedy is readily available. Last year the special committee on administrative law of the American Bar Association, then headed by O. R. McGuire, council of the General Accounting Office, prepared a bill to facilitate the handling of disputes in the departments and independent agencies.

First, the Bar Association wants rules to be made more scientifically. Nearly all statutes have to be implemented by regulations to secure uniform administration throughout the country. But these regulations are usually drafted by some obscure person within the Government service without hearings or consultation.

Under the proposed bill rules and regulations would be published only after hearings. As a further safeguard, the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia would be authorized to hear petitions for the purpose of determining whether rules thus set up conform to the Constitution and the statute under which they are issued. The validity of rules could be determined in this way without the necessity of waiting years for test cases.

Interdepartmental boards would be set up to hear routine complaints and grievances against administrative officers. Some boards of this type are now operating, but most of them are handicapped by irregular procedure. The Bar Association plan would definitely outline their functions and technique. Yet they would not become full-time semijudicial bodies that might be weighted down by political appointments. Their personnel would be drawn from the technicians of the departments, with a lawyer as chairman, so that they would remain intimately in touch with practical administrative problems.

Cases arising before independent agencies would be heard first by trial examiners. In submitting his findings of fact and decision to the independent agency the examiner would also forward a copy to the other parties concerned. Should there be objection to the findings or decision the agency could not enter its order without first conducting a public hearing.

These are the requirements of a fair hearing outlined by the Supreme Court in both of its decisions in the Kansas City Stock Yards case. If they can be written into law, the injustice and confusion of which Secretary Wallace complains can certainly be minimized if not eliminated.

It is a far cry from this constructive approach to insinuations againt the Supreme Court because it insists that fair hearings must be granted. Reform begins, not with the court, but with the obsolete administrative system. Should any group of officials attempt to weaken the power of the judicial branch to protect individual rights, instead of providing adequate rules for boards and commissions, Secretary Wallace's prediction of "another battle" over the courts is likely to prove all too accurate.

World Industry

A Statistical Comparison.

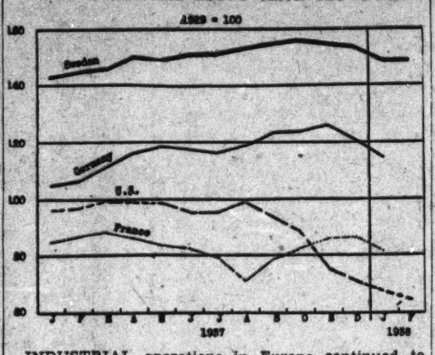
Pace Slackens Here And Abroad.



INDUSTRIAL operations in Europe continued to expand while they were receding in the United States. The recession had its earliest manifestation in this country, but it has since become general.

In considering the accompanying chart, for example, one should note that the data are related to the year 1929, which was a major boom period for the United States but not for most of Europe. For this reason activity in many European countries can rise considerably above the level of 1929 without creating an unhealthy situation, while any substantial rise above that level in the United States would be viewed with misgivings.

The British index of production is not included in the chart because it is computed on a quarterly basis. Its trend during 1937 was gradually upward, and at the end of the year stood at 127.4, with the average for 1929 as 100. Although the index for the first quarter of 1938 has not yet been published, various other data indicate that British industrial operations have declined since the turn of the year. The expansion during 1937 in countries like Great Britain and Germany was stimulated in some degree by rearmament. Other countries which maintain no great military establishments but which, like Sweden, supply raw materials for war equipment, have likewise benefited from the rearming of the great powers.

Agony In Utopia

By John T. Appleby.

The Russian Concentration Camps.

MOST BOOKS ON THE SOVIET UNION are to be taken with a grain of salt, or at least with a due consideration of the fact that almost all foreign writers on the subject have come to the country with certain preconceived ideas and that they naturally tend to interpret facts in the light of these preconceptions, while on the other hand the books by the Russians themselves are either out-and-out propaganda or else the products of exiles who want to paint conditions in the most unfavorable light possible.

Ivan Solonevich, the author of "Soviet Paradise Lost," was of a poor peasant family and consequently had nothing to lose by the Revolution. He had just finished his studies as a lawyer when the Revolution came, but in the new scheme of things there was no place for lawyers. He found work with the Sports Administration and traveled all over the country in connection with his duties, which were not too onerous. Indeed, he makes it clear that his lot in life was far above that of the average Russian.

But after observing the appalling misery in all parts of the country, the conditions of gross mismanagement which prevailed everywhere, the infinitude of red tape, and the constant spying on one's neighbor which seems to be a major Russian pastime, and after having to spend all his time in concocting padded or purely fictional reports for his superiors and for the propaganda organs, Solonevich decided to attempt to flee a country where life was hardly worth the living.

• • • •

HE, HIS BROTHER, AND HIS SON made the attempt, but, thanks to the activities of one of the omnipresent spies, they were captured before they had fairly started. The sentence for this crime was eight years in a concentration camp.

The major portion of the book deals with conditions in the concentration camps, which are not prisons but "Conscript Labor Concentration Projects." The author estimates that there are under the present system at least 5,000,000 people confined in these camps and another 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 in other places of enforced servitude. At no time since the Assyrian empire have similar numbers been employed on forced labor projects.

Conditions within the camps, as reported by Solonevich, are the result of incredible brutality and stupidity. The prisoners are given so little food that countless numbers die of starvation. They are insufficiently clothed for the bitter winters of northern Russia, where most of the camps are located, so that many die of exposure. There is no pretense at adequate medical care. No effort is made to assign prisoners to work for which they are fitted.

• • • •

ALWAYS PRESENT is the endless red tape. In accordance with the idea of planned economy, estimates are made by the officials in charge as to how much work is to be accomplished, even though no one knows how many workers are available or under what conditions they will have to work. There would be a certain grim humor in the accounts of the mistakes made, were it not for the fact that these mistakes affect the lives of millions of people.

The author's most startling contention, however, is that conditions outside the concentration camps are not much different from those within them. He depicts the Russian people as offering continual and stubborn resistance to the government. Something of this is hinted at by the Webbs in the figures they give on the liquidation of the kulaks.

• • • •

IT IS NOT FOR THIS REVIEWER to attempt any judgment of the veracity of the picture painted by "Soviet Paradise Lost." Even experts in Russian matters could hardly do so, for it is not likely that concentration camps would be open for inspection by the visitor to Russia. As the author points out, visitors are too often inclined to praise the Soviet system as a noble experiment, without taking into account the cost of that experiment in human lives and suffering. One can only say that Mr. Solonevich describes conditions of appalling misery and suffering, involving almost a tenth of the population of the country.

A further volume is to tell of the author's eventual escape from the concentration camp and from the Soviet Union.

Entomological Etymology

A deserving word which is not used as much these days as we think it should be is "humbug." We are moved to put in a plea for it not only because it seems to be somewhat forgotten but because American Speech reminds us that no one is even certain of its derivation. Back in 1870 it was suggested that it was a corruption of Hamburg because "during a period when war prevailed on the continent, so many false reports and lying bulletins were fabricated at Hamburg, that at length, when any one wished to signify his disbelief of a statement, he would say, 'That's from Hamburg,' or 'That's a Hamburg,' or he would simply sneer, 'Hamburg!' which finally got corrupted into 'humbug'" Irish and Scotch sources have also been suggested for it. At any rate, humbug is no upstart, for there is evidence of its use as early as 1740.

Johnson Says Army Is 50 Pct. Ready for War

NationMore Prepared Than Ever Before, He Informs Ordnance Groups.

By the Associated Press.

Rock Island, Ill., May 24.—The United States, Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson reported tonight, "is on the road toward an adequate national defense."

"Never in the peacetime history of our country has it (the Nation) been more responsive to the needs of our Army," he told an audience of civil and military leaders who would be charged with the task of producing munitions in event of conflict. "The President has led in awakening America to its defensive needs. A sympathetic Congress has co-operated. A devoted War Department has put its shoulder to the wheel. Industry has given full support. The Army is moving forward.

"We are better prepared, perhaps, than ever before, but we must not be overconfident. There is still much to be done. We are not yet ready, if called upon, to take the field in defense of America. Fifty per cent of our Army's defensive program is finished, but there is still another vital 50 per cent that remains to be completed before we can feel fully competent to defend our shores."

Addresses Ordnance Group.

Johnson spoke to the nineteenth annual meeting of the Army Ordnance Association at a celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Government's huge Rock Island Arsenal.

He described the arsenal as the "war's greatest workshop" during the 1917-18 period but added:

"We must realize that if we worked Rock Island Arsenal to full capacity and did the same for our other five manufacturing arsenals, we still would be unable to produce more than 10 per cent of the Army's requirements in time of war. For the other 90 per cent of our munitions needs, we will have to turn to civilian production."

The Assistant Secretary said that to facilitate the shift from the manufacture of implements of peace to the weapons of war, the department earmarked 10,000 plants for war production. Owners were eager to co-operate, he added, but further steps were necessary to minimize the time element in industrial mobilization.

Peacetime Orders Cited.

"The War Department should have authority to place in peace time what are technically known as 'educational orders' with those plants which must have such aids as gauges, tools, dies and fixtures before they can perform war tasks," he stated. "I am happy to report that legislation granting this authority is now before Congress and a House committee has acted upon it favorably."

The United States, Johnson said, had no peer in the important matter of the "combat efficiency" of its planes. He expressed the hope that the air force would have its full complement of 2,320 planes in 1940.

What was needed now, he concluded, was a greater number of more highly skilled officers and enlisted men to man the war birds.

Roosevelt Plans Study.

President Roosevelt said yesterday he intended to make a personal study of the merits and worth of dirigibles as part of the naval forces.

Asked at his press conference if any investigation of the question had been made since naval chiefs disagreed on the feasibility of zeppelins while testifying before the House Naval Affairs Committee last year, the President replied that no study had been made. He refused to elaborate further, saying the subject was a military secret.

Last week Mr. Roosevelt asked Congress to appropriate $500,000 to begin construction of a small dirigible.

The Federal Diary

Notes.

A prediction that the United Cafeteria Employes' Local Industrial Union No. 471 would carry the cafeteria election by 95 per cent was made yesterday by Jack Mink, the union's business agent. The referendum, which will determine the bargaining agent for the employes in the Welfare and Recreational Association cafeterias in 22 Federal buildings here, got under way at 9 a. m. yesterday in the North Interior Building. Throughout the day the balloting was extended to other buildings and will close this afternoon. The results should be known by 6 p. m. today.

Chief Forester F. A. Silcox announces the appointment of Richard E. McArdle as director of the Appalachian Forest Experiment Station, with headquarters in Asheville. He will assume his new duties on July 1. For the past two years he has served as director of the Rocky Mountain Forest and Range Experiment Station at Fort Collins, Colo. . . . The appointment of Stephen N. Wyckoff as director of the Pacific Northwest Forest and Range Experiment Station, with headquarters in Portland, is announced from the same quarters.

Federal Employes Union No. 2, N. F. F. E., offers its second excursion of the year to New York City this week-end. Other excursions are planned for July 4, September 5 and the new holiday, November 11. Additional details can be secured from Miss Mary L. Thornton and Henry G. Nolda, at the headquarters . . . The program, "Bare Metals" will be broadcast at 3:30 p. m. Sunday as the feature of the Smithsonian Institution series, "The World Is Yours." The program will depict how modern technology uses radium to discover flaws in steel, as well as for the treatment of cancer. Incidentally, there is only 1½ pounds of the precious metal in the world, and it now sells for about $200,000 per gram.

Carl Cook, of the Postoffice Department auditing division, is spending his vacation at his home in Kentucky . . . The fourth performance of the Union Playhouse, to be given June 3 at 8 in the Agriculture Auditorium, will feature the Montressor Ramblers, composed of employes at the Soldiers' Home. Another feature will be a showing of "The River," FSA film.

Representative Henry C. Tiegan, of Minnesota, will speak on "Laoot Legislation" at a meeting of U. F. W. A. L. Local 11 (Treasury) at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the headquarters, 532 Seventeenth street northwest.

Again the "Gay Nineties" program is offered by the popular Agriculture Chorus. They appear this evening and tomorrow evening in the Agriculture Auditorium, singing such favorites as "In the Good Old Summertime," "After the Ball," "Daisy Belle," etc. New soloists and acts assure variety for those who have seen this program in one of its previous offerings by the chorus. The Agriculture Quartet, consisting of Ralph Marston, Leonard Kephart, John M. Wilson and Roy B. Gray, will be on hand, while soloists will include Ethel Gribble, Prudence Jackson, Hilda Nelson, Mrs. Katharine Warren, Mrs. Doris Menter and Rolla P. Currie. Among the specialty performers are Layle Reed, dancer, and Joel G. Winkjer and Kathryn Campbell on the "bicycle built for two." Robert Frederick Freund will direct and Victor Neal will be at the piano. There is no admission charge. The public is invited. . . .

Those Postoffice Department officials hardly sleep on the same pillow any two nights. Now William L. Slattery, P. O. Dept. comptroller, is headed by auto for the West Coast, stopping off en route to make 11 speeches to conventions of postmasters . . . Wonder if he has to write all those speeches himself, or if the press section does it for him or he himself writes one speech and delivers same to all the conventions? . . .

A Public Kiss for New Arrival at Zoo

Yachting Trip Gives Unknown Chance to Star

Jeffry Lynn Is Projected Into Role Intended for Errol Flynn.

By the United Press

Hollywood, May 24.—Refusal of Errol Flynn to come home and go to work resulted today in the making—maybe—of a new movie star named Jeffry Lynn.

Few youngsters in Hollywood ever got such a lucky break as his.

The Warner Brothers these several weeks have been sending telegrams, frantic, pleading, threatening and otherwise, all urging Flynn to come back and be the hero in the movie version of Fannie Hurst's "Sister Act."

Flynn said "no" and said it again. He was cruising aboard his yacht in the West Indies with his wife, Lily Damita, and he said he didn't intend to cut his vacation short for any mere movie making. The Warners finally gave up—and gave his part to young Lynn, one of their stock players.

May Become Star.

If the picture is a success, Lynn automatically becomes a star, much as did Flynn himself several years ago when he got his chance in "Captain Blood," after the producers could find no other leading man.

Lynn, who is tall, nice looking and mighty nervous, is playing with the three Lane sisters and Claude Rains, under direction of Michael Curtiz, Hollywood's leading butcher of the English language and the man who megaphoned the phenomenally successful "Robin Hood."

The set on stage 17 is particularly interesting. A few weeks ago this same set was in use for "White Banners." It depicted a Middle Western village in the midst of a blizzard. Frame houses, with imitation icicles hanging from the eaves, lined both sides of the street, gympsum snow drifted over the sidewalks, and the trees were so bare they shivered when blasts from the wind machines whistled through their limbs.

Summer Comes.

Now summer has come overnight to this movie town. Grips have shoved up the gypsum and tacked paper grass in its place. They have wired pink apple blossoms to the branches of the trees. They have planted artificial wistaria and they have slowed up the wind blowers until they send gentle zephyrs through the uniformly curly hair of the sisters Lane.

Fashion note: The doggonedest dress we ever did see currently is covering the shapely body of Miss Ginger Rogers, dancing again, after a year, with Fred Astaire in R. K. O's "Carefree." Her frock is black and sort of whirly-skirted (because she has handsome knees), and it has one touch of color. This consists of a large red heart, embroidered exactly over her own ticker. A couple of dozen silver arrows, on her sleeves, skirt and shoulders, all point toward her heart and the effect is slick. We're no dressmaker, but we think the idea oughtn't to be hard to copy. Almost any old black dress, together with some left-overs from Valentine Day, should do the trick.

Flying on the Ground.

It's-no-fate note: Richard Dix and Chester Morris are flying over the mountains these days in a new Ryan monoplane at R. K. O. and they're doing the whole trick inside process stage six. The picture is "Ground Crew" and the studio is chary about telling too much concerning its fancy photography, but we can't understand why. It's obvious that a movie sound and camera crew couldn't be aloft on the wing of an airplane, recording the words and action of a couple of fliers inside it, so why not tell how the effect was obtained? Here goes:

The studio sent photographers aloft to get film of the mountain scenery. This was shown on a transparent screen in front of which were Dix and Morris in their airplane. A grip gently wiggled the wing of the ship, while another expert sent burning resin fog through a wind machine. The camera recorded the mountain scenery, the actors and the whole shooting match and the results, of course, will be perfect in the completed picture. Why the movie big-wigs should try to keep such superb co-ordination of so many things such a deep secret is beyond us. You'd almost think they were ashamed of their acknowledged ability to make things seem what they aren't. They ought to be proud.

'Kentucky Moonshine' Elevates the Ritz Brothers To Stardom in a Tuneful 'Hillbilly' Bit of Lunacy

Eccentric Comic Play First Sustained Roles in Farce of Hills and Radio Studios; Kaye Has Ace Band Act; a Letter About the Abbey Players; Wanted: a Mary Magdalene; Those Crane Sisters; Notes.

SO THOSE incorrigible and mildly insane Ritz Brothers have stopped doing mere "bits" in pictures and have become full-fledged stars in a lunatic, full-length feature picture.

This does not mean that the three riotous and rowdy roisterers have abandoned their accustomed style of eccentric fun-making, but merely that they have strung together enough of their bizzarre tomfooleries to compile a coherent, if slightly daffy, story and something in the nature of sustained characterizations. The result is a fast-moving piece of nonsense that falls more nearly into the classification with "Mountain Music" than anywhere else.

BELL.

There was a good deal of laugher from the pews in the Twentieth Century-Fox private projection room yesterday afternoon when "Kentucky Moonshine" was unspooled for the drama desks and even more tuneful music from the sound horns back of the screen. The story contrived by Jack Lait, jr., Art Arthur and M. M. Musselman for the stellar use of the rabid Ritzes represents a new twist of the familiar fable of the tyros trying to crash a sponsored radio program in a big New York studio. Having no luck, they hit upon the ruse of beating some talent scouts to the Cumberland Mountains in Kentucky, where they hope to be "discovered" as native entertainers who will prove just what the studio needs to bolster its diminishing popularity—and are.

There is feuding going on in them thar Kaintucky hills and the "Slack" family gets itself into all manner of trouble with the rival Hatfields, to say nothnig of the difficulties they subsequently have with the studio officials and a few "chiselers" who are privy to the deception. There is fun in this situation. The Ritz Brothers, Marjorie Weaver, Tony Martin, Wally Vernon and all the rest get a great deal of fun out of it.

As has been said here so many times before, you either like the Ritz Brothers or you don't. They probably will be better liked in this subject than they ever have been before, by reason of the homogeneity of the whole thing and the fact that a real story† stold through the medium of their completely daft antics. They overdo heir comed; at every turn of the farcial wheel and "mug" too much for comfort, but when they finally get back to the New York studio they also turn in some burlesque imitations that are cleverly conceived and skillfully executed. They have fun with Rudy Vallee, "Doctor Quiz," "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and a considerable number of other vulnerable subjects.

"Kentucky Moonshine," needless to say, is not for the sober theatergoer. For those who find it possible to let themselves go now and again in an hour or so of utter absurdity, it ought to prove quite a stimulant.

• • • •

About these Ritz Brothers: Al was born August 27, 1903; Jimmy on October 5, 1905, and Harry on May 22, 1908. They all took to show business, in one form or another, while still in their 'teens. They combined their talents in 1925 and decided to do a three-act and have been at it ever since, refusing to sign otherwise than as a three-brother unit. It is a simple matter to tell which is which. Harry is always the one in the middle—unless he happens to be on one end or the other.

• • • •

It may be a little late to say so, but since I had no opportunity to catch the act until the last performance Monday night, this is the first chance I have had. What I mean is that Sammy Kaye and his "swing and sway" orchestra and specialists, providing this week's stage entertainment at Loew's Capitol Theater, offer the best act of its kind ever heard in Washington, with the possible exception of Fred Waring's more pretentious and more numerously peopled programs.

The Kaye music is real music—dulcet, delightful and extremely well executed; his specialists are artists who resort to no artificial trickery to score their effects and the whole thing is run off with a smoothness and precision that adds to the finished excellence of the whole.

No musical organization ever has been more enthusiastically received by local audiences than this one. They receive virtually an ovation at every performance—and deserve it.

I'm sorry I didn't have more opportunity to chat with Sammy Kaye when I sat next him at the Variety luncheon on Monday, but my good friends Frederick William Wile, Earl Godwin and the other newspaper guests of honor were doing all the talking!

• • • •

A word more ought to be said about one of the featured inclusions in the "swing and sway" act. That would be about the Crane Twins. The Crane Twins are two blonde young dancers who have a style exclusively their own. They are endowed with exquisite grace and a rare gift for unison dancing—not of the tap variety, but of a delicately turned "swinging and swaying" sort quite unlike anything that has been seen on a Washington stage in recent months.—if ever. They are as big a hit as the band.

It seems that this column is not the only one that perceives a superlative artistry in the work of the Abbey Theater Players, from Dublin, Ireland, who closed their American tour and the National Theater's season last Saturday night.

Under date of May 23, the Rev. John J. Queally, rector of the Transfiguration Episcopal Church, writes, in part, as follows:

"I cannot help sending you a note of congratulation on your excellent articles on the Abbey Players' performances.

"I was born and brought up in the atmosphere where many of the plots were laid. I was in Flaherty's cabin on the island of Aran, where they told me Synge wrote and I met Lady Gregory when I was a boy.

"As I watched the plays at the National last week, I lived my boyhood days over again, so true and real were they. I have actually been present at scenes like those in 'Riders to the Sea,' 'The Plough and the Stars' and the 'Silver Jubilee.' . . . The Abbey Players are unquestionably remarkable, even to the shrug of a shoulder." Such corroboration of a less solidly founded judgment is as gratifying as the gracious portions of the reverend Mr. Queally's letter which may not with propriety be quoted. My very deep gratitude to you, sir.

Perhaps I should not have said in Saturday morning's review that Bob Dupont, the dexterous juggler on the stage bill at the Earle this week, "missed too often." There was a reason. Mr. Dupont, who crowds close on the heels of Stan Cavanagh as the best of the jugglers who are able to combine skill with comedy, rode into Washington from Kansas City to fulfill this week's engagement and rode in, furthermore, on the fringes of the flu with its attendant aches and pains. On Friday, when he was called upon to play five shows, he was stuffed with aspirin and other helpful nostrums, but his head was still buzzing. Under the circumstances, he didn't miss half often enough. But the point is that since then he has hardly been missing at all. I wish I had known.

Mrs. Minnie Frost Rands, chairman of the drama committee of the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs, wishes to find a beautiful young girl with long titian hair to play the part of Mary Magdalene in her new historical story-drama, "The Prince of Peace," to be presented in the Sylvan Theater on June 18 and 19. She also is in search of a girl who can speak, but who knows the mannerisms of mutes, to interpret the character of the dumb girl, Azzanah. Applicants should present themselves at 1430 Floral street tonight at 7 o'clock.

Those Three Zanies Go Hillbilly

In their first starring vehicle for Twentieth Century-Fox, an item called "Kentucky Moonshine," the three Ritz Brothers, cast as "ham" vaudeville actors trying to crash a radio hour, migrate to the Cumberland Mountains to be "discovered" as native talent needed in New York. They are pictured above in their hillbilly roles, but you will have to decide for yourself which Ritz is which!

In Hollywood

With HEDDA HOPPER

Hollywood, Calif, May 24.

Mickey Rooney is the new scandal at Metro. Gets as much fan mail as Clark Gable and Bob Taylor. He has done seven pictures in seven months without a day off. At that, he hasn't worked as hard as he did in a "Midsummer Night's Dream," when he ended up with a weak heart and the loss of 16 pounds. Looks fit as a fiddle now. Got that way at Lindy's. Eating his way through top sirloin steaks with mashed potatoes, apple pie and cheese filling in the crevices. Smart, too. Unless he can cut the steak with his fork, he gets the meal free.

HEDDA HOPPER

Mickey got stabbed the other day at the Commissary when they handed him the luncheon check for a couple of cuties, one being Judy Garland. He loves that true blue type; the other happened to be a slinky siren, not the grateful type.

"Why, unless you shoot the bankroll every night you take 'em out, they won't speak to you," he told me. "How can I do that on $35 a week spending money?"

I thought that was a fortune—said so. "Ah," he replied, "I have to buy clothes, food and cleaning. How much do you think that leaves for dames? You can't get any practice at love making when you have to take a dame to a new club every night. How do you learn anything about 'em? Soon one of 'em hooks you, and it's the death sentence."

"I'm not sure I'd let you take my little sister out," I told him.

"You dames say the silliest things," he replied. "I wouldn't want her—I'll take you."

I'll have to see my lawyer about that.

Yes, definitely, Mickey is a problem. There's one like him in every big family. And how we love 'em.

Dorothy Hale, cafe society girl whose engagement was reported to Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator and intimate of F. D. R., is the same girl Sam Goldwyn met on a boat, signed on contract to play opposite Ronnie Colman. She was coached for weeks by Laura Hope Crews but didn't get the part and never made a picture.

Jean Sablon has that certain thing ladies love—in his voice. Walter Wanger tells me he has it on the screen, too. Can hardly wait for his first picture.

Hollywood shed tears less than a year ago at Mary Pickford's dramatic farewell to Pickfair. I'm wondering if she didn't shed a few when she returned. No reason why she shouldn't. It's the perfect setting for her. But Buddy always maintained he wouldn't live there.

Surprise, surprise, that Dorothy Parker is in the picket line for her fellow workers over the strike at one of our local papers. Why, bless my heart, Dotty loves that sort of thing. She'd picket for a hound dog with the wrong kind of pups.

Director Woody Van Dyke is off to Idaho lining up locations for "Northwest Passage." When he returns he will immediately direct Jannette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy in "Sweethearts." Later on he is going back to "Passage." Always knew that would be a tough story to lick.

Mrs. Huntington Randolph Miner, society leader, descendant from one of our finest Spanish families, instead of living in Pasadena, is searching for a Hollywood home to house her treasures. She's got a bed our biggest stars would give a couple of weeks' salary to possess. Mellowed, yellow brocade—makes you go yum, yum when you look at it.

President Kills Utility Loans Compromise

petition with going private facilities.

Committeemen said they had "the impression" the President was not opposed to the restriction when they voted it into the bill. But Monday Barkley said the President was against so sweeping a ban, but would not oppose a substitute amendment permitting PWA power grants where private utilities refused offers of purchase.

Yesterday even this straw of hope for utilities seeking to check Government competition in the private power field was swept away. Barkley is understood to have been in telephonic communication with the White House before he announced opposition to any curb on PWA municipal power loans.

Earlier at the White House the President advised reporters they had better get up to date on the Barkley "compromise," when he was asked if he favored it. Avoiding a direct answer, he told reporters to check at the Capitol. He laughingly added that situations have been known to change there in a few minutes.

In abandoning his substitute proposal for the time being, Barkley said he may still offer it in the "unlikely" event the more drastic committee curb on PWA is adopted by the Senate. But he made clear he was now anxious to eliminate any restriction whatever. He said he had been influenced in part by word that 15 or 20 projects already approved by the PWA would not get funds if the ban was approved.

Meanwhile, the President hinted broadly that he will insist on a new revenue bill to finance farm parity price payments if the committee's $212,000,000 amendment for that purpose is approved. Additional amendments were offered yesterday to extend the payments, already proposed for cotton, wheat and corn, to tobacco and rice farmers as well.

As the second day of debate closed on the vast spending program, conservative Democrats launched a drive to earmark the entire $865,000,000 contained in the bill for PWA "pump priming" and threatened to slow down final passage by debating the measure the rest of the week.

More Developments.

Developments were:

Senator Copeland (Democrat), of New York, with the unanimous backing of the Senate Commerce Committee, offered an amendment earmarking $324,235,900 of PWA funds for rivers and harbors and flood control projects in all 48 States, including $65,000 for Washington harbor in the District. The money would be spent by the Army Corps of Engineers, which told the committee all of the projects could be launched within six months.

Senator Bailey (Democrat), of North Carolina, introduced an amendment to earmark another $350,000,000 of PWA funds to give preference in pump-priming loans and grants to all projects approved up to April 12, 1938, by the PWA. Bailey said the amendment would "take politics out of priming."

Senator Gillette (Democrat), of Iowa, offered the amendment to include tobacco and rice farmers in parity price payments already proposed for cotton, corn and wheat. Senator Russell (Democrat), of Georgia, author of the committee's $212,000,000 farm-price amendment, said he will sponsor a similar proposal, although tobacco prices are now above parity. Russell would limit payments to 1 cent a pound for tobacco, 1-5 of a cent a pound for rice, 10 cents a bushel for wheat, 5 cents a bushel for corn and 2 cents a pound for cotton.

Sarah Oliver Hulswit, a leader of the "women's rebellion," announced that 200 women from each State having a Senator up for re-election in November will gather at the Capitol in opposition to the spending bill later this week. She said every other State would be represented by 100 women from each, all opposed to the measure.

Senate action on the bill remained at a standstill, as Senator Bilbo (Democrat), of Mississippi, used most of the afternoon expounding his plan for appointment of a commission to supervise transportation of 12,000,000 colored Americans to Africa. He said Great Britain and France could provide the land in return for war debt reductions, and offered an amendment authorizing the President to use relief funds for this purpose.

Earlier Senator McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee, pleaded for nonpartisan support of the relief bill, and declared Republican proposals to return relief to the States have been repudiated at the polls. He urged members to "forget politics, for a little while—forget the pork barrel."

Leading the fight against both the committee amendment to prohibit PWA advances of funds for local competition with private power plants, and Barkley's substitute proposal, Senator Norris (Independent), of Nebraska, predicted any restrictions on PWA's present power policy would "get licked." Norris denied he had talked with the President, but said "anyone on the right side of the power question will oppose a ban of this kind." He added later, "I wouldn't care if God is for it, I am against it."

President Quotes Self.

Senator Russell, who voted against the PWA restriction in subcommittee, said nevertheless "the impression was there in committee that the President was not opposing it. There was no quotation of the President, and no argument was made on that basis. But certainly the impression was there that it was all right."

After failing to make a personal commitment on the power issue, the President was asked yesterday if he approved of the Russell amendment providing $212,000,000 for farm price parity payments. He tipped reporters to read the last paragraph in his statement on signing the farm act. The last sentence in that statement said: "Parity payments would increase the present authorized cost, and in order to make such payments it would be necessary to provide additional revenue needed to finance them."

Barkley advised reporters on Monday that a new revenue bill next January, possibly providing for processing taxes, would be necessary if the parity price amendment is adopted. Barkley predicted the amendment will pass.

Here for Wedding Not to Flee 'Reds,' Says Mrs. Palmer

An invitation to a wedding and not threats of sudden death brought Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer to Washington, the widow of President Wilson's Attorney General declared yesterday as she arrived at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Palmer, who was recently assigned a police guard after she banned a Russian movie from Pennsylvania theaters, said she was here to attend the wedding today of Edward B. McLean, jr., and Ann Meem. She is head of the Pennsylvania State Board of Movie Censors.

The police guard was assigned by Gov. Earle when Mrs. Palmer reported that her ban on the movie had brought threats on her life and had even caused one man to hurl acid at her. During Wilson's Administration, when her husband was out of the city, Mrs. Palmer's home here was blown to bits by a bomb.

Opposed to having the policeman dog her footsteps, Mrs. Palmer won one concession from him yesterday. He agreed to attend today's wedding wearing civilian clothes.

Shoreham Hits Summer Stride Saturday Night

Skating Dance Teams Will Twirl Their Goodbye on Friday.

By Chanticleer

A true harbinger of summer will be the opening of the Shoreham Terrace Saturday, weather permitting. There will be one floor show nightly and the genial Barnes will preside. The roses are at their best and the gardens have never been lovelier. So make it a date for Saturday night.

If you haven't seen the skating of Marguerite Verden and others in the International Ice Show, then you are one of the few who have missed it. The skating dance teams twirl their good-by salute Friday night in the blue room.

No need to take your field glasses to the Lotus this week. "The Great Rochey's" can be seen from a long way off. They do their tap dancing on stilts. They are at home on their stilts and exhibit much more grace and motion than do ordinary dance teams. Other numbers billed are the six dancing debs, a solo number by Elaine Georgia and a dance team, Fernando and Chermon. As is the custom, dancing and shows are presented three times daily, at lunch, at dinner and for late supper.

Bamboo Gardens Cooled.

In previewing the summer clubs and bemoaning the turn of the season, here is a thought to keep in mind: The Bamboo Gardens, while not opening a roof garden or terrace, do make this announcement for those who have already started mopping brows. They are installing a new air-conditioning plant that will bring cool exhilaration to their club.

Last Friday a mistake was made in this column, and to Jimmy Byrd, Beverly Stull and Nedra Andrea we apologize. In announcing the departure of their popular piano accordianist and song stylist, the date was set for last Saturday, but was a week too soon. Beverly and Nedra will be at the Cafe of All Nations until this Saturday. Frank Dio Data and Christine Tremayne open Sunday. This pair comes from Park Plaza Hotel in St. Louis. Frank will feature on piano specialties and Christine Tremayne will be the purveyor of songs. Countess de Bournant, future gazer, and Perry Martin, barytone, remain.

The latest information on Paul Kain, Wardman Park metronome room maestro, is that he will leave in about one month. The last performance will be June 18. He will be at the Statler in Detroit for the summer season. "Sugar" Kain has been around Washington so long that he and his aggregation seem almost like natives. Present plans are that he'll be back next fall and, in the meantime, schemes are in progress to make the last week of his stay a series of gala farewell parties.

Diplomats Show How.

Chatter:

An air-cooled cocktail lounge at the Carlton is the spot where the Carlton manager, Frank Swadley, is entertaining distinguished visitors these days.

Libby Frazier, with a new bonnet and a blue ribbon on it, sings favorite ditties to the swing tunes of the String Swingsters at the Hi-Hat.

Now that Tom O'Donnell is watching everything out at Griffith Farms Tavern on the Marlboro pike, there's food for gourmets. On Saturday night there's dancing to the tunes of Happy Walker's Orchestra.

When several of the young members of the smart set from the Latin Republic embassies and legations were making merry at the Madrillon, Johnny Shaw and his band struck up Siboney and these natives from rhumbaland showed how it should be done a l'espagnole.

Boy Pact Killer Sobs as State Spares His Life

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 24.—With eyes brimming tears, 16-year-old Donald Carroll, jr., learned today that the end of the road will not be the electric chair for the "suicide pact" slaying of his sweetheart, 18-year-old Charlotte Mathiesen.

Terming the case "unique in American courts"—with the dead girl's parents siding with the boy who killed their daughter—Prosecutor Joseph V. Loscalzo told the all-male jury:

"I realize you men are weighed down by sympathy, and frankly I say to you I am of the same feeling.

"The State asks a fair and just verdict, without meaning the death penalty."

Spectators crowding the old Queens County courtroom, scene of the celebrated Snyder-Gray murder trial, murmured sympathetic approval at the disclosure that young Carroll, long forgiven by Charlotte's parents, had won a measure of leniency from the State.

The pale, delicate-faced young New York University student broke down only once today. He sobbed when Detective Edward Hattrick testified that Donald told him shortly after the slaying:

"I held her in my arms and kissed her as she died. First she pulled the trigger, but it only clicked and she said, 'I don't think I can do it,' and she put the gun in my hand.

"After the shot," the officer continued to quote Carroll, "I heard a funny noise from her mouth like a last drop of water running into a sink. Then I knew she was dead."

Detective Hattrick said Donald cried out:

"I was supposed to kill myself, too, but I lost my nerve. Oh, why didn't I kill myself!"

The boy winced when the State introduced as exhibits of the crime the blood-spattered dress and the crimson-soaked corsage of white lilies of the valley—termed by the prosecution the "bridal bouquet of death"—which Donald bought for her and which she wore in the tragic finale of their act.

A WOMAN'S NEW YORK

By Alice Hughes.

New York, May 24.

IT IS A WHOLESOME, wise and interesting thing to forget the showy youngsters now and then and bend an attentive eye on the more solid lady citizens of this buzzing hive. They have made big lives out of little; they have fought good fights, and they have kept the faith. Just now we have directed to Florence McLaughlin, dean of woman telegraphers for Postal and now celebrating her thirty-seventh anniversary at the key!

ALICE HUGHES

What stories these old girls have! You could talk with Miss Florence for hours and never catch boredom. "In the early days I worked from 8 to 8 in a little shanty on Grove street, over in Jersey City," she said. "I had to light my own fire on cold mornings. I lived through tough times. In 1907 we were supposed to provide our own typewriters and keep them repaired on $13 a week. Then I up and led a strike, and we won."

Remember when women fainted when a telegram came because it always meant tragedy? Miss Flo does, naturally, and rejoices that now folks wire other folks for trivialities, for laughs or for nothing at all. But she sees nothing in it now for young girls—since telephone, radio and air-post have killed all the thrills she knew as a youngster. "If I had a daughter," she said, "I'd get her into something connected with amusements or with food. People have to eat, and they love to laugh." Canny words, Miss Flo!

Oh yes, sadly err when we concentrate on the smart flibbertigibets of the hour, and neglect the grand old women who were living hard and making careers before we young squirts were born! They, bless them, were trail-breakers!

GIRL ABOUT TOWN—Gloria Baker, who retired as cafe society's No. 1 glamour babe last fall and went round the world with her mamma, will soon be landing in California. Now blond Bobby Parks, band leader at the Stork Club, allows as how he might go West soon—just for the ride, of course. Rumors were hot that black-haired, well-shaped "Mimi" cared for more than Bobby's tunes, and many said this feeling was the cause of the odd globe-girdling as the girl stood on the brink of her deb season. Oh, shucks!

The golden Braggiotti Gang still fill the local scene. These fine-looking young people are all over the place. Stiano still acts, Mario plays the pianoforty, and lovely Gloria still writes fashions for an evening paper here. Now Gloria is on vacation, and who bats for her? Who but another Braggiotti, her sister Mary.

White Accents Give Summer Touch to Costumes

By Ethel Ehlen.
The Post Fashion Editor.

IN SPITE of the mad vogue for color, the classic black and white continues to hold an enviable place in the scheme of things considered smart. Exotic color accents may come and go, but black and white if wisely chosen, is always chic, dramatic and fresh looking. For early summer, try substituting a white handbag and hat, or white gloves and chapeau for the dark or tinted accessories you have been wearing during the past two months. The dash of white gives a lift both to the wearer and the dark costume—and that touch of summer so much desired at this time of the year.

Shown above are two interpretations of this chic idea. At left, the model is wearing a cleverly draped white felt hat with black quill at one side, and white doeskin gloves trimmed with hand-stitching, designed by Kislav, of Paris. Her suit and sweater are black, in the softly tailored styling. To dress up her dark twin print ensemble in crepe and chiffon, the model at right has chosen a white low-crowned sailor with black grosgrain band and black-dotted white veil. Short white gloves are doeskin, and the white kidskin bag is both trimmed and lined with black; by Bienen Davis. The accessories could be reversed and worn with either costume, depending upon whether you want a casual or more formal appearance—to suit the occasion.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a man 32 years of age. I am considering a proposal of marriage to a woman about the same age. She has never been married. I want to have a child or two, but have heard that a woman is not likely to have a first child after reaching the age of 30. Is this true? Please give me a direct answer to this straightforward question concerning a matter of physiology and statistics. I realize fully that other important considerations are involved. Yours very truly, M. G. R.

• • • •

DEAR M. G. R.: I have put your question to one of Washington's foremost medical men, who dismisses as "poppycock" and an "old wives' tale," the supposition that a woman is not likely to become a mother for the first time, after reaching the age of 30. Indeed, he went on to say that parents of the mature age of 30 and more are thought by some authorities to produce the finest offspring, so far as congenital mental and physical endowment are concerned.

• • • •

In my opinion, you are the victim of a garbled rumor. I have heard it said—in fact, I was told by an obstetrician some years ago—that a first childbirth may, in some instances, be a trifle more difficult for the woman past 30; that the years from 23 to 29 are, in the majority of cases, considered the ideal years for the first experience of maternity; but, at any age, safe delivery of offspring is almost entirely dependent upon intelligent, systematic prenatal care, continuing up to the moment of the baby's birth. And there you have the "direct answer" to your "straightforward question," as nearly as I can give it. If you have any further doubts, discuss them with a physician; or, if you must have exhaustive information, with an obstetrician or gynecologist.

M. H.

How to Sell Writings?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Please tell me how I should go about getting articles published in daily, weekly or monthly publications. Respectfully, AMBITIOUS.

• • • •

DEAR AMBITIOUS: The best procedure for the beginning writer to follow is to mail his manuscript direct to "The Editor" of the daily, weekly or monthly publication he hopes to appear in. His manuscript should be so prepared as instantly to command attention for its perfect neatness; in other words, typewritten, double-spaced, with generous side margins, on immaculately clean paper, and immediately identifiable, with the author's name and address in the upper left-hand corner of the first sheet. All sheets should be clipped together. Return postage, or a stamped, self-addressed envelope, should always be inclosed against the possibility of rejection. These details are very important, for they win an appreciative response on first glance from the person whose business it is to pass upon manuscripts.

• • • •

A woman of my acquaintance who has been closely affiliated for 20 years with the literary world tells me that magazine editors, particularly, are greatly interested in "discovering" new talent today; and, this being the case, that the unknown writer's best bet is to submit his contribution, in the form described above, directly to the editor of the publication he hopes will buy his writing wares. This person believes it's a matter of having something to say, saying it well, submitting it in letter-perfect form, and then having enough money for postage, and enough intestinal investiture, optimism and patience to keep the manuscript in the mail until it is finally accepted.

• • • •

She believes a so-called "literary agent" is of value to the unknown writer only if that agent has excellent contacts in the buying end of the game, is profoundly impressed with the unknown's potential ability and willing to devote his whole energies to putting that writer across. Too often, she says, the successful agent neglects the newcomer client, as yet unrecognized, for the so-called "big names" who automatically command high prices and concomitantly high commissions.

M. H.

No Personal Replies!

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I will appreciate it if you will answer in your column whether personal questions will be answered if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent for reply. Thanking you for this information, I am, yours truly, VIRGINIAN.

• • • •

DEAR VIRGINIAN: It is not the policy of this department—as was explained in some detail here on April 21—to conduct a correspondence school of personal counsel on the side. The function of the department is to give to readers, through its columns, advice on problems which seem to require a disinterested person's viewpoint. In saying, in the italicized footnote which appears daily at the end of this column that we "will be glad to help you in solving your problems," we do not solicit queries of a strictly confidential sort, nor do we hold out any promise of answering them thus. M. H.

Miss Haworth will be glad to help you in solving your problems. Write her in care of The Post Woman's Page.

YOUR FIGURE MADAME!

By Ida Jean Kain.

DOWN IN YOUR heart you may have to cope with the fear that reducing will make you look older. You probably know more than one reducre who took off weight, picked up wrinkles and now wears a desperate "I'll keep slim if it kills me" expression.

Now . . . let me toll you about another reducer. You have heard of Marion Talley's epic reducing program in which she took off goodness knows how much weight. I followed it up because I thought you would like to know how she is doing six years afterward. If reducing is aging, there should be some signs of it in six years! But this radio and opera star looks as fresh and young as a debutante—and I saw here in broad daylight.

"Isn't it hard for you to keep so nice and slim?" I asked, noting her care-free smile.

"First Weeks Agonizing."

"Not half as hard as it was to get slim," was her prompt assurance. "The first two weeks of a diet are agonizing. After that, one seems to get used to the smaller amount of food. In three months a diet becomes fairly easy because by that time food habits have changed."

I found that Miss Talley followed the type of program you will have to adopt to get slim and stay slim. Contrary to what you might suppose, she did not reduce by some luxurious and easy method, like massage. She did it by diet nad exercise. The hard way!

In Miss Talley's opinion, the secret of staying on att diet is to eat the foods which fill the empty spaces without supplying too many calories.

"You cannot lick a ravenous appetite—but you can learn to like the less fattening foods," Miss Talley said. "The nice part about this slimming business is that after you have been on a diet for a while the tummy is smaller and you are not beset by that constant craving for food."

Trimmed Fat From Meat.

To pare down the calories, Miss Talley trimmed the fat from the meat before cooking, so that none of the fat would seep into the lean. Desserts were the big sacrifice, she confesses, but she made it an unbroken rule to take dessert only twice a week. Then she indulged in pie or ice cream.

To stave off the between-meal hunger pangs, she took coffee made with half skim milk and a crisp wafer. This served to take her mind off food—and "the danger is to allow yourself to become ravenous."

Without exercise, measurements go down too slowly, and Miss Talley exercises consistently along with her diet, concentrating on waistline and hips. For outdoor activity she swam and walked from 2 to 5 miles a day—and she still does.

This successful reducer has a peaches and cream complexion and not the sign of a wrinkle, for which she can thank a health program with an intelligent diet and sufficient exercise to tone muscles and skin.

Wallis' Leather Hats Set Paris Style Pace

Paris (U.P.).—Cows, pigs and snakes are being sacrificed in large numbers on the altar of fashion this season. Time was when their duties were confined to shoes and bags, but that was before the Duchess of Windsor decided on hats with leather crowns, and Marjorie Dunton introduced leather into the evening mode.

Suzy, who made the duchess' leather crowned hats, is also using natural and colored leather for flat sailors with infinitesimal crowns. These she covers with much veiling.

"John, did you want in the bathroom now?"

"Oh, no, take your time."

"Oh, no, I'm in no hurry. Say, though, I tell you what I wish you'd do."

"Yes?"

"All right. Anything else you want? I'll be through in a minute."

"Nothing at all. Say, I wonder if you could hand me out that roll of gauze?"

"All right. I won't be but a minute longer."

"Take your time. Say, where on earth are the scissors?"

"I don't know. I believe I left them in the dinette when I was cutting open that washing powder . . . oh, wait a minute, I'll find them."

II

Say John!"

"Yes?"

"I wonder if I could come in the bathroom a minute?"

"Oh, I'm sorry; I though you were through. I'll get out."

"Oh, no, don't! I just wanted to see if I left the salt in there. And I can't find the oatmeal."

"Wait! I'll get out. I thought you were through."

No! No! Go right on with your shaving. I'll wait."

"No, you go ahead. I'll do something else.

"No, wait! Come back. I won't be a minute. Oh, here's the salt! Now where on earth is the oatmeal? I wonder if I could have put it up on that shelf in the closet? Oh, John; I'm sorry! I didn't know you were in the closet!

"Well, of all the——I thought you were in the bathroom. Say—where's my blue shirt?"

"Isn't it in the closet?"

"No! I tell you what's the matter with this closet. It's got too much stuff in it. All right! You WILL come down, will you!

"Oh, John! My best blankets! On the floor! You go back to the bathroom and let me find the shirt."

III.

"John!"

"Yes, I'll be out in a minute."

"I don't want in there. Do you remember where you put your shirt?"

"I threw it on that chair."

"Which chair?"

"Oh—why here it is; right under my underclothes. If you'd only look——'

"I did look. I can't see why you couldn't have put your clohes on the other chair——"

"How could I when you had your coat and pants spread out all over it? . . . Say, John?"

"Yes."

"There's something I forgot in the bathroom . . . I won't be a minute——"

"Oh, TAKE YOUR TIME!"

IV.

"John, do you mind if I pull that bureau drawer out just a speck——"

"Oh, no. I didn't know you wanted here. I'll go back in the bathroom."

"Oh, no! no! I won't be a minute. There was just something I wanted——"

"Go ahead and look. I'll read the paper."

"Oh, no! no! If I could just pull it out a little further. It won't take a minute——'

"Oh, no, take your time."

"No, come back! I won't be a minute. Oh, here, I've found it. Now I'll hurry up breakfast . . . Oh, J-o-h-n! I'm through! . . . Where are you? . . . Oh, I'm sorry! I didn't mean to run into you! I thought you were in the bathroom."

"There was just something I wanted in the cabinet . . . I won't be but a minute . . . Say, do you mind if I use this paring knife a minute? No, no, go on with your breakfast . . ."

"Oh, that's all right. TAKE YOUR TIME!"

Air in Motor Car Necessary Even If Passengers Protest

Carbon Monoxide.

It is reported that the inside of 5 per cent of automobiles tested on highways contain enough carbon monoxide to produce symptoms of dizziness or even collapse.

Carbon monoxide is a by-product of the combustion of gasoline. It comes out from the exhaust of an automobile in high concentration. Many fatalities have occurred when the engine of an automobile has been allowed to run inside a closed garage. On a cold morning it is a great temptation to run the engine inside the garage until it gets warm. The garage soon fills with carbon monoxide from the exhaust. The driver at the wheel, or anyone entering the garage, may be overcome, with fatal results.

Here we have tests to show that a somewhat similar condition can occur simply by driving with the windows closed, whether there is a leak in the exhaust or not. It is known that as soon as carbon monoxideis allowed to mix with air it diffuses rapidly, so that there is no danger in a street, even when crowded with automobiles.

Experiments by Forbes have shown that drivers can have a concentration of 30 per cent carbon monoxide in their blood and still function adequately. He tested drivers by having them breathe mixtures of carbon monoxide and air. Then he tested them to simple reactions such as measuring the time required to remove the foot from the accelerator at a signal, the time required to push down on a brake when a red light was flashed on, etc. Up to 30 per cent saturation they reacted in a normal way. When the concentration got to 45 they reacted badly and did not feel equal to driving a car.

Whether the 5 per cent atmosphere of carbon monoxide in the closed cars would give them this concentration is doubtful. At any rate, the danger is there.

The lesson is fairly obvious that ventilation of the inside of a car always should be a matter of concern, no matter how cold the women in the back seat are.

Fence to Bar Crashers At Roosevelt Wedding

Barbed Wire Barrier Now Being Built Around Town of Nahant; Coast Guard to Chase All Boats But Potomac.

By Hope Ridings Miller,
The Post Society Editor.

Reports from Nahant, Mass., indicate that Washington notables converging on the picturesque little resort for the Roosevelt-Clark wedding next month will have to pass a barbed wire barrier to get into the village on the day of the marriage. Elaborate precautions being taken to prevent undesirables from mingling with wedding guests include a barbed wire fnece, which is being erected around the entire town.

On the nuptial date only invited guests, newspaper representatives, secret service men and residents who previously have been provided with passports will be permitted past the barriers inclosing Nahant Neck, which is built on a promontory jutting out into the sea. A detail of Coast Guard cutters will patrol the sea and no boat except the President's yacht, the Potomac, will be allowed within a half-mile of the Nahant shore.

HOPE R. MILLER.

Nahant's small wooden church, known as the Little Boston Church, built in 1831, will be the scene of the high ceremony. Although its seating capacity formerly was estimated as 300, provisions now are being made for about 400. An old-fashioned organ will be used for the nuptial music. An organ pumper and his assistants will be engaged to help supply it.

The President and his family, relatives of the bride-elect and Cabinet members and their wives will occupy the front pews. The reception following the wedding is to be an elaborate affair at the Nahant Club, frequently called the Nahant Tennis Club.

Estimated to cost $75,000, the house now being built by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark, will be finished by the end of this month. It is to be Mrs. Clark's wedding gift to the couple. The house is of modern design, its pink stucco exterior being trimmed in blue. It has 20 rooms and a large swimming pool that will be continually fed with salt water from the sea. According to present plans, the couple will spend much time there, following a wedding trip to Europe.

SOCIETY-GO-ROUND: The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Roberts and Charles A. Hamilton will take place in the garden of the home of Justice and Mrs. Roberts at Kimberton, Pa. Application for a marriage license in Chester County, Pa., this week listed the bride-elect's occupation as "artist" and that of her fiance as "salesman." . . Mr. and Mrs. Carlton J. Holdrege have moved from 2227 Twentieth street to 2101 Connecticut avenue. Coming to Washington recently from Savannah, Ga., they plan to remain several months. Prior to living in Savannah, they were residents of Paris for almost 15 years. Their daughter, Mrs. Alexander Lawton 3d, whose husband is a grandson of Alexander Lawton, former United States Minister to Austria, lives in Savannah . . . Dr. and Mrs. John Oliver La Gorce will leave Friday for Oglethorpe, Ga., where Friday evening Dr. La Gorce will receive an honorary doctor's degree from Oglethorpe. It will be the fourth doctor's degree presented to him. He and Mrs. La Gorce will return to Washington Monday . . . Despite Ambassador Joseph Kennedy's restriction on American presentations at the Court of St. James's, several American maids and matrons may have an opportunity to bow to royalty. The first garden party at Buckingham Palace this season takes place today. If the King and Queen follow the custom of other years, they will single out a number of feminine guests and request that they be presented. In that way, chances are a number of American women will have an opportunity to make a curtsy at court . . . A second garden party is scheduled for July 12, while the last two regular courts are to take place July 6 and 7 . . . Rumors going the rounds in Baltimore and Washington have it that Winfield Spencer, first husband of the Duchess of Windsor, will retire from the Navy next month because of "physical disability." Since he is now in his fifties, he will receive two-thirds of his naval salary. He and his new wife plan to take a small house in California for the remainder of the summer and next winter.

Press Women Hear U. S. Aide

George S. Messersmith, Assistand Secretary of State, proved himselt one of the most interesting honor guests of the Women's National Press Club this year when he and Mrs. Messersmith attended the club's weekly luncheon yesterday at the Willard.

His remarks, dwelling chiefly on the current situation in central Europe, were off the record. Voicing his preference for answering questions rather than giving a formal speech, Mr. Messersmith divulged in his replies some startling information regarding European countries, in which he has spent much time. He was introduced by the club president, Miss Doris Fleeson.

Other guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Cordell Hull, Mrs. Homer S. Cummings and Miss Nancy Randolph, New York society columnist, who came to Washington for the Fourth Estate dance at the White House Monday evening and is the house guest of Miss Fleeson.

Secretary Ickes Honeymooning In Cork After Surprise Wedding

Ickes

conferences in the Interior Department. She gave up her job a year or so ago, but has since been a frequent visitor here, staying either at her sister's Georgetown apartment or at Ickes' $85,000 Headwaters Farm, near Olney, Md.

When the young woman first came here it was to extend her sympathy for the death of Ickes' wife, Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes, who was killed in an automobile smash-up near Santa Fe, N. Mex.

A year later she had to console both her sister, Elizabeth, and Ickes when the latter's stepson, Wilmarth, committed suicide because of ill-health.

The new Mrs. Ickes, first "Cabinet bride" in the Roosevelt Administration, is described as "not beautiful, but attractive in a wholesome, boyish way." She favors tweeds and low-heeled shoes. She was president of her house, Parsons, at Smith College, and belonged to SOQH, a social group whose members are picked for charm and background. Her interests include writing and photography.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dahlman, of Milwaukee, and was presented to society in 1933. She has been an active member of the Junior League. Her sister here, Miss Anne Dahlman, teaches at the Greenacres School, in nearby Maryland, and lives at 3226 N street northwest.

Her bosses in Washington knew her as a "good secretary," a serious-minded research worker, and a girl who always got to work on time. One of her co-workers described her as "gay, charming and interested in everything."

Friends recalled that on her visits to the Capital she had assisted Ickes in remodeling the Maryland farm home. They said she was a strong New Dealer who thoroughly agrees with the social theories of her husband.

John Cudahy, United States Minister to Ireland, is the uncle of Ickes' bride, and accordingly Dublin was chosen as the scene of the wedding. Miss Dahlman left for the Irish capital two months ago, and after her arrival was seen frequently at the Dublin races.

She was standing on the dock yesterday, shivering, as the mail packet brought Ickes from England, where he had debarked from the Normandie. With her was S. J. Shattack, attached to the American Legation. The three drove to a hotel and then to the Adelaide Presbyterian Church for the 40-minute wedding service.

Shuttack was best man, and Sheila White was the matron of honor.

The Rev. R. K. Hanna, Presbyterian clergyman who performed the ceremony, told the Associated Press that he did not know Ickes' identity until after the service.

"When the newlyweds came into the vestry to sign the marriage register," he said, "I asked the bridegroom what his profession was.

"He told me, 'I am a civil servant and a lawyer.' He described himself in the register as a lawyer.

"Sometime before the marriage when I asked Miss Dahlman about her husband-to-be, she hinted that he was a 'rather important person in America,' but did not volunteer any further information.

"Miss Dahlman came to Ireland about March 27. She attended services in my church. The first time she mentioned marriage to me was when she came with a solicitor a short time ago and then she gave the address of a Dublin hotel and discussed a quiet wedding."

Miss Dahlman was granted the marriage license several days ago.

After the wedding yesterday, the party went to the Shelbourne Hotel for a wedding breakfast. Then, without a change of clothes, Mr. and Mrs. Ickes motored out of the city.

The bride wore a navy blue dress and dove-gray crepe traveling coat, with a pair of silver fox furs. Her hat and accessories were navy blue and she carried a bunch of pink carnations.

Ickes wore a blue lounge suit and white shirt. He appeared to be much pleased at having made such a long and significant trip without news of it leaking out.

He released the story much as he would release a story dealing with PWA. He sent a cablegram to his press section in the Interior Department, and his aides gave out the news. The reporters in Dublin apparently were "scooped."

The United Press reported last night that the newlyweds were expected to stay for a time in the romantic Killarney region of mountains and lakes and then go to London and Paris.

They will be officially at home here after September 1 at Headwaters Farm, which Ickes bought last year from the estate of the late Richard Probert, near Olney, Md., about 20 miles from Washington.

Miss Caviness Is Married to William Rollins

Becomes Bride of Capital Man in Leesburg Methodist Church.

A wedding of wide interest in Washington was that of Miss Roberta Doris Caviness and William Leonard Rollins, which took place in Leesburg, Va., yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Benjamin Caviness, of Leesburg, while Mr. Rollins is the son of Mrs. Henry Rollins, of Washington, and the late Mr. Rollins.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Herbert Bean, pastor of the Leesburg Methodist Church, before an improvised altar banked with evergreen and many white roses, sweetpeas, and white peonies. Myriads of tall candles lighted the scene.

Bride Given Away by Father

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of dusty pink marquisette, with matching shoes and gloves, and a white leghorn hat. She carried white rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Carolyn Caviness Blandford, was the matron of honor and the only attendant. She wore a heavy marquisette dress with white accessories and white gardenias. The best man was Bernard Lowry, of Washington.

A reception followed the ceremony, at which the bride and bridegroom were assisted in receiving their guests by the bride's mother, the bridegroom's mother, and Miss Nancy Bradfield, of Leesburg; Miss Geneva Harding, Ashburn; Mrs. A. F. Chamblin, Washington, and Miss Betty Myers, of Washington. Mrs. L. G. Gaviness presided at the punch bowl. The dining room was decorated with pink roses, pink and white peonies and candles. Many out-of-town guests, including a number of Washingtonians, were present for the reception and wedding.

Couple Leave On Motor Trip

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Rollins left for a motor trip North, the bride wearing a costume of gray silk with navy redingote and accessories. They will reside in Washington.

The bride graduated from Leesburg High School and attended Temple Business School, Washington. Mr. Rollins attended Benjamin Franklin University and National University in Washington.

Mrs. Daniel Named Head Of Federation of Clubs

Polls 110 Votes Against 83 for Mrs. Watkins; Mrs. Sawtelle Defeats Mrs. Collins for Treasurer's Post; Birth Control Move Indorsed.

By Jessie Ash Arndt,
The Post Club Editor.

Mrs. Ernest Humphrey Daniel yesterday was elected president of the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs to succeed Mrs. Lloyd W. Biddle, who is closing a successful three-year term. Mrs. Daniel was elected by 110 votes against 83 polled for Mrs. Arthur C. Watkins, whose name was presented in nomination from the floor on Monday.

The election took place at the closing session of the two-day annual meeting, held at the Roosevelt Hotel. The club members had their first experience in using a voting machine and, as soon as the polls closed at 2 o'clock, the results were announced by Mrs. Jason Waterman, chairman of the election committee.

Mrs. Henry Fenno Sawtelle was elected treasurer by 104 votes against 88 for Mrs. William M. Collins, who was nominated from the floor.

The federation, resuming its business session following the election, passed a motion introduced by Mrs. Harvel W. Wiley, of the Women's Club, indorsing the dissemination of birth control information in the clinics of the District of Columbia Health Department and through the United States Public Health Service. The motion was passed by a substantial majority, with a few dissenting votes.

The federation already is on record as favoring the principle of birth control and the change in the Federal law which now permits such information to be given. Dr. Edith Cole, also of the Women's City Club, spoke in favor of the motion. Similar action has been taken this season by five other State federations of women's clubs, it was pointed out.

Other new officers, elected without opposition, to serve with Mrs. Daniel, were Mrs. Leverne Beales, of the Petworth Club, first vice president; Mrs. Ruth Snodgrass, of the Woman's Clinic, second vice president; Mrs. Amasa A. Ludwig, of the Woodrige Book Club, third vice president; Mrs. Pierce B. Ashburn, of the Park View Women's Club, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles P. Keyser, of Entre Nous, auditor, and Mrs. Biddle, past president and member of Takoma Park Woman's Club, director of the general federation.

Mrs. Daniel has served the federation in many capacities, for the past three years as first vice president. Previous to that she had been recording secretary, chairman of the departments of education, art, recreation, extension, budget and finance. During Mrs. Biddle's administration she has been chairman of the committee in charge of the three benefit card parties, which have netted substantial sums for the treasury.

She is a past president and has held other offices in the Political Study Club, by which she was indorsed for District Federation president; for many years was active in the Parent-Teacher Association and is also affiliated with Chapter G of the P. E. O., and is a member of the Woman's Natinoal Democratic Club, the National Woman's Party, the Columbia Heights Art Club and the Reba Barrett Circle of the Crittenton Home.

Mrs. Virginia White Speel, a past president of the federation, made the congratulatory speech when the election results were announced. Flowers were presented to Mrs. Daniel, by Mrs. Edgar B. Merritt, president of the Political Study Club; to Mrs. Beales by Mrs. Lloyd Morrison, and to Mrs. Watkins by Mrs. F. C. Brinley.

Music which interspersed the committee reports given while the election was in progress, included violin solos by Miss Dorothy Reed, and songs by Mrs. Anna B. Kocherspérger, soprano, both accompanied by Mrs. Leon E. Truesdell. There was also "The Star-Spangled Banner," sung by Mrs. Flora McGill Keefer, who is chairman of country music for the federation.

Mayberry, of Upper Marlboro, who has served for the last two years. The election took place at the annual meeting held in the auditorium of the University of Maryland with a luncheon in the university dining hall at noon.

The program included an address by Miss Mildred Perrett, of the Juvenile Protective League of the District, who discussed juvenile problems. A skit was presented by the public welfare department under the chairmanship of Mrs. H. B. Mayhew, in which various clubs presented money or pledged contributions to a fund the federation has established for endowment of a hospital cot for underprivileged children.

H. Wildman, co-chairman. Mrs. Harry Harcum, of Salisbury, new state president, was guest of honor. Other special guests were Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen, of College Park, past president of the State federation, and Mrs. John C. Shaw, of North Beach, past president of the southern division.

Her election took place at the annual meeting following a banquet held at Tilden Gardens and attended by 38 members of the club and their director, Claude Robeson.

The club celebrated its thirtieth anniversary on April 1. It was organized as the result of the efforts of the late Miss Blanche A. Yewell, member of the Epiphany Church choir and one of Washington's prominent contralto soloists. She persuaded Mrs. Appoline Alexander Blair, widow of Francis P. Blair, of St. Louis, who had returned here to live, to direct the club. Mrs. Brooks was succeeded as president after three years, by Mrs. Blair, the conductor, and she in turn was succeeded as president by Mrs. Eulalie Domer Rheem, widow of Clarence B. Rheem, who is now Mrs. Jack Rowe, living in California. Mrs. Rheem's successor was Mrs. Dalgleish, who remained president until her death some years ago. The club has had a long and successful life with only three different conductors, Mrs. Blair, the late Herndon Morsell, and the present one, Mr. Robeson.

• • • •

Following Mrs. Dalgleish, Mrs. Margaret C. Buell was elected president in May, 1928, and served the club for seven years. Mrs. Iowerth J. Roberts succeeded Mrs. Buell, serving for two years before the election of Mrs. Leon E. Truesdell, who has served as president the past year.

Mines Assessed To Fight Union, Witness Claims

By the Associated Press.

London, Ky., May 24.—A defendant—turned Government witness in the Harlan labor conspiracy trial—testified today the Harlan County Coal Operators Association increased its monthly assessments in January, 1937, to combat a unionization drive by the United Mine Workers of America.

Elbert J. Asbury, superintendent of the Black Mountain Corporation, said an increase at that time brought his company's dues from $600 to $750 a month.

44 Defendants Listen.

The Government nolle prossed the indictment as to Asbury and the corporation last week. The Black Mountain mines suffered damage estimated at $200,000 from a fire last week.

On cross-examination, Asbury denied he had received advance notice the charge would be dismissed, but said he had informed Government lawyers what his testimony would be.

The 44 individual defendants—former codefendants of Asbury—leaned forward in their seats as he testified.

Twenty-two operators are on trial with 22 former or present law enforcement officers and 20 corporations on a charge of conspiring to keep miners from organizing under terms of the National Labor Relations act.

FBI Agent Testifies.

Asbury said Elmer D. Hall, of the Three Point Coal Co., once had protested against use of association dues in fighting unionization. Hall and the company both are defendants.

"Mr. Tway (R. C. Tway, of Louisville, another operator-defendant) told Mr. Hall he was too thin skinned," Asbury said.

Asbury was the second witness following George A. Stevens, FBI agent, who testified that an official had told him the association's purpose was to deal with freight rates, establish uniform accounting systems, and oppose unionization of the mines.

White House Clerk Held for Stealing Roosevelt's Mail

The prisoner, William Shubert Buchly, of the 1400 block of Ingraham street, is the father of several children and receives almost $100 a month retirement pay from the Navy as well as the $1,500 yearly salary from the White House. Secret Service agents said they caught him taking three marked $1 bills from the mail. Petty thefts of this sort had been going on for the past two years, police said.

Buchly admitted to the agents and Capt. Ira Keck, assistant chief of detectives, that he had taken the $3 "planted" in a Sunday letter while he was alone in the mailroom, police said. He denied knowledge of any other thefts.

He was held under $500 bond and will be arraigned in Police Court this morning.

A count of the ballots will be made late this afternoon. The United Cafeteria Employes Union (C. I. O.) is the only organization making a bid as the bargaining agent. Board Studies Old Age Aid for 16 Million More Advisory Council Urges Inclusion of Domestics and Self-Employed.

By the Associated Press.

The Social Security Board began studies yesterday looking toward inclusion of an estimated 16,000,000 additional persons under Federal old-age insurance.

The advisory council to the board asked it to provide data by September 15 on possible methods of extending the coverage to domestic servants, farm laborers and self-employed workers.

38 Million Now Covered.

It also recommended that the approximately 570,000 employes of nonprofit religious, charitable and educational institutions, now excluded, be brought under the plans.

Board officials estimated, on the basis of 1930 census returns, that there were 2,800,000 agricultural workers, 2,103,000 servants and 10,646,294 self-employed workers, including those engaged in farming and fishing.

About 38,000,000 workers in business and industry are now under Federal old-age insurance.

Opposes Rate Change.

The council, composed of 25 persons representing employes, employers and the public, is headed by J. Douglas Brown, of Princeton University. It was created last year to study the Social Security act and recommend improvements.

The council's report to the board opposed any change at present in Social Security tax rates.

Bills pending in Congress would add 600,000 workers in the number included under the old-age plan. They provide for inclusion of an estimated 300,000 employes of member banks of the Federal Reserve System and an equal number of maritime workers.

Tax Compromise With Va. Numbers Operator Sought

By the Associated Press.

The Government decided yesterday to attempt an income tax compromise with Harry L. Donovan, Richmond numbers business operator.

The Board of Tax Appeals, at the request of Government counsel, adjourned the hearing until June 2, with the understanding contending parties would discuss a settlement. The conference began immediately.

The Government contends Donovan was approximately $185,000 deficient in income tax payments for 1933, 1934 and 1935.

The hearing ended abruptly yesterday. Donovan was to resume the stand before Board Member Sam B. Hill for cross examination. He had testified he was operating a numbers business in violation of Virginia laws.

New York, May 24 (AP).—Dr. Samuel Sumner Edmands, 61, head of the Pratt Institute's School of Engineering, died in Knickerbocker Hospital today of injuries suffered in an automobile accident last Thursday.

Man Gets Six Months, $100 Fine, for Joy Ride

Steve Bosley, colored, of 1011 Third street southwest, was sentenced in Police Court yesterday to six months for operating a car without a permit and to pay $100 or serve an additional 90 days on a reckless driving charge. In addition, he was ordered to be held for the grand jury under $1,000 bond for alleged joy riding.

Witnesses testified that Bosley jumped into a parked car Friday night on Water street. As he started to drive away, the owner, Lloyd I. Turner, of 3553 Sixteenth street northwest, who was on his way across the street to a restaurant, gave chase. On the stand yesterday, Turner said Bosley then tried to run him down with the automobile, but was prevented by Policeman Anthony Ritchitt.

Over the Coffee

By Harlan Miller

Below the manly chest of many a young New Dealer in the Capital hangs a golden Phi Beta Kappa key, souvenir of great prowess in his college classrooms . . . These keys are useful in overawing Congressmen, newspapermen, pretty blondes, capitalists and other nonintellectual types.

* * * *

Mrs. Jackson. . . . charm.

At parties, some of these young masterminds are wont to toy with the keys on their watch chains (a Phi Beta Kappa man seldom wears a wrist watch) and discuss fundamentals with some earnestness.

* * * *

"No man is entitled to a salary of $100,000 a year," said one of them (whose salary is $3,600 a year) the other afternoon. "After all, there isn't that much margin between their abilities and those of men on much smaller salaries."

Then he gave his Phi Beta Kappa key an extra emphatic fillip.

"—democratic on arrival."

Most foreign diplomats, when they land in America, are fired with a high resolve to be ultra-democratic . . . They even look forward with enjoyment to fraternizing with taxi drivers, barbers and other American freemen, in the free-and-easy Yankee tradition. As they walk down the gangplank they figuratively don a 10-gallon hat, and their wives masquerade mentally in Arkansas sunbonnets.

* * * *

This starry-eyed resolve, alas, often doesn't last long . . . Instead of Indians in ambush, they are greeted, rushed by indigenous millionaires, determined dowagers, fashionable hostesses, aristocrats with pre-war genealogies, clubmen and the country gentry.

Willy-nilly, they find themselves helpless in the toils of the Right People; they can't get a moment alone with someone not in the social register.

Maybe they ought to join the Rotary Club or the Elks Lodge in self-defense.

* * * *

At yesterday's press conference the President told the newspapermen that the only news in Washington was from Dublin—the Ickes elopement.

Several wits had been drafting questions and jocular congratulatory cablegrams for the President, but none were actually submitted.

One opposition Senator on the Hill greeted the news of the romance with a typical partisan outburst—that Ickes is really 67 years old, and not the 64 credited to him.

* * * *

THOUGHTS WHILE SHAVING: I wonder whether the Chicago Cubs can claim a capital loss in their income tax return on the $185,000 they paid for Dizzy Dean . . . After a few months under wraps, gossip hath it the Solicitor General, Mr. Robert H. Jackson, is again a front-row contender for the New York governorship, springboard to the White House, what with the vast amount of spinach the White House has been eating lately; and Mrs. Jackson would certainly make a charming First Lady . . . He's again rumored the White House choice if primaries and things go right; if there are more Floridas than Pennsylvanias, that is.

"—the lion and the lamb lie down."

During one of the strikes in the Detroit region, the Wall Street Journal and the Daily Worker (Communist) could each spare only one reporter to cover the story . . .

Other papers had several men assigned; so, in self-defense, the newshawks of the arch-capitalist paper and the arch-proletarian paper pooled their energies, divided the various sectors and shared their notes . . .

What's more, there was a shortage of hotel rooms in the town, and the Wall Street man shared a double bed with the Marxian.

Maybe John L. Lewis and Mr. duPont should go camping together.

* * * *

Young wives from the hinterland are constantly goggle-eyed at the quirks of social life they stumble across in Washington.

One Senator's wife was invited to a luncheon by a cliff-dweller or native Washingtonian, and fancy her amazement when her hostess sat down at the table in her own house wearing a hat and carrying her purse and gloves, just as if she were lunching downtown.

Tom Corcoran, of the White House cruiser fleet, has been going over the papers of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes—Corcoran was one of the celebrated succession of Holmes' secretaries . . . Justice Holmes kept a list of every book he read, in a big black notebook . . . He was an omniverous reader—just to look at the list gives me a severe attack of brain fag.

But the strangest entry in the list of books is the last one, made shortly before he died. It was a book by the recent Pulitzer prize-winner, Thornton Wilder:

"Heaven's My Destination."

Jackson Urges 'Labor Unions' For Candidates

Baltimore Mayor Praises State A. F. L. Program at Frederick.

By the Associated Press.

Frederick, Md., May 24.—A suggestion that Joseph P. McCurdy, president of the Maryland-District of Columbia Federation of Labor, organize a union of Democratic gubernatorial candidates, was made today by Baltimore's Mayor Howard W. Jackson at the federation's convention.

Jackson, one of six candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said a union "might lessen our hours. I usually get five and one-half hours of sleep, but last night I only got four and one-half hours."

In a more serious vein, Jackson praised the federation's request for further legislation covering occupational diseases, and also discussed briefly the city pension fund.

McCurdy was nominated for his seventh consecutive term as president by the convention today. Officers will be elected tomorrow at the final session.

Those nominated for vice president were: F. N. Kershaw, Baltimore; Robert Lester, Washington; John Locher, Washington; G. Kingston Howard, Baltimore; John Geist, Hagerstown, and Paul England, Cumberland.

Frank J. Coleman, Baltimore, was nominated for secretary, and Edward Toome, Washington, was nominated for treasurer. Coleman was selected delegate to the national convention.

Art museums offer labor a great opportunity to convert shorter working hours into pleasure and profit, Henry E. Treide, president of the Baltimore Museum of Art, told the delegates today.

Miss Anna Neary, of Baltimore, A. F. L. organizer, discussed the role that women may play in the labor movement. She urged that wives of union members organize union auxiliaries.

"Women handle most of the money in the home," she said, "and by buying fair-made goods and fair services, they can help the labor movement."

Florida Lawyer Dies Of Heart Attack Here

Wilfred I. Evans, 45, Miami, Fla., attorney, died, apparently of a heart attack, yesterday in his rooms in the Mayflower Hotel. Evans had come to Washington on business, accompanied by his wife and W. G. Troxler, also of Miami, an associate in his law firm.

Renewed Co-operation Pledged by Groups in Civic Program.

Leaders of Manor Park Citizens Association and Whittier Parent-Teacher Association last night joined in urging the continued co-operation of the two groups at a joint banquet held at Albright Memorial Church, Fourth and Rittenhouse streets northwest.

Mrs. W. H. Seaquist, president of the P.-T. A., and George A. Corbin, president of the citizens group, outlined the growth of civic improvements in the Manor Park section. They reviewed improvement in school facilities, streets, lighting and bus service as products of the programs carried on by the two associations.

The Rev. George E. Schnabel praised the work of the P.-T. A. and the Citizens' Association, and urged that the spirit of co-operation and neighborliness continue in Manor Park. Nearly 200 persons attended the banquet, the ninth annual joint meeting of the two associations.

Committee Finds Eleven Rooms for New Police Judges

A report on space in the new Police Court Building which might be used for the accommodation of District Court judges handling criminal cases was submitted yesterday to the District Commissioners.

A concerted move by the Board of Trade and the Bar Association to place all criminal cases "under one roof," resulted in appointment of a committee by the Commissioners "to find the facts."

The committee reported 11 rooms, including jury, court and grand jury rooms on the top floor of the building, were available for additional judges.

Va. Tech Alumni Hold Dinner Here

Virginia Polytechnic Institute occupies the same place in the world of civilian technology as West Point in the military world, Col. John H. Cochran, newly appointed commandant of cadets at the famed Virginia school, told the District Chapter of the V. P. I. Alumni Association at a dinner at the Annapolis Hotel last night.

Col. Cochran recalled his days as a cadet at the institution, from which he was graduated in 1909, before going to the United States Military Academy. An informal talk on V. P. I. was given by Col. E. B. Norris, dean of the Engineering School. The meeting was presided over by L. B. McCloud, president of the local chapter.

WPA Hopes to Train Domestics Under Spending-Lending Bill

The one big field in which jobs are going begging in the District of Columbia, as well as throughout the Nation, is that of the domestic servant—a situation which the WPA hopes to master through provisions of the spending-lending bill now before the Senate.

If the bill passes and money becomes available to train the 4,500 persons it is estimated could get domestic jobs in Washington, however, indications are that the problem would be far from solved.

The task of persuading girls to take training for jobs which pay an average of $7 a week and run nearer $5 as a rule is the difficulty.

Mrs. Mary Steele, director of professional and women's projects for the District WPA, is eager to see the domestic training provision kept in the bill, nevertheless; for she recognizes the challenge in the situation and believes it "can be worked out somehow."

"I don't think unionization is the answer just now, though. Training is the first essential. The worker must have something to offer before he can do much with a union," she said last night.

The WPA has two training centers for colored girls, one at 1114 O street northwest, and another at 400 South Capitol street. Soon, according to plans, a center for white girls will be opened at Opportunity House. But it is not known for sure that girls can be found who will accept the training. Lacking the servant class tradition, American girls can see no future resulting from such a school—even if a union for domestics succeeds in running their salary to $10 a week.

Women who work on sewing projects in the District WPA get $46 a month, while the colored girls in training for domestics get but $24 a month. Mrs. Steele said the training salary soon would be raised to $28 a month, however.

Fortune magazine estimated recently that there are at least 1,000,000 American homes to be supplied with part or full time domestic help. The spending-lending bill looks toward training of 400,932 persons over the entire country.

Senate Group Votes Larger Slum Relief

Extension of Borrowing Powers Presages Big Extension.

PWA Loans Also Provided to Make Possible City Building.

By James D. Secrest.

Liberalization of the Alley Dwelling Authority act and the District PWA loan law, presaging an extensive low-cost housing and slum clearance program and $18,150,000 in new municipal buildings, was approved yesterday by the Senate District Committee.

At a three-and-a-half-hour session the committe voted to report favorably 16 local bills, several of which have passed the House, and rejected half a dozen others.

As Chairman King rushed through the District legislation in a move to get the bills passed before adjournment, Representative Palmisano (Democrat), of Maryland, prepared to call up some of the 11 District bills on the House calendar today under unanimous consent.

Among bills which ran into opposition of spokesmen for civic associations is the measure to modernize the District zoning act of 1920.

New Hearings Granted.

After several witnesses had complained that the bill would give the zoning commission too much authority and drive out of business nonconforming commercial property the committee agreed to further hearings.

Previously, Sentaor Overton (Democrat), of Louisiana, who held two days of hearings on the proposal, reported the legislation favorably to the full committee.

Senator Frazier (Republican), of North Dakota, appeared in opposition to the bill at request of neighbors in the Manor Park residential area.

Amendments to the Alley Dwelling Authority act, which will broaden scope of the agency's slum clearance activities, will enable the ADA to borrow $10,000,000 from the United States Housing Authority and $1,000,000 a year from the Tresaury for five years.

No one opposed the plan, which was explained by John Ihlder, executive officer of the ADA, and the legislation was indorsed by the District Commissioners, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the Board of Trade and Building Congress, the District Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and others.

House amendments which, among other things, require the ADA to pay the prevailing Federal rate of interest to the Treasury for the $5,000,000 loan, were accepted by the Senate committee.

Three Buildings Proposed.

Changes in the District PWA loan act will enable the Commissioners to borrow up to $18,150,000 for municipal construction and to repay 55 per cent over a period of 25 years at a rate of not less than $300,000 a year.

City buildings suggested in the legislation, if the loans are forthcoming, would house the Municipal Court, the Juvenile Court and the record of deeds.

The committee approved with little discussion a bill for modernization of the District tax assessor's and tax collector's offices. The outgrowth of special studies by District officials and citizens last year, the bill has been pending in the Senate since January. No action has been taken on it in the House.

The prolonged hearing was marked by several mild clashes between Senator Copeland (Democrat), of New York, and Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen because the commissioners made unfavorable reports on several bills in which the Senator was interested.

Over opposition of District heads the committee adopted a motion by Copeland to rename Pennsylvania avenue bridge for John Philip Sousa.

Some of the other bills approved by the committee propose: Relief for members of Congress who are now liable for damages in case of accidents involving their employes, relief of the Y. W. C. A. from municipal taxes, continuance of a commissary at the District Jail, transferable dining or club car liquor licenses, renaming of Water street Maine avenue, two-year extension for building viaduct at New York avenue and Brentwood road northeast and renaming of Daniel road Oregon avenue.

McComb Urges U. S. to Become God-Conscious

N. Y. Pastor Speaks Here on 200th Anniversary of Wesley Conversion.

A plea that America return to the "God-consciousness" that was exemplified in the "heart-warming" experience of the founder of Methodism was voiced last night at Calvary Baptist Church by Dr. Christopher Jeffaries McComb, pastor of St. Andrew's Methodist Episcopal Church of New York City, speaking at a joint Protestant service commemorating the 200th anniversary of John Wesley's conversion.

"The 'God-consciousness' in the heart of John Wesley was the only thing that saved England from complete moral collapse in the eighteenth century," he asserted, "and it is the only thing that will save America today."

Saying that "our system of education has failed to save us," he declared that "it will be the light that failed unless it goes hand in hand with religion." If education, in itself, were enough, he said, the world would never have needed the Aldersgate experience.

As a special feature of the service, the Rev. Arthur P. Wilson, pastor of Columbia Heights Christian Church, led the congregation in singing of hymns composed by Charles Wesley, brother of John. They included "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," and several other favorites. A quartet from the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church South also sang.

The Scripture lesson, read by Dr. John W. Rustin, was the one read in the presence of John Wesley during his Aldersgate experience.

Brief talks were made by Dr. James H. Straughn, of Baltimore, president of the general conference of the Methodist Protestant Church; Dr. W. L. Darby, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, and Dr. Horace E. Cromer, president of that organization, who presided over the meeting.

At 8:45 p. m., marking the hour at which Wesley's experience occurred, the congregation joined with thousands of Methodists and others all over the world in observing a minute of prayer, lead by Dr. Straughn. The invocation was pronounced by Dr. William S. Abernethy, of Calvary Baptist Church.

Girl Sought in Park After Suicide Threat

Police patrolling the waterfront and Rock Creek Park were asked last night to search for a 17-year-old girl who, officers were told, had threatened to drown herself.

The girl is Virginia Barclay, of 907 H street northeast. When she disappeared yesterday she was wearing brown riding pants and a green lumber jacket, her mother, Mrs. Beulah Barclay, reported. The mother said she feared her daughter would carry out threats of suicide.

Frank Metcalf Honored as Man Who Dedicated Original Building.

Faculty members of the George Truesdell School, students and their parents joined last night in celebrating the opening of a new addition to the school building, in ceremonies held in the auditorium.

They joined, too, in honoring the man who conducted the opening of an earlier school, 30 years ago, on the site of the present building, Ninth and Ingraham streets northwest. Frank J. Metcalf, who, as president of the Brightwood Park Citizens Association, presided at the dedication of the old Brightwood Park public school, was introduced to the 300 persons at the meeting.

Family of Pioneers.

Metcalf, who lives opposite the school building, at 901 Ingraham street northwest, attended the ceremonies with his wife, who organized the first Parent-Teacher Association at the old school, and their daughter, Mrs. A. Russell Miller, who was a student in the first kindergarten class there.

Mr. and Mrs. Metcalf, the only persons present at the ceremonies who had witnessed the earlier dedication, were introduced by Robert L. Haycock, assistant superintendent of schools.

Mrs. Sherrard C. Tupman, president of the Truesdell Parent-Teacher Association, urged the development of close co-operation between the home and the school in training children. She pointed out that where the teachers had only a few hours each day to work with children, the parents must accept a major share in the development of character.

Maurer Presents Keys.

Robert A. Maurer, vice president of the Board of Education, presented the keys of the new building to Miss Nell Hisox, administrative principal of Truesdell School. Included in the new structure are eight additional classrooms, bringing the school's total to 16, and the auditorium.

Other speakers were Miss Sara Morris, of the Truesdell faculty, and Dr. Julia L. Hahn, supervising principal for the third division, and the Rev. S. Carroll Coale, of Brightwood Methodist Episcopal Church, who gave the invocation.

Musical selections were presented by the Roosevelt High School Orchestra, under direction of Miss Emma Louise Thompson, and the Teachers' Choral Group of the third School Division, directed by Mrs. Vesta Lynn.

Social Disease War Outlined By Isaminger

Since January 1 of this year there have been four times as many cases of venereal diseases reported to the Health Department as chickenpox, Dr. Melvin Price Isaminger, director of Bureau of Public Health Information of the District Board of Health, told the Women's Auxiliary of the Metropolitan Police Boys' Club, in session at Eastern High School last night.

Paying tribute to the campaign of the United States Public Health Service, under the direction of Dr. Thomas H. Parran, jr., Dr. Isaminger asserted that there has been, through the press and public education, a great awakening in the fight against syphilis and gonorrhea.

Since last New Year's Day the Health Department has had 10 times as many cases of venereal disease reported as scarlet fever, 340 times as many as typhoid fever, 20 times as many as diphtheria, 15 times as many as measles and 20 times as many as whooping cough.

Dr. Isaminger traced the four stages of syphilis and the history of gonorrhea. He outlined a program for the eradication of both scourges —emphasizing home life and proper instruction as the best preventatives, and immediate consultation with reputable physicians as the shortest road to a quick cure.

Communist to Speak.

Martin Chancey, secretary of the Communist Party in Washington, will speak on "Boycott Against Japanese Goods" at an open air meeting of the Columbia Heights branch of the party at 7:30 p. m. today at Sixteenth and Lamont streets northwest.

Low Budget For Women Is Rejected

Move Surprises Both Employer and Worker Representatives.

The minimum wage conference yesterday refused to act on separate budgets submitted by colored beauty parlor operators who had requested a separate wage for women workers in that industry.

Both employer and employe representatives voted against the introduction of the budgets which came as a surprise to the conference Monday after official estimates of the costs of living had been introduced.

The "new" budgets ranged from $5.30 to $1.70 a week below those submitted by the employer and employe representatives to the conference.

However, Claude H. Woodward, employer representative on the Minimum Wage Board, and Arthur L. Schoenthal, labor representative, agreed to allow the proposed budgets to remain on record as evidence of claims of the Beauticians League.

Discussions on the clothing items in the proposed budgets came to a close yesterday following two mild sessions regarding the individual items.

Employes have submitted a budget estimating the cost of living at $22.30 a week. The employers are asking for a minimum wage of $17 a week for the women working in beauty parlors.

It is expected that public hearings will end next week, when the conference meets

Remaining to be discussed are the "sundries," which include vacations, savings, insurance, transportation, personal care, etc. The employers have estimated the items under this classification at $4.26 a week. The employes estimated this item at $5.15.

D. C. Rain in 1938 Is Below Normal

Incredible as it may sound to Washingtonians, who are getting tired of carrying umbrellas and wearing raincoats to work every day, precipitation so far this year is 4½ inches below normal.

In making that report yesterday, the Weather Bureau admitted that rainfall this month is slightly greater than average. But January, February, March and April were dry months.

Showers were frequent yesterday but none was foreseen today. The forecast is fair and continued cool.

18 THE WASHINGTON POST: WEDNESDAY, MAY 25, 1938 ★★★★

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

Chicago, May 24. — The broad powers of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis who operates under a contract that gives him absolute sway over the big leagues were again demonstrated the other day. He told the St. Louis Cardinals they could not fire two ball players, and he made his orders stick.

POVICH.

The Cardinals, forced to cut their squad to the required maximum of 23 players before the May 22 deadline, notified two pitchers — Roy Henshaw and Silas Johnson —that they had been released to the St. Louis club's Rochester farm in the International League. That precipitated startling action by the baseball czar.

Henshaw and Johnson made an appeal to Landis, and won. The judge ordered the Cardinals to take back the pair of pitchers. "They were not given enough chance to prove that they were of major league caliber," said the judge. And that was a very startling statement indeed.

* * * *

Because, if the records do not play us false, Henshaw and Johnson are not raw rookies. In fact, it seems that Johnson came up to the big leagues ten years ago, and Henshaw served three years with the Cubs, another with Brooklyn, before he landed in the Cardinals' chain.

Landis' ruling is the more amazing in that before the Cardinals could release the two pitchers, they were forced to obtain the permission of the other 15 big league clubs. All waived on Henshaw and Johnson, thus intimating that the pair were not of big league caliber, and were not worth trifling with. But the judge says, in effect, that they are. And his decision is final. When the judge speaks, it's baseball law.

The Boston Bees may win no pennants, but they still qualify as the most remarkable team in the National League. With only one .300 hitter in their supporting cast, the Bees' pitchers recently turned in seven straight wins. If you don't think the Bees' pitchers were responsible for those seven straight, listen: When the Bees began that streak, they were operating for a club that had a team batting average of .235. After their seventh win in a row, the Bees were batting .234.

Milburn Shoffner, known to the trade as a "nothing ball" pitcher because he serves slow stuff to the hitters, had hurled the Bees to an extra-inning 2-1 victory over the Cubs, and Manager Charlie Grimm was no little exasperated by that fact.

Grimm was sitting in the Boston Hotel dining room when Manager Casey Stengel, of the Bees, entered and took a table not far removed from Grimm's. Stengel was sitting alone when Grimm pointed to the vacant chair beside the Boston manager and shouted:

"Who's that sitting with you, Casey, Shoffner?"

Washington leads the American League in team fielding, Buddy Lewis leads the league in stolen bases and number of hits, and three Nats are tied for the most three-baggers. All of which adds up to the fact that the Nats' pitching must be pretty sour.

Joe Krakauskas, the wild lefthander, has been returned to the Nats by the Trenton club of the Eastern League, it seems. Today, Clark Griffith queried Bucky Harris by telegraph asking if he wanted Krakauskas to join the Nats. Harris' answer was cryptic enough:

"If he can't win at Trenton, we don't want him."

Bozie Berger, the Washington lad who is making good at shortstop with the White Sox, had the misfortune to come in for some praise by this department yesterday. That is always of evil portent. Berger's fielding was the particular object of our compliments. Today, Berger made two rank muffs of tame ground balls and contributed a wild throw.

Which reminds us of a cartoon published several years ago by a New York afternoon paper. Babe Ruth had been in a prolonged batting slump and for more than a week not a single home run or extra base hit had leaped from his bat. The cartoon depicted Ruth headed toward oblivion and was captioned: "The Babe Passes On."

That same afternoon, Ruth pounded two home runs into the right-field bleachers at Yankee Stadium, won the game for the Yankees. Late editions of the newspaper still carried the cartoon, but under a revised caption which read: "This was a timely cartoon until 3 p. m."

Bosox Beat Tigers, 5-4; Grove's 8th

By the Associated Press.

Detroit, May 24.—Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove won his eighth consecutive pitching triumph of the season as the Boston Red Sox nosed out the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 4, in a loosely played game here today. The win enabled Boston to take undisputed possession of second place behind the Cleveland Indians.

GROVE.

Grove, wild from the start, issued eight passes and allowed eight hits, but was effective in the pinches, as Detroit left 13 runners stranded. Elden Auker pitched the first eight frames for Detroit, allowing all of the five Boston hits and walking ten.

A seventh-inning homer by Jimmy Foxx with Joe Vosmik on base provided the winning Red Sox margin.

Successive singles by Fred Walker, Ervin Fox and Charley Gehringer in the ninth pulled Detroit within a run of the Red Sox and put the tying tally on third with none out, but Grove rose to the occasion and forced Rudy York, Hank Greenberg and Don Ross to pop to the infield.

Loss Is Third in Succession for Leonard; 3-Inning Team's Antics Permit Three Entirely Superfluous Runs.

By Shirley Povich.
A Staff Correspondent.

Comiskey Park, Chicago, May 24.—The Nats were a three-inning ball team today, subsiding meekly thereafter, wasting a 3-0 lead, and taking a 10-to-3 beating from the lowly White Sox.

It was a cold, windswept afternoon, but the fellow who actually put the chill on the Nats was tall, string-beanish Monty Stratton, who brought his pitching arm out of storage in his first start of the 1938 season. Stratton was supposed to be suffering from a sore arm, but if his arm was indeed sore, it was the Nats who did the suffering.

They started out as if to treat Stratton roughly, pushing across three runs in the second and third innings, but after that curled up and played dead before the pitching of the White Sox fellow. That run the Nats scored in the third inning was their last of the afternoon.

Leonard Licked Again.

It pains us to report that Dutch Leonard took his third consecutive licking today. The early season sensation of the Nats departed under pressure in the fourth inning after permitting the Sox to tie the score and putting three more potential runs on base.

Pete Appleton was Bucky Harris' choice as a relief pitcher but he brought no relief to the Nats. The three runners Leonard left on base all scored against Appleton and in the eighth the White Sox knocked Elon Hogsett loose from three more runs.

It was a pretty sour exhibition of baseball by the Nats who tossed in some queer antics on the bases, of which we shall tell later.

Strong at the Start.

It seemed that the Nats were in for an enjoyable afternoon when they pried two runs out of Stratton in the second inning. That was when Bonura walked, Travis singled to left, Almada doubled to right and Rick Ferrell was purposely passed. Leonard drove in the second run of the inning while hitting into a double play.

They made it 3-0 in the third when Bozie Berger's error put Simmons on base and Bonura drove him home with a single over second, but that was the Nat's final run-production of the afternoon.

From that point it was frustration for Washington. They filled the bases with none out in the fourth inning and achieved exactly nothing when Myer popped up and Lewis hit into a double play.

But it was in the eighth that the Nats' antics became downright ludicrous. With Almada on third base

Man of the Month

(Each day, Arch McDonald distributes 10 points among the Nats whose play was most helpful to the Washington Club. At the end of each month The Washington Post will award to the leading player a gift in token of the honor of being The Post-Wheaties' "Man of the Month.")

By Arch McDonald.
(WJSV-Wheaties Baseball Commentator.)

As the team, the Nats were an ineffectual crew yesterday, but despite the one-sided beating at the hands of the White Sox, there were certain Nats who distinguished themselves in a small way.

To Pete Appleton, three points in the Man of the Month Club because he turned in an excellent relief shift, allowing only three hits and one run in three and two-thirds innings.

To Al Simmons, two points, because he hit the ball hard all afternoon and played a brilliant game in the field.

To Mel Almada, two points, because he contributed a single and a double to the Nats attack.

To Buddy Myer, one point, because he made one clean hit and played a smashing game at second base.

To Zeke Bonura, one point, because he drove over one of the Nats' three runs with a clean single to center.

To Johnny Stone, two points, because he made two of the Nats' ten hits.

Dettweiler Wins, Brown Is Defeated

Medalist Scores Easily in Maryland Play; No Upsets.

Baltimore, May 24.—No matches were extended beyond the eighteenth green in the first round of match play of the Maryland State Golf Association's woman's championship at Elkridge Hunt Club today.

There were no upsets. Helen Dettweiler, medalist and 1937 champion, advanced at the expense of a fellow-Washingtonian, Mrs. E. M. Amick, 6-4. The second best qualifier, Mrs. Betty Meckley, of Washington, disposed of Mrs. C. E. Hanson, 6-4. Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, the Baltimore standard-bearer, conquered Mrs. James Hill, jr., of Manor, 7-6.

Most of the matches were won fairly easily. The closest of the 32-player championship flight were the 1-up victory of Mrs. L. G. Pray, of Washington, over Effie Bowes and Mrs. I. Manning Parsons, jr., over Mrs. C. P. Boyce.

The 16 survivors of the championship flight of 32 remained the championship flight and the 16 losers became the first flight, corresponding to a consolation 16 of the championship division.

Dettweiler Has 43.

Miss Dettweiler was out in 43 to be 4 up at the turn. She had pars on the first, fourth, fifth, seventh, eighth, birdie 4 on the twelfth and par on the fourteenth. The thirteenth was halved in 4s and both players considered the match finished. But Jimmy Roche, club pro, checking the card, pointed out they had to play another hole, because the medalist was 5 up and 5 to go. She took the fourteenth, after a half-hour interval, with a 4.

Mrs. Meckley duplicated her feat in winning the Middle Atlantic last fall by jumping a stymie. She was three feet from the twelfth cup for a 5, using a No. 9 iron she cleared a dead stymie to go 5 up. She won most of the holes in pars. Mrs. Hanson holed a long putt on the tenth to halve it par 4. Mrs. Meckley and Gladys Greiner were out in 44's. The latter had two three-putt greens enroute.

Marion Brown Loses.

The best of the medal scores recorded was the 41-43—84 by Mrs. W. B. Hurst, jr., of Baltimore, in spite of missing short putts. She holed out all of them.

Mrs. Morrow was out in 42 to be 4 up after the first nine and finished 5-4-5.

Mrs. Jerome Sloman defeated Marion Brown, 19-year-old George Washington University freshman, 2 and 1. Mrs. Sloman was off on the greens and Miss Brown on her iron shots.

One of the unusual halved holes was the seventh where Mrs. C. S. Stern, of Washington, and Mrs. C. D. Warfield had birdie 2's. The latter had to sink a long putt to do so.

Miss Bowes had Mrs. Pray 3 down after the third. Both were out in 44's with the former 1 up. On the fifteenth, Miss Bowes knocked in Mrs. Pray's second shot, on the lip of the cup and a partial stymie, to give her a birdie 2. Mrs. Pray finished the match with a splendid approach, her third shot, from the rough to within six inches of the cup for a birdie 4 and victory.

'Well, I Hit Par Again That Time'

Bobby Jones, Attorney General Win Match at Lawyers' Outing

Rain Washes Out Greatest Part of Bar Association Sports Program; Jones Shows Old Form.

By Merrell W. Whittlesey.

Robert T. Jones, jr., Atlanta's famous golfer-lawyer, showed several hundred members of the D. C. Bar Association just how easy the game was yesterday at Congressional as a four-ball match featuring Jones and Attorney General Homer S. Cummings against Roger Whiteford and John E. McClure was the highlight at the annual outing of the lawyers.

Jones played the course in even par of 72 and he and the Attorney General defeated their opponents by a 3 and 2 margin. The foursome played through a downpour that halted the match for ten minutes at one time and hampered the play throughout.

The rain had a more damaging effect on the other athletic events of the barristers, however, as Umpire Walter Johnson called the game between the Senior and Junior members of the Bar Association at the end of the first inning, and the tennis, skeet shooting, horseshoes and soft ball were off entirely.

Ralph Quinter, jr., paced the golf tourney of the association with an 84 gross, with the blind bogey going to Hyman Goldstein, with 91—20—71. Dana Belser had the greatest number of birdies, James K. Hughes, most pars, and Urban Geiger the highest total on all par-3 holes.

Other awards include low score on the front nine, to Henry Quinn; lowest on the back nine, Edson B. Olds; booby prize, G. F. Haley; "best dressed" golfer, Richard Welford and the judicial prize to Judge James Proctor.

Honored guests for the all-day affair that included a dinner and boxing matches in the evening included Hon. Owen J. Roberts, of the United States Supreme Court.

Jones had 14 pars for the round, a pair of birdies and two bogey holes. He amazed the gallery with his method of stepping up and hitting the ball with no practice swings or addressing the ball.

A battery of news reel and cameramen held the match on the first tee for some 20 minutes, as the foursome went through several skits for the benefit of the cameramen. United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage was head gallery marshal while Dr. R. A. Keilty, greens chairman at the host club was referee.

Jones played faultless golf despite the conditions and on the two holes he went over par figures it was due to short putts that rimmed the cup. He was short of the second green in two and missed a four-foot putt for a par, but regained the stroke on the fifth with a perfect chip shot.

Out in par 37, he three-putted the tenth green to go over par again, after misjudging the knoll in the middle of the green. A birdie, from another perfectly played chip shot on the thirteenth hole brought him back to par and he finished in regulation figures for the 72.

Maj. McClure, with a 76, gave Jones a good battle, and putts of 30 and 40 feet for birdies on the last two holes helped him in several matches. Whiteford had an 87 and Attorney General Cummings 103.

The bowling tourney was the only other sports events completed, among the members, and Tommy David won with a 126 game with H. H. Shallen second with 111.

Swimming and diving exhibitions by members of the Shoreham and Ambassador Hotel teams, and boxing matches between Washington Police Boys Club, No. 4 and 5, were also on the card.

Third Horse To Be Victor Of Suburban

Seabiscuit Turns Up With Bad Knees; Admiral Ready.

By Walter Haight.
Copyright, 1938, by The Washington Post.

Pompoon will substitute for Seabiscuit in Monday's match race at Belmont Park. This was indicated last night by a spokesman for Samuel D. Riddle, owner of the 3-year-old champion of 1937. Talking over the phone from the sportsman's home at Glen Riddle, Pa., he said that he understood War Admiral would be pitted against his famous rival of last year.

He also said that he did not believe War Admiral would be a starter in the Suburban Handicap, a $25,000 race at Belmont on Saturday, for which the colt is eligible.

While it had been indicated Seabiscuit was not training well, Owner C. S. Howard's statement that the son of Hard Tack would be unable to go through with his race with War Admiral, came as a surprise yesterday. It was apparent last week that all was not well with Seabiscuit's legs. Howard made the announcement that caused his withdrawal following a conference with C. V. Whitney, vice president of the track, and Herbert B. Swope, chairman of the New York Racing Commission.

Trainer Tom Smith had planned a public workout yesterday afternoon, but after Seabiscuit had taken a short gallop, it was plain the horse was not in his best condition.

The official announcement of Pompoon as the opponent of War Admiral is expected to be made today. Pompoon, owned by J. H. Louchheim, already is stabled at Belmont Park, awaiting Saturday's renewal of the Suburban. It is believed that inducements suitable to Pompoon's owner will be made to allow the Pompey colt to pass up Saturday's race and go postward with War Admiral.

Both War Admiral and Pompoon are eligible for the Suburban. However, War Admiral has been assigned 132 pounds for that race and Owner Riddle has said several times that he would not send the Man o' War colt into action with more than 130 pounds. Pompoon is assigned 128 pounds in the Suburban, to 120 for John A. Manfuso's Aneroid, with the weights scaling from there to 90 pounds for Dissembler.

Ask Four Pounds.

If Pompoon should meet War Admiral in the match race, it is unlikely that they will clash at equal weights, unless the purse is somewhere in the neighborhood of the $100,000 set for the War Admiral-Seabiscuit clash. Pompoon's handlers probably will ask for at least four pounds, the same as the handicap for the suburban.

While Pompoon hardly will have the lure of Seabiscuit against last year's Derby - Preakness - Belmont winner, he should prove a worthy opponent. His only start in the East this year was his smashing victory in the Dixie Handicap at Pimlico when he turned back Burning Star, Aneroid and the best handicap horses the Baltimore track could gather. Pompoon also ran third last March in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap to Stagehand and Seabiscuit.

However, it was the Dixie that showed Pompoon as an even better horse than he was in 1937 when he chased War Admiral to the wire in both the Derby and the Preakness. In the Dixie, Pompoon turned in time a second and four-fifths faster than War Admiral ran over the track last year.

War Admiral and Pompoon are old rivals. In the 1937 Derby, War Admiral defeated him rather handily by two length. A week later in the Preakness, some were of the opinion there was little to choose between the two when Pompoon lost by only a head. Although Jockey Charlie Kurtsinger, War Admiral's rider, said he was not driving the Man o' War colt, Pompoon backers and many horsemen were of the opinion that War Admiral "was straight as a string" to beat the Pompey-sired colt.

One horseman said last night that he believed Saturday's winner of the Suburban, in the event that Pompoon was drafted to meet War Admiral, might be invited to make the Monday race a three-way affair.

John A. Manfuso, Washington owner of Aneroid, said that he believed there were several lightweight horses likely to finish ahead of his horse Saturday but, if he was lucky enough to have the winner, he did not believe he would send Aneroid back on Monday with only one day's rest.

May Aid Long.

While dispatches from New York indicate that an attempt will be made to match War Admiral with Seabiscuit this fall, the West Coast campaigner may be on the shelf for a longer time.

In his Maryland races and when I saw him in the Santa Anita Handicap last March, Seabiscuit showed signs of having a bad front right knee. He did not favor it exactly, but he continually lugged in toward the rail, which shows that he was trying to "get away" from the pressure on the outside.

Seabiscuit's 35 starts as a 2-year-old may have been a contributing factor to his present ailment. Then, again, his many long trips, including his last, from coast to coast, probably have exaggerated his leg condition.

Owner Riddle had hoped to make the match race with Seabiscuit a stepping stone in War Admiral's drive to surplant Sun Beau as the biggest money-winning horse of all-time. War Admiral passed up the Philadelphia Handicap, at Havre de Grace and the Dixie Handicap, races that many believed he had at his mercy, to wait for the meeting with Seabiscuit.

If, by any chance, War Admiral passes up the Suburban on Saturday and is idle on Monday, his next appearance probably would be in the Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs. This race has a maximum weight of 130 pounds scaled down to 100 pounds.

But it looks as if it will be Pompoon vs. War Admiral on Memorial Day at Belmont Park.

6 Americans Advance in British Amateur Links Tourney

Yates Victor Over Fischer On the 19th

By the Associated Press.

Troon, Scotland, May 24.—Charley Yates, of Atlanta, self-confessed comedian of the United States Walker Cup team tonight was both the hero and the villain of the British Amateur golf championship.

Putting with a magic touch and turning even his mistakes into winners Happy Charley defeated Johnny Fischer, of Cincinnati, the tournament's second favorite on a stymie at the nineteenth hole of their first-round match to lead six Americans into the third day of competition.

For Fischer and for Scotland, which took the tall Ohioan to its heart, this was an unhappy event. But Yates made his breaks and was there to take them, with the result that his stock rose sharply in the discussion of possible successors to tall Robert Sweeny, the American-born defending champion, who did not play today.

Yates' victory took the spotlight from the expected headline match in which Omaha's Johnny Goodman, United States champion and tournament favorite, downed Ray Billows, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 4 and 2, with unexpected ease. Billows followed Fischer and Marvin (Bud) Ward, of Olympia, Wash., a 1937 American amateur semi-finalist and Walker Cupper, to the sidelines.

Four Others Remain.

The remaining four American survivors are: Capt. Francis Ouimet, of Boston, who showed the boys how to play in a high wind in eliminating Dr. William Tweddell, 1936 British team captain, 4 and 3; Charles (Chuck) Kocsis, of Detroit, who whipped William Peacock, of Britain, 3 and 2; Fred Haas, jr., of New Orleans, who swamped Scottish A. J. Ashworth, 7 and 6, and Reynolds Smith, of Dallas, who reached the second round yesterday.

Today's play, which also saw British Walker Cupper Gordon Peters reach the third round and two of his mates, Leonard Crawley and Hector Thomson, gain the second, reduced the field to 98. By tomorrow night, when the rest of the second round and all of the third will have been played, only 32 will be left.

Ward Is Beaten.

The major upset of the day was Ward's defeat by Albert W. Briscoe, former West of Ireland champion who is given to spurts of brilliant golf and who outlasted and outputted Ward to win at the twentieth.

Briscoe has beaten two Americans, Ward and Charles S. Munson, jr., of Fairfield, Conn., and Yale, and gets a crack at Goodman tomorrow. Actually he beat Ward at the thirteenth, where he holed a chip from the heather to tie the match and then canned a 20-footer for a deuce at the next hole.

The boy who is beginning to attract attention is Haas. He's in a comparatively easy bracket at the bottom of the draw and is hitting the ball well. In fact Henry Cotton, seeing him in action today, remarked, "I think he swings his club better than any of the newcomers on the American team."

Praise for Ouimet.

There also is great praise for Ouimet, who has been joking his way around the course. His approaches are exceptionally good and he does not seem to mind how hard the wind blows.

C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, the Canadian champion who won the United States title in 1932, still is rattling through the easy top bracket. After routing A. W. Ogilvie, of South Africa, 7 and 5, today, he plays Bob Rutherford, of England, in the third round tomorrow and appears sure of going through to the semifinals.

Goomdan, though his all-around play, has been a bit disappointing to some critics, applied the pressure when necessary to oust Billows today. Johnny won three of the first six holes and was never headed. His lead was cut to one hole at the turn, as he failed to gauge some of his shots in the wind, but Billows lost control of himself on the incoming nine. Goodman was steadier than Billows on the greens.

Yates Faces Pennink.

The feature matches tomorrow should be between Yates and Frank Pennink, British Walker Cupper and English amateur champion in 1937 and 1938, and Ouimet and Cecil Ewing, Irish star, who played on the British team two years ago. There also is a possibility of a battle between Smith and Johnny Stevenson, native son, who is favored locally to get through the tough second quarter.

Nelson Hurls, Macks Trip Browns, 6-1

Young Right-hander Allows Only 5 Hits; A's Sweep Series.

St. Louis, May 24 (AP).—The Philadelphia Athletics bunched 10 of their 11 hits in four innings today to gain a 6 to 1 victory over the St. Louis Browns and a sweep of their rain-shortened series.

Lynn Nelson, hurling steady ball, allowed the lowly Browns only five safe blows. Beau Bell's double in the second and Mel Mazzera's single paved the way for the Browns' only score.

The A.'s opened their attack in their half of the second with two runs when Frank Hayes scored on Johnson's triple and Johnson came home on Lodigiani's single. Singles by Moses and Hayes and a double by Ambler in the fifth produced two more runs.

They added another in the sixth and another in the eighth on four hits. Van Atta, replaced in the ninth by Les Tietje, was charged with the loss.

Signor Puccinelli Is Third Oriole to Work Into a 'Jam'

Baltimore, May 24 (AP).—The Baltimore Orioles, the "Gashouse Gang" of the International League, presented today their third defendant in a month on a charge of fighting—Signor George Creonti (Pooch) Puccinelli.

Joseph Orla told police he was in a night club—where there is a certain amount of Oriole training—and got into an argument with the Signor, who bashed him on the head and face. Orla, after being treated at a hospital for lacerations and contusions, accused Puccinelli of disorderly conduct.

A warrant was sworn out today by Police Sergt. Louis Cowen for Puccinelli's arrest.

Bill Perrin and Chalmers Cissell were fined May 4, Perrin for disorderly conduct and Cissell for disturbing the peace.

Ross and Armstrong Taper Off; Both Are Near Weight Limits

Barney Works in Hot Stillman's Gym in Downtown New York; Henry Still in the Country.

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 24.—Barney Ross and Henry Armstrong, the two great little scrappers who come together over the 15-round route at the Garden Bowl on Thursday night, virtually completed their long siege of training today. Both are finely drawn and impatient to go.

Ross, the welterweight champ, went through four or five rounds of limbering-up at Stillman's gym in the mid-town sector, where the air was hot as a drugstore stove. Armstrong, ruler of the featherweights, stuck to his cooler camp at Pompton Lakes in the New Jersey Hills.

Popular interest in the bout obviously was on the increase. Promoter Mike Jacobs insisted the gate would reach $200,000 if the weather remained clear and warm.

There isn't going to be much difference in the weights when the two crawl between the ropes, despite the fact there is supposed to be the entire lightweight division between them. Ross, who agreed to make 142 pounds, was a perspiring 141½ when he finished work today, and Armstrong has been hovering around his stipulated minimum of 135 for several days.

What Armstrong's handlers are hoping to do is get another pound or two off their man between the time he weighs in Thursday noon and when he enters the ring. They think the bustling little Negro is at his best around 133, and they intend to give him neither food nor liquid to speak of after he has satisfied the commission requirements. It sounds a little backward—taking weight off a man after he has weighed in—but that's why the boxing game is so delightful.

Bees Trim Reds, 10-9

By the Associated Press.

Boston, May 24.—The Boston Bees wiped out a 9-1 lead with three late rallies today to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 10-9 and oust them from third place in the National League standing. The Bees used five pitchers and Cincinnati four in the affair and much of Boston's success was due to the relief flinging of Billy Weir and Dick Errickson.

Cubs Beat Brooklyn

By the Associated Press.

Brooklyn, May 24.—Paced by Ripper Collins and Augie Galan the Chicago Cubs slammed the great Van Mungo and two other Brooklyn pitchers around today to hand the Dodgers a 10-to-4 defeat.

Tex Carleton hurled a well-paced game for the Cubs. The Dodgers got to him for two runs in the first and two more in the ninth. In the interim he shut them out with two hits.

Mungo breezed along until the fourth when Galan and Collins walloped home runs, the former's coming with the bases loaded, to score five runs, and wipe out the Dodgers' lead.

Averill's Bat Helps Tribe Down Yanks

Outfielder Drives in 6 Runs as Indians Win, 9 to 5.

By the Associated Press.

Cleveland, May 24.—Earl Averill's big bat boomed today as the rampaging Cleveland Indians walloped the New York Yankees, 9 to 5.

Averill slapped out a homer with two on in the third and an inning later tripled with the bases loaded to help end Lefty Gomez's stay on the mound for the Yankees. It was Gomez's fifth defeat of the season.

Johnny Allen, former Yankee, earned his fifth victory of the year. The champions got to him for two in the second on a double by Lou Gehrig, who played a full game despite a lame back, and a home run by Bill Dickey. The Yanks scored two more in the sixth and got one in the ninth before Allen quelled the rally.

Gomez didn't last long. In the third Hale and Solters singled and Averill hit his home run over the rightfield wall. A triple by Allen in the fourth started the trouble. Lary singled, Campbell doubled and Hale and Solters walked. With three on Averill tripled past DiMaggio and that was the ball game.

Steve Sundra replaced Gomez on the mound after Averill's triple and the Indians picked up another run off him in the seventh.

Lary, Campbell and Hale got two hits each for the Indians. Dickey's single and homer paced the Yankee attack.

Londos Will Meet Bruns-Brown Victor in First Outdoor Show

Plans to Bring Nagurski or Casey Fail to Please Turner; Brown Has Edge in Match.

Jim Londos, still considered by many the greatest muscle-bender of the modern era, may work in the season's initial outdoor wrestling show if Promoter Joe Turner's revised plans for that epochal event materialize.

Londos' opponent will be the winner of the Bobby Bruns-Orville Brown match scheduled tomorrow night at the arena—if he gets the match. Both, in the local promoter's judgement, are headed for stardom on the Bowser circuit, and he intends to avail himself of their talents while the opportunity presents itself.

Turner at first figured on signing either Bronko Nagurski, ruler of all that the Duseks survey in the mat world, or Steve (Crusher) Casey, currently in posession of the Bowser diadem, but later switched to Londos upon hearing that the Greek intends to quit these shores for another world-tour.

"I know Jimmy's lost much of the following he had here a few years ago before he lost the title, but he's still a top-notch wrestler, and still has a lot of friends here. He's popular with the regulars, those fans who see every show they possibly can, and I owe it to them to bring him here once more before he sails. Anyway, I'd like to see him myself!"

Before Turner can proceed with plans for the open-air show, however, he must wait and see how tomorrow's match ends. It may be another draw, and in that event he might have to sic the pair of 'em on London, or get Jim another opponent. Bruns lost a disputed decision to Brown in their last match, after gaining a draw in the first, and hopes to square matters.

Brown, reputedly one of the strongest men since Stanislaus Zbyszko tore opponents limb from limb, seems to have a little more on the ball than Bruns, but certainly didn't show it in their last bout. Bruns is no milk-fed baby, and happens to be cagey as well as strong.

Tomorrow's supporting card includes "Chief" Thunderbird vs. Jake Patterson in the semifinal, and the following 30-minute bouts: Eddie King vs. Jack Pontz, Frank LaRue vs. Boris Demitroff, and Bhu Pinder vs. Ivan Vacturoff.

British Speed Racer In Sail-Craft Contest

Salt Lake City, May 24 (AP).—John Cobb, British speed driver, plans to do a little "boating" as well as seek a new land speed record on Bonneville salt flats this summer.

He accepted a challenge by Gus P. Backman, president of the Bonneville Speedway Association, to a race in wheeled sail craft.

"Please be sure and see that it is safe, as I don't want to break my neck," Cobb wrote.

WE ASKED THOUSANDS OF SMOKERS..

"Why do you prefer PHILLIES to any other cigar?"

Almost to a man they answered: "PHILLIES is the most enjoyable cigar we've ever smoked. It's mild and smooth all through with no bitterness or bite."

Well, Mr. Smoker, that's exactly why PHILLIES is America's largest-selling cigar. It's milder—smoother—more enjoyable—and costs only 5 cents. Make it your next smoke.

Your dealer has PHILLIES on the counter... the box with the big blue PHILLIES band across the lid. Help yourself to a real former 10-cent cigar for 5 cents.

Blue Prelude Wins Marlinton Purse in Deep Mud, Pays $7.20 Mutuel

Calf Roper Filly Victor By 3 Lengths

Favorite Philigal Gets Place; Mamuck Is Winner in Finale.

By Walter Haight.
A Staff Correspondent.

Charles Town, W. Va., May 24.—Splashing through some of the deepest mud ever seen in these parts, Mrs. G. H. Pearce's Blue Prelude won the Marlington Purse, outstanding event on today's program of the Charles Town Jockey Club, Inc. The Calf Roper filly turned in the fourth victory of her career and her second of this meeting by leading Philigal, the favorite, to the imaginary wire by three lengths. Third in the field of seven, going over the "Charles Town course" of 128 feet more than 6 furlongs, was Brainchild.

Blue Prelude was second choice to Philigal in the betting and paid a $7.20 mutuel while hanging up the mediocre time of 1:22 3-5. The race was run over a track that had the appearance of a yellow canal. Heavy rains here last night caused the condition. However, the program was marked by two thrilling nose decisions.

Jam at First Turn.

The feature race saw a jam-up of horses going to the first turn. Among those to suffer was Philigal. Apparently as a result of this, Jockey Frankie Sargent, who rode Brainchild, was suspended for five days for rough riding.

Blue Prelude and Brainchild fought a private war out in front after the skirmish going to the first turn. Philigal, forced to be pulled up sharply, was fourth. Jockey Manny Berg, on Blue Prelude, finally shook off the determined Brainchild and opened a lead. Philigal began cutting down the leader's margin, but hung in the last eighth.

Ado Takes First Race.

J. Sensenich's Ado, with Jockey Bobby Root riding a heady race, scored in the opening event in a thrilling nose finish with Morvim, the favorite in the field of seven. Lucky Turn was a distant third. Ado took a slight lead going to the first turn, but when Morvim was hustled Root wisely took his mount back. Turning for home, Root shook up Ado and the gelding slowly but surely wore down his rival, winning in the last nod to bring a $10.40 mutuel.

Jockey Leon Garrett, pride of Nashville, Tenn., brought Meridian Time home two lengths in front of Happy Chase in the second race to supply a $15.60 pay-off to the fortunate. Leah Fern was a well-beaten third. Meridian Time ran the favorite, Needmore, into defeat and went on to hold Happy Chase safe.

Boulderdam Wins Third.

Boulderdom, 4-year-old daughter of Canter, turned in a winning performance with Gene Terhune doing the saddle honors in the third race. The filly, owned by Mrs. H. R. Jenkins, and trained by her husband, took command over Royal Folly and then staved off a closing bid of High Explosion which finished second, beaten two lengths. Third money went to the lightly weighted Janstar. Boulderdam paid $8.20.

Dear Al: Selections at Charles Town.

The management of this track has had many suggestions regarding the infield. Some customers want a swimming pool and others a lake. This morning there are five lakes as the result of last night's downpour. All needed was a flock of flamingoes to give the track a Hialeah appearance. The odds board, dubbed "showboat" by the press-box boys because it has a pilot house and a smoke stack, appeared ready to steam away. The fire department was called out to pump the water out of the judges' stand and the assistant starters found their clothes soaked when they reported for duty. But the show went on just the same. H. H. Stockfeld, a visitor to this country from Australia, is enthusiastic about the sport as conducted at Charles Town. He says all the place needs is the Australian starting gate. There were 78 horses in the entries for today and 30 scratches. However, most of the fields were limit ones. Pork Chops denies emphatically that he is the "rainmaker." Jockey Bobby Root received a bloody nose in the second race. He was aboard Fleurs-de-Lite and the horse tossed his head in the air, striking the rider entering the stretch. Root "shook it off," however, and returned to action.

First race—Gee Sharp breaks from an inside position and has the speed to make the most of it. Needs only the right ride and I believe Johnny Shanks will provide that. Proteus packs a lot of speed for a veteran and is dangerous. Wise Revue to take care of the others.

Second race—Handley performed well in that first outing here and seems capable of carrying top weight to a victory in the field. Easter Herald was prepared right on these grounds and is dangerous. Radial and Shaggy Ann to battle it out for the minor award. Shaggy Ann has speed but is too far out in the lineup.

Third race—Indiana has been whispered around for a week. This looks like the right company and its now or never in my book. Kenner is a spry veteran. Beauty B. may be helped by light weight.

Fourth race—Miss Bones showed a recent good effort and appears to be improving. This might be the right spot for her. Pantry gets in with a feather and should be prominent. Hydranges for the show end.

Fifth race—Flying Carpet was hard used in the early running and faded last out. With a rating ride, I look for this one to take it all. High Dear defeated a fair field here. Young Native had speed early in the week and may stick it out.

Sixth race—Wise Sister got the feel of the course in that last. I look for a different race in this field. There is no question of Timber Lady's speed, but she has developed a "run out" complex. Trixie Lass can better that last considerably and may be the medium of an upset.

Seventh race—Chatterdoo breaks off the rail again and it looks like it will be all over but the shouting. Early Broom is a threat, but I believe the top one has the proper guns. Ardor to gain third money.

Eighth race—Precious King was carried wide last out. Breaks from an inside post position in this and I look for a set of brackets. Smear performed capably in that most recent test and is dangerous. Cloud Winn ran out at the first turn last week. May be a sleeper in this field.

Wheat Prices Slide Further To New Lows

Chicago Quotations Fall 2⅜ Cents Following Liverpool Break.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, May 24.—Despite renewal of war tension in Europe, Chicago wheat prices plunged down 2⅜ cents a bushel today to fresh four-year bottom records.

Unexpected sharp breaks in Liverpool quotations, together with official announcement Great Britain had acquired vast reserve stores of wheat and other foodstuffs, preceded the market tumbles here. Another factor tending to depress Chicago values was apparent absence of any worth-while North American export business.

Instead, talk was heard that futile offerings of 1938 wheat were being made in Europe as low as under 95 cents, including cost, insurance and freight. Further rains in the American Southwest counted as an additional bearish factor.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1¼-2⅛ cents lower compared with yesterday's finish, May 76@76¼, July 73⅝@73¾, corn ⅝-⅞ down, May 56½@56⅝, July 57⅝@57¾, oats ⅛-⅜ off, rye showing ⅞-2⅛ drop, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents fall.

The interest cost to the city was 3.1309 per cent.

Employment Continues Slow Upward Trend

Gains in Agriculture and Trade, Losses in Mining and Manufacturing.

New York, May 24.—Another slight decrease in unemployment was registered between March and April, bringing the number of unemployed in the latter month to a total of 10,166,000, according to the latest estimates of the National Industrial Conference Board. Included in this total of unemployed in March are 2,995,000 workers attached to the Government emergency labor force, as represented by the WPA and CCC.

The conference board estimates show a decline of 233,000 unemployed workers from the revised March estimate for this year. The decline in unemployment during the month was due primarily to an increase in employment in agriculture, trade, construction, and the service industries, which more than compensate for the declines in employment in the manufacturing, mining and transportation industries. Employment in public utilities remained unchanged.

Employment in agriculture showed an increase of 193,000 between March and April; employment in trade, distribution, and finance increased 172,000; in construction, 88,000; in the service industries, 66,000. Employment in manufacturing declined 204,000 between March and April; in extraction of minerals, 30,000, and in transportation, 12,000. In all enterprises taken together there was an increase in employment between March and April of 283,000 workers.

Taking into account the increase in population, the conference board estimates that the total labor force of the country, including both employed and unemployed workers, has been increased by the addition of 5,202,000 persons since 1929 to a total of 53,490,000.

Stocks Yield to Selling After Early Firmness; Treasury Bonds Firm.

New York, May 24.—On a sales volume swelled to 420,000 shares by the last-hour activity, stocks drooped after an early attempt at improvement. Government bonds did well, but commodities had rather an uncertain time of it. July wheat closed 1⅝ cents lower at 73⅝ cents a bushel.

Looked at in retrospect, the early morning attempt at cheerfulness in the stock market was rather pitiable. A number of leading stocks either began without loss of price or gained an eighth to a quarter of a point. The firm tone, with a pronounced lack of trading enthusiasm, held until around the noon hour. When the thin stream of liquidation began to flow it carried lower nearly all stocks until the lowest prices were reached in the last hour.

Early Building Rise.

Until discouragement became rather general, the building construction stocks had an unexpected period of activity and strength, as such things go nowadays. Manville rose 1½ points and Gypsum climbed 2½ points. Even American Radiator was lifted half a point. There was no corollary of strength in the steel, copper and cement groups. Here and there a stock acted as though it could go up if enough purposeful buying appeared, for the market was about as thin on the selling as on the buying side. Philip Morris rose more than a point. Chesapeake Corporation and Chesapeake & Ohio were pushed ahead. Some other railroad stocks were firm for a while, particularly Santa Fe.

Airplanes were steady to firm, but motor trucks had no rallying power. Golds lost a fraction with other mining issues. Oil shares did better than most groups and most of them advanced a fraction. Electrical equipments felt the pressure. Sears and Montgomery Ward weakened on the halving of Ward's dividend.

Opportunity Awaited.

What gives stock market bulls their nourishment is the evident tendency of the markets to advance on even half an excuse. In spite of the continued evidence of slack business and the prospect that trade will grow duller before it gets better, any lifting in the war clouds of the legislative horizon encourages a little buying. Yesterday and today, for a few hours at least, the German menace of a general European war seemed to recede and the market hardened a trifle, and it did so in spite of the fact that the House intends to pass the wages and hours bill, a measure well designed to hold down any business recovery once it starts.

Hopeful Wishing.

Cross currents in foreign affairs are tricky enough, as witness the more favorable news from Germany this morning and the sudden and unfavorable turn taken in the afternoon. Domestic developments also have become quite unpredictable, because largely of the overdosage of politics. It is regarded in Wall Street as quite within the bounds of possibility that a mild upturn in trade will take place this autumn, spring from the good crops of grain and the recent tendency of live stock prices to harden. The stock market looks as though it is gambling on something of the sort.

For the present, the signs are set against business. This week the banks belonging to the Federal Reserve system reported an usually large drop in commercial loans. That must mean more than merely that the banks are unwilling to lend, as the Government hints; it must mean also that borrowers are disinclined to run the risk of using new accommodation. It also reflects the shrinkage in commodity prices and the working down of inventories.

Funds Pile Up.

Investment money as well as bank credit is piling up. The source will be tapped shortly after the holidays. The first big new issue is expected to be the $100,000,000 operation of the United States Steel Corporation. Small banks and the insurance companies are taking more interest in industrial loans, but the problem of what to do with excess bank credit is growing more difficult to solve. Few of the banks are bothering to bid on Treasury discount bills, in view of the low rates at which bills now are being awarded. The latest issue was placed at a record low rate of 0.025 per cent. Such a low rate hardly compensates the banks for the work of entering bids and drawing checks to pay for the bills allotted.

Dealer Operations

The bulk of the demand is coming from dealers, who turn around and sell the securities to the Federal Reserve Bank. The Federal probably is buying from the dealers at 0.0150 per cent or thereabouts. The Federal Reserve Bank still makes a fetish of keeping its total holdings of Treasury obligations unchanged from week to week despite the net redemptions by the Treasury of $50,000,000 weekly, which means that the Reserve banks must get their bills at any price. They still prefer to buy in the market instead of from the Treasury direct because it is a moot question whether under the banking laws they can have direct dealings with the Treasury except on conversion issues.

Credit.

Improvement in the Treasury's credit, reckoned on the basis suggested by Mr. Morgenthau and Mr. Eccles, continues. Both those authorities have declared that the interest rate on short-term Treasury borrowing is the sole determinant of the confidence which the investing public holds in the Treasury's position. The latest Treasury bill issue was awarded at the record-breaking interest equivalent rate of 0.025 per cent. Probably if the public debt were 90 instead of nearly 45 billions the banks would be offering the Treasury 2 or 3 per cent premium on the Treasury's "discount" bills. It seems almost silly for the Treasury to pay any interest at all on its loans, when it could get the money for nothing if it would only double or triple the debt.

Hard Times.

With trading volume yesterday at the lowest level since September, 1934, and no sign of any marked pick-up today, it is not remarkable that attendance in firm board rooms should be unusually low. A check-up on a number of houses revealed a scarcity of customers and in some cases there were no customers watching the slow tricke of sales on the tape. All the firms have cut their staffs to a minimum and it is only a matter of hanging on until the volume picks up. It can be readily seen that if the volume does not improve soon there will be a number of consolidations. The firms with the largest capital have been able to weather the storm better than their little brothers and the question remaining is: How long can the little fellows take it?

Cigarette Output Sets New High Mark

With a gain in output in April, the second successive monthly increase, cigarette production for the year to date went slightly ahead of the same period last year and established a new high mark for the first four months of any year. January and February had shown slight declines from the 1937 totals. April figures were 12,526,722,723, against 12,209,822,610 a year ago. While cigarettes were moving upward in production figures, however, all other forms of tobacco were declining. Cigar output fell below a year ago by 15 per cent, which put the four months' total under that of the preceding three years.

Chicago, May 24 (AP).—Montgomery Ward & Co. directors declared today a dividend of $1.75 a share on the company's Class A stock, payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 17, and a dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, payable July 15 to stockholders of record June 10.

Home Building Is Now Higher Than Year Ago

Contracts Top Last Year for First Time in Current Slump.

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 24.—Residential building contracts awarded in the first half of May topped last year for the first time since the current recession started, F. W. Dodge Corporation reported today.

Residential construction contracted for in the 37 States east of the Rocky Mountains totaled $39,694,000 in the two-week period, compared with $38,228,000 in 1937. The upturn was not accounted for by large-scale housing, the statistical organization stated.

The latest gain pushed the Associated Press index of residential building, adjusted for seasonal and building material cost changes, to 51.9 per cent of the 1929-30 average, 24 per cent above the recession low touched late in February.

Eleven of the fifteen districts included in the survey topped last year so far in May. Improvement occurred in the Middle West and South for the most part. New England, New York and the Middle Atlantic States lagged behind 1937. The eleven districts doing better than last year chalked up a 27 per cent gain. The four areas falling behind were 21 per cent lower.

Non-residential construction in the first half of May was $28,066,000, 29 per cent less than the total a year ago. Public works and utilities, however, planned 17 per cent more building this year than last.

New Ships Spur Steel Demand

Cleveland, Ohio, May 24.—Shipbuilding, running counter to the general business tide, will provide an increasingly important market to steelmakers, says the magazine Steel today.

Normally one of the lesser outlets for steel, it has come in for special attention recently because of the Administration's $1,156,000,000 Navy expansion bill now up for the President's signature; the award of 12 C-2 cargo ships in the past month and the pending award of four C-3 cargo boats; the scheduled opening of bids June 22 on eight destroyers and six submarines.

Half of the destroyers and submarines will be awarded to private yards. They are part of the Navy program for the fiscal year ending in 1939 and will be followed by two battleships, two cruisers, one oiler, one mine sweeper, one submarine tender and one fleet tug. Navy and merchant work in the foregoing will require about 240,000 tons of steel.

Improving the outlook is the placing of approximately 210,000 gross tons of merchant ships in the first quarter of 1938. This was in addition to 291,289 gross tons of merchant ships and 282,000 displacement tons of naval vessels on the ways January 1, the best backlog in many years.

Sports Goods Sales Resist Business Ebb

Pianos Also Hold Up but Other Luxury Items Show Declines.

Minneapolis, May 24.—While the American public retrenches on jewelry and vacuum cleaners, it continues to spend on golf sticks and fishing tackle. Also on pianos. Sporting goods and pianos successfully bucked the general down-trend in sales of luxury and semi-luxury goods during the first quarter of 1938, with increases in dollar volume of 6.7 per cent and 6.8 per cent respectively over the corresponding quarter of 1937, according to a report of department store luxury sales issued by Northwestern National Life Insurance Co.

In the 236 department stores covered by the report, sales of furs for the first three months were 2.7 per cent less than in the first quarter a year ago; jewelry sales were off 4 per cent for the same period, electric household appliances were off 18.3 per cent, household furniture was off 19.8 per cent, and luggage sales were 16 per cent less than in the first three months of 1937.

At the same time, the report shows, retail stocks of all seven lines of goods cited were less at the end of the first quarter of 1938 than at the same time a year ago, as a result of cautious buying by retailers and active efforts to cut inventories. Sales and shipments of pianos from factories to retailers were 22 per cent under the first quarter a year ago, and unfilled orders at the piano factories as of March 31, 1938, were down 50 per cent compared with March 31, 1937.

In the first three months of 1938 the American public spent 6 per cent more for theater tickets and other amusement admissions than in the same period of 1937. Output of cameras and lenses was up over 20 per cent, reflecting the continued virulence of the candid camera craze.

School Teams See Action Today

Central Nine And Eastern Play at 3:30

By Perry Wilkinson.

The Inter-High baseball battle between Eastern and Central, which has been washed out twice, will be played today, weather permitting, at 3:30 p. m. on the Nats' playground, Griffith Stadium. In another Inter-High festivity, Central Stadium will be the scene of the trials of the annual high school track and field meet to be staged at the same time.

The Easterners, leading the pack with three wins in as many starts, are favored to top the Mount Pleasant aggregation because of its superior pitching strength. In Rip Carver and Walter Stockwell, Chief Guyon has two of the most capable hurlers in the series, and even though the Central lads blasted out a 30-6 win over Anacostia, it was not facing such a pair of curve and fast ball artists as the Lincoln Parkers are presenting today.

But Central has a flinger who did a great job against the Indians the last time out. He is little Dicky Rozelle. If Rozelle can stop Eastern today, Western's Red Raiders will move into first-place tie with the Guyon-coached team. And this would enliven the race for the crown. A win for the Easterners would practically clinch the title for the defending champions.

Central will be favored to take the Inter-High track meet because of its showing at the Maryland Interscholastic and "C" Club meets, but the work of Tech at Maryland was not discouraging to Coach Rusty Thompson. The McKinley lads scored 13 points, while the Mount Pleasant boys were registering 17½, to place Tech in a favorable position.

Again, in the "C" games, Central led the high school group by tallying 15 points, and Tech was runner-up with 5½. On the basis of these comparative scores it looks as though the host and defending champions, guided by Coach Hardie Pierce, will be the titleholders after the running of the finals Thursday.

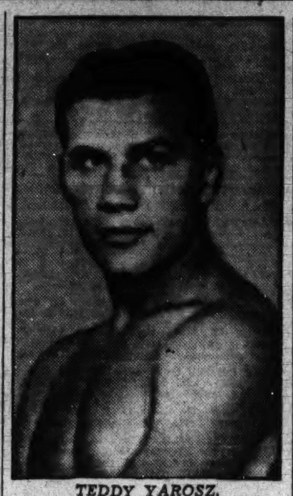
The program for the two-day meet follows:

Wednesday—Trials, 120-yard high hurdles, 100-yard dash, 440-yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles, 220-yard dash. Semifinals, 100-yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles. Field trials, pole vault, discus, javelin, high jump, shot put and broad jump.

Thursday—Final events, 100-yard dash, 880-yard dash, 440-yard run, 120-yard dash, 120-yard high hurdles, mile run, 220-yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles, 1-mile relay, pole vault, discus, javeline, high jump, shot put and broad jump.

Yarosz Will Meet Abrams—If He Gets $1,500!

By Lewis F. Atchison.



TEDDY YAROSZ.

It will be Teddy Yarosz, former world's middleweight champion, vs. George Abrams in the next ring feature at the ball park, if—pay close attention to this—if Promoter Joe Turner will guarantee the Pittsburgh paddywhacker $1,500.

Ray Foutts, who handles Yarosz's business, is agreed on everything else—date, distance and opponent, but wants more than a few Samoan seashells to show for his boy's efforts. He appears to hold the whip-hand in the matter, what with Yarosz up in the top flight, winning consistently and bidding for his lost chapeau in a manner that bodes no good for Champion Freddie Steele's peace of mind.

Yarosz is fighting regularly, unless the A. P. ticker plays the same record every Wednesday night, and has enough work booked to keep him busy throughout the summer without coming to Washington. Hence Foutts, in effect, has issued a "take-it-or-leave-it" ultimatum to the promoter.

But cagey Mr. Turner, who has been around long enough to know that fifteen hundred is serious sugar, isn't picking up any hot potatoes in an unguarded moment. Turner may be sentimental about a lot of things but not about paying off the talent. The old maestro, who, it is rumored, is down to his last yacht and a wrestler or two, wants to mull over the matter, sleep on it, and give it appropriate attention.

Speaking through Mr. Goldie (Gilt-edge) Ahearn, his personal amplifying system, Turner has offered the Foutts-Yarosz combine a straight guarantee of $1,000, and deems it sufficient for anybody against a soft touch like Abrams. He doesn't say so, but it's not difficult to see that Turner regards money earned boxing Abrams nothing short of a gift, and if Foutts can read between the wrinkles of their correspondence he'll realize how one grand looms up in the promoter's mind.

Ahearn, however, is definitely pulling for Abrams after recovering from the shock of seeing Lou Gevinson side-tracked by Petey Sarron. He vows if Yarosz can be lured to Washington Abrams will prove to the public that he is a better ringman than generally believed. Ahearn's views are strictly unofficial, however, as commission rules forbid him from having a supporting interest in nothing more than the box-office.

Abrams, incidentally, worked out yesterday at the Capitol Boxing Club, a light, airy gym operated by Harry Brill and Danny Baker at 519 Morse street. He boxed two rounds with Buddy Baker, and spent the rest of the time in routine work.

Manager Syd Fishel claims he's purposely held back the boy while bringing him along, ordered him to go distance rather than try and win by knockouts, but that new orders have been issued for George's next scrap—whoever the opponent happens to be.

"I'm going to let him have his head," Fishel said yesterday. "Let him punch and belt 'em out if he can, and he's going to make you fellows eat your words."

Personally, we hope he's right. We haven't had a good word since our last argument with Povich.

and Rick Ferrell on first with one out, Pinch Hitter Goose Goslin sent Rightfielder Steinbacher back to the fence for his line drive. Ferrell, for no reason at all, started galloping around the bases and was easily doubled off first by Steinbacher's throw.

Meanwhile Almada, on third, who had only to cross the plate and bring in a run before Steinbacher's throw to first retired Ferrell for the third out, merely jogged. Two feet in front of the plate he stopped to watch the play at first and suddenly discovered that the third out had been registered before he himself had scored.

It was sour base running by both Ferrell and Almada.

Leonard's knuckle ball, which had been lambasted in Boston and Cleveland, fooled the White Sox for only two innings. In the third, he pitched a two-bagger to Bozie Berger and then wild pitched him to third. Then he saw Steinbacher's grounder take a freak hop over Travis' head and evolve as a fluke double. Then he pitched a home run to Gerald Walker to bring that fellow out of his batting slump. That tied the score at 3-3.

The Sox came back for more against Leonard in the fourth inning—and got three more. Hayes and Sewell rapped out singles and Stratton beat out a bunt and sent in a run when Leonard tried to make a play at third despite the fact that nobody was covering the bag.

He struck out Werber, but Kreevich lined a single to left to score another run, and Appleton was waved in. The Sox made it 6 to 3 when Stratton scored from third on Steinbacher's high bounder to the box.

They made it 7 to 3 in the fifth, when Owens singled and Hayes doubled and then, as we said before, they knocked Hogsett loose from three entirely superfluous runs in the ninth.

Measles May Force Johnson to Miss I. C. 4-A Events

New York, May 24.—An attack of measles may keep Ben Johnson, Columbia's brilliant sprint ace and captain, out of the sixty-second annual intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field meet here June 3 and 4, it was indicated tonight. Johnson, winner of the I. C. A. A. A. 100 and 200 yard dash and the running jump titles in 1937, is confined to the college infirmary.

Carl Merner, Columbia coach, declared, that the Negro senior positively not start in the Columbia-N. Y. U. encounter . . . the Lions' final dual meet of the season next Saturday. He was rather pessimistic concerning Johnson's competing in the I. C. 4-A championship. Even if Johnson starts at Randall's Island two weeks hence, it is doubtful whether, in his weakened condition, he will be able to repeat his brilliant triple victory of 1937.

Johnson's illness, which kept him on the sidelines at the heptagonal games in Princeton last Saturday, deals what amounts to a death blow to Columbia's hopes for an outdoor I. C. 4-A team crown. Winners of the indoor title this last winter, the Lions finished runner-up by the eye-lash margin of half a point to Pittsburgh last June.

Miss O'Steen Wins at Net

Beats Mrs. Miller, No. 2 Seeded, in Tourney.

Another upset was recorded in the Star City of Washington tennis tournament yesterday at Army and Navy as play in the women's singles moved into the semifinal round.

Willie O'Steen public parks player, provided the form reversal by eliminating Mrs. Dorette Miller, No. 2 seeded performer, in straight sets, 6—4, 6—4.

Otherwise the matches ran true to form with Sara Moore, No. 1 seeded public parks champion, defeating Elinor Finckel, 7—5, 6—0; Margaret Robinson, No. 2 seeded player, rallying to down Margo Lee, young Vassar graduate, 4—6, 6—0, 6—1 and Winnie Sutter turning back Cynthia Davis, 6—1, 6—0.

Miss Sutter, incidentally, is gaining new followers daily with her consistently fine performance. Coming from Jacksonville, Fla., with a fine reputation that preceded her in this, her first local tournament, she has more than justified it. So far in three matches she has dropped only five games, while turning in a love set in each.

Today's program lists two semi-final matches in the doubles, both at 11 o'clock. In one Miss Moore and Miss Suttie encounter Miss Lee and Miss Ellis and in the second Mrs. Miller and Margaret Robinson engage Cynthia Davis and Jean Wilmerding.

Grin and Bear It

Contract Bridge

By Mrs. Ely Culbertson

Capitalizing an Opponent's Error.

The expert does not garner as many points from his own excellent play as he does from seizing upon the mistakes of his opponents. In the average game many errors are not fatal only because the courtesy is returned from the other side of the table. Take, for example, declarer's silly mistake in today's hand. Against many players it would have been inconsequential. But it was declarer's misfortune this time to be up against a defender "who knew what it was all about."

West, dealer.

The bidding (neither side vulnerable):

West	North	East	South
1 ♡	2 ♣	Pass	5 ◇
Pass	Pass	Pass

North's two club overcall was pretty sketchy. South probably allowed for that possibility when he jumped directly to game in diamonds.

West opened the heart king and, when the singleton appeared in dummy, shifted to a low spade. Declarer took East's queen with the ace, ruffed a heart and drew one round of trumps. Then, apparently feeling that he should leave one trump in dummy (for what purpose I cannot say), declarer started the establishment of the club suit, his hope, of course, being to create a discarding spot for his own third spade. He led a club and, when West ducked (improperly) finessed with the nine-spot, East winning with the queen. It was East's choice of return leads that determined the fate of the contract. If East, with superficial analysis, had returned a spade in the hope that West had the king, declarer could not have missed; he would have won with the king, drawn trumps and then led another club. The entire club suit would have been solid on the drop of West's king. East, however, did not miss this opportunity so kindly extended to him by the declarer. The latter's play of the club suit had been proof that he did not hold the club king, hence West must have that card. Also, declarer would not have finessed with a singleton to a dummy that was devoid of entries. The thing to do then, East correctly reasoned, was to kill dummy's club suit while the defenders still retained trumps. If that were done, whatever club tricks the defenders had could not get away. East returned a club and declarer, too late, realized how foolish he had been to leave any trumps outstanding. West's club king forced the act, and now there was nothing declarer could do to avert defeat. Another club lead, with the discard of a spade, would lose to a ruff, whereas to draw the outstanding trumps would merely leave declarer with a losing spade.

It is a specious detached house of 8 rooms and 2 baths, on a lot 50 by 140. Modernly equipped with hot-water heating, electric refrigeration, gas, electricity, etc. Very convenient to shopping and transportation. A new brick home in one of the city's highest elevations and best neighborhoods. From the rear of this house you enjoy a view for miles around. There are many outstanding features, such as air conditioning, built-in bookcases, stone fireplace, panel walls in living and dining rooms and a most attractive recreation room and bar, in addition to three well-lighted bedrooms and two beautiful colored tile baths.

CHEVY CHASE, D. C.
(In the heart of a Woods.)
An outstanding builder and a competent architect have combined their skill and produced in the heart of a delightful wooded setting, a Williamsburg home worthy of its early Tidewater predecessors. If you seek a home that combines outdoor liveability with an equal charm within, you will be intrigued with the Colonial atmosphere of this one.
A practical floor plan includes 4 bedrooms, 4 baths, large living room with its early American fireplace, sun-flooded dining room, kitchen, maid's room, laundry service. The panel recreation room and bar has a full ceiling height and full-sized windows—a door opening on to a flagstone terrace. The terraced garden on the rear wooded hillside offers an unequaled retreat from summer temperature.

Bob Burns Says—

I don't suppose a day goes by that somebody don't call me up or come around to see me and tell me how to invest what little money I have left and tell me what's wrong with the investments I've made so far. That's one thing I admire about my own folks. They do mind their own business.

One day, Uncle Hod was going to town and he saw a fella sittin' at the edge of the pond, fishin'. Uncle says "Any luck?" The man says "No." Late that evening, when my uncle was comin' back, there was the fella still sittin' there fishin'.

My uncle says "Any luck yet?" The man says "I ain't got a bite—are there any fish in this pond?" Uncle Hod says "Well now, I don't know, brother. You see, before yesterday's big rain that pond wasn't there."

Baltimore, May 24 (AP).—A prankster who apparently knew fire department practice sent in a false alarm—then used the fire department code to indicate it was a three-alarm fire. Twenty engines responded, then wondered who the culprit was. Only department executives are supposed to be able to turn in multiple-alarm calls.

Vocation Work Overstressed, Educators Say

In many schools for the handicapped throughout the Nation children have to do so much work that education necessarily suffers, it was brought out yesterday at the Conference on Educational Problems held at the Office of Education in the new Interior Building.

While agreeing that a certain amount of work and the learning of occupations is desirable, the heads of schools for the blind, schools for the deaf, and the industrial schools in attendance asked that they be considered as educational rather than institutional.

Dr. Ignatius Bjorlee, superintendent of the Maryland State School for the Deaf, said that students there no longer have to do the laundry work and dishwashing of the school. But Dr. C. E. Rankin, superintendent of the North Carolina School for the Deaf, reported that the students there have to produce $5,000 from the printing plant each year.

"The exploitation idea has been pretty thoroughly sold to generations before us and the attitude still remains that youngsters in industrial schools must 'pay the price' for having committed some act of delinquency," said Paul S. Blandford, superintendent of the Virginia Industrial School for Boys.

Mrs. Roosevelt took part in the morning discussions. She was eager to know whether the schools received any Federal assistance, and was told they did not. The question of whether they should share in the use of Federal and State appropriations for vocational education will be taken up at today's session, with Dr. John W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education, as chairman.

Mary Dewees, superintendent of the New York State Training School for Girls, stressed the need for community co-operation. Dr. M. Lavinia Warner, principal of the Blossom Hill School at Brecksville, Ohio, said that the work at her schools is backed up by the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Sayre Defends Trade Program, Reed Attacks It

Hull Aide Cites Gains; Representative Fears 'Face-Saving War.'

Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Sayre last night defended the Administration's reciprocal trade agreement policy and protested against its being made "a battleground of politics."

At the same time Representative Daniel A. Reed (Republican), of New York, was assailing the undertaking as "futile" and declaring the groundwork for a "face-saving" war is being laid.

Sayre, addressing the World Trade dinner at Cincinnati, Ohio, declared the program has been regarded "by economists and statesmen throughout the world as one of the most constructive movements anywhere toward world recovery and world peace."

Calling the disposal of American surpluses a fundamental problem, he listed the 17 reciprocal treaties that have been put into effect to date and cited increases in trade which had followed their negotiation.

In 1936 and 1937, he said, United States exports to trade agreement countries increased 41.9 per cent over the previous two-year period, while exports to nontrade agreement countries gained only 25.9 per cent. Agricultural exports to the treaty countries in 1937 were up 40 per cent over the 1935 figures, while such exports to all other lands declined by 4 per cent.

The New York representative declared that "the assertion made by those in power that war can be averted only by permitting foreign nations to invade our markets with their cheap products is an appeal unworthy of men in positions of government authority."

"The United States, burdened as it is with a crushing national, state and local debt, is today by far the highest cost production country in the world.

"With our Nation so burdened and handicapped, how are the products of the American workingman and the farmer going to sucessfully compete in our own unprotected market and in the foreign markets with the low cost products of foreign farm and factory?"

"Already the people see the Roosevelt Administration urging large appropriations for armaments, preparatory to the day of reckoning, the day when the loss of the domestic market under the trade agreement plan and the scarcity program force the Administration to choose between shouldering the blame or reverting to the ancient device of armed conflict as a face-saving alternative."
